Ordered CIA files destroyed--Colby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Central Intelligence Agency Director William E. Colby says he ordered the destruction of various CIA files in 1973, including some records of its illegal activities, according to an interview in The Washington Post.

However, Colby said in the interview published Sunday that he regarded it as a routine step at the time.

"Even before 1973, prior to that time, people had been burning up collections of files that we really had no business owning," the Post quoted Colby as saying. "This is a natural process of any bureaucracy."

In an interview with The Associated Press in January 1974, Colby said the spy agency had destroyed all but one of its tape recordings made during the period of the Watergate affair.

"We had periodic destruction of our tapes," he said in that interview. "Over the last 15 years, we have made tapes, but periodically they were torn up the way you tear up old notes or checks after income tax time. And we have not made any tapes in the past year."

With the benefit of hindsight, Colby told the Post, he recognizes that he should have reported the missteps to the Justice Department.

The Post also quoted Colby as saying the CIA conducted a hurried, cursory check of CIA misdeeds in the wake of the Watergate scandal and failed to tell the White House of its findings.

Describing the first investigation of CIA misdeeds spurred by the Watergate scandal, Colby told the AP Thursday: "This collection of our prior problems started on the ninth of May 1973 with a memorandum from Mr. (James) Schlesinger (then CIA director).

"Mr. Schlesinger was named the next day to be secretary of defense so I carried it on from there although he obviously didn't walk out the next day. Then they (the CIA inspector general's office) made an initial collection by the end of May and those were the things that I basically operated on."

Janet Carr is winner of title

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Janet Jay Carr, 21, Miss Pomona Valley, was crowned Miss California before a pageant audience of 3,000 late Saturday night.

It was the second consecutive year that the Miss Pomona Valley entry went on to win the Miss California title. Lucienne Buchanan of Claremont was the 1974 title holder.

Miss Carr, a 21-year-old Cal Poly student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Carr. She is a junior at Cal Poly, studying communications.

Miss Carr received a $500 scholarship for winning the Miss Pomona Valley title, in mid-April.

"I'm so proud to represent the State of California," beamed the 5-foot-7 brunette as she was crowned at the Santa Cruz Civic Auditorium.

Miss Carr, of San Gabriel, won the swimsuit contest in earlier competition and for the talent category sang "Summertime" to a receptive audience.

She will represent California in the Miss America Pageant on Sept. 6 in Atlantic City, N.J.

As Miss California, she will receive a $2,000 state scholarship award. She is a communications major at Cal Poly University-Pomona

First runner-up was Michele Sisk, 19, Miss San Diego County, and second runner-up was Terry Lynn Harman, 21, Miss Azusa.

Maoist demonstrators flee as troops leap from advancing armored cars outside Caxias prison in Lisbon Saturday. Portugal's military rulers announced they aim to set up a classless society but rejected violence as a way of achieving it. Troops fired shots and teargas.

South Koreans put on alert

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea has ordered all government employes on special alert for any possible military action by North Korea against the South, a government spokesman said Sunday.

The spokesman did not say whether the decree, which went into effect at 1 p.m. Saturday, was in response to any specific military action by the North.

The "third degree emergency duty" decree cancels all vacations and requires that government offices and factories be manned 24 hours a day.

President Chung Hee Park has warned that South Korea may be the next Communist target after Indochina.

Reportedly for Rhodesian army

American mercenaries recruited?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department official said Saturday night the department has asked the Justice Department to investigate reports that a Colorado firm is recruiting Americans to serve as mercenaries in the Rhodesian army.

Temple Cole, State Department desk officer for Rhodesia, said there was a possibility that the firm, Phoenix Associates, of Boulder, Colo., might be violating a law that requires agents of foreign governments to register with the U.S. government.

At the same time Cole said the State Department has no confirmation of a report that about 60 Americans already are serving with the Rhodesian army in its fight against blaca nationalists.

He said Phoenix Associates has been placing advertisements in U.S. magazines offering information packets on opportunities for adventure-eager Americans in Rhodesia, the Middle East and elsewhere.

"We are aware of the Phoenix Associates operation," Cole said. "The whole thing is under investigation by the Justice Department to see if there is any violation of U.S. law."

The official said there was no indication that Phoenix Associates or its head, Robert K. Brown, is registered with the federal government as an agent of Rhodesia.

However, Cole said that if Phoenix Associates was merely providing information instead of actually recruiting mercenaries for Rhodesia, such registration might be unnecessary.

"Apparently he's (Brown) been reasonably careful in what he's done so far," Cole said.

Brown is a former U.S. Army special forces major with extensive combat experience in Vietnam. Also, he has said that he worked with various Cuban exile groups in the Miami area during the early 1960s.

He could not be reached for comment.

Boxcar, load of barley burn

Units of the Chino Fire Department, Ontario Fire Department and state Department of Forestry were called out to fight a unique fire Saturday afternoon — a boxcar filled with barley on a knoll near Hellmen Avenue, south of McCarty Road.

Hellman Avenue is split by the San Bernardino-Riverside county lines, so the alarm brought units from both counties.

Firemen said that Roland Reynolds of Anaheim had bought an old boxcar and was using it for storage.

Chino Fire Department received the alarm at 12:22 p.m. and sent three units. Because of lack of water, Ontario was asked to dispatch its 1,000-gallon tanker, and three forestry units fom Corona joined the firefighters.

Weather

Mostly sunny today and Monday, but some low clouds near the coast tonight and Monday morning. Overnight lows about 55. Highs 80. Slight smog predicted. Sunset today 8:06 p.m. Sunrise Monday 5:44 a.m.

Fad growing among women

Tatooed lady no longer a circus freak

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "Death Before Dishonor" on the bulging biceps of sailors is on the wane at Portland's only tattoo shop. Delicate flowers and butterflies on women are in.

Operators of the Portland Tattoo Studio say the number of their women customers has skyrocketed in the last five years, so that women now account for half the studio's business.

"And they're not the Rose the Riveter type of gals," said store manager Howie Steinhart. "They come from all walks of life. They are young businesswomen, secretaries, college students.

"We recently had a mother and daughter who wanted the same tattoo on the upper shoulders of their backs. We even had in a grandmother and granddaughter for matching tattoos."

In nearly all cases the women want their tattoos small, colorful and on parts of the body which generally are covered — inner thighs, breasts, backs and buttocks.

Steinhart's wife, Bernice, and Dee Brown, wife of store owner Duke Brown, handle all the women's art work. A small tattoo costs $10 to $25 and takes only 15 to 30 minutes to put on.

One young woman said she got a quarter-sized strawberry tattooed on her inner thigh because her husband thought it would look sexy. A young bank teller got a Tweetie Pie put on one breast "because I think it's groovy."

Very few women want the name of a boyfriend or husband. Instead, they choose butterflies, flowers, a toy animal, doves, seagulls, zodiac signs, flowers and red lips.

Those who decide they don't like their new look can get the tattoos removed by plastic surgery or by salabrasion, a painful process that involves rubbing the tattooed area with salt.

"I'd say 90 per cent of the women who get tattoos never want them taken off," Brown said.

Pomona taxpayers facing big increases

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A day-long budget session by the Pomona City Council Saturday resulted in no major changes in the city's proposed $19.8 million budget, but sharply defined the fiscal difficulties to be faced by the city next year.

As each of the city's department heads and administrative staff presented their portions of the poposed budget it became increasingly clear that Pomona taxpayers probably face substantial increases next year in the municipal tax rate, water rates and, possibly refuse collection rates.

A change in the city's water rates could come as early as next January since the water department is already cutting sharply into its reserves to meet operating costs.

James Van Wagner, manager of the water department, told the council that the city is, in effect, subsidizing the price of water by $400,000 per year and could enter next year with almost no working capital.

There has been no water rate increase in the city since 1962 and the city's rates are the lowest in the valley area. The council directed the city staff to prepare a rate increase ordinance for consideration next Januarv.

On the brighter side, Van Wagner told the council that the city is in very good shape for the extended future in its ability to meet all the water needs of residents and industry.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce told the council that the proposed budget is being balanced by maximum use of reserve funds in alt departments and 100 per cent use of all available revenue sharing funds. That option will not be available next year since the reserves in the proposed budget are minimal.

Police Chief F. P. Wallich presented a report that focused dramatically on the critical crime problem in the city. Last year, said Wallich, there were more than 8,000 crimes committed in the city and all indications point toward an 11 per cent annual increase through the end of the decade when more than 13,000 major crimes will be committed each year.

The proposed budget will allow that addition of four sworn officers for the police department. Wallich had requested 12.

"This is a catch up budget. We're just trying to handle the called for services," he said.

In the council discussion that followed Wallich's remarks, it appeared that the city may be on the verge of establishing closer working relationships with probation and juveniles authorities in an attempt to control the increasing neighborhood problems in Pomona.

Public Works Director Ronald Kranzer and Fire Chief John Fowlkes reported that the budgets for their departments are a continuation of current services with no new projects.

Fowlkes said that he is pleased with the fire cadet program and that it has assisted the department in the recruiting of qualified personnel, especially minorities.

In an attempt to lessen the difficulties that loom for next year, it was agreed by the council and Gonce that all existing personnel vacancies and vacancies occuring after July 1 will not be filled without council approval.

That policy will apply to all city departments with the exception of the fire and police departments.

Councilmen Benjamin Ochoa urged the department heads to be as innovative as possible in finding ways to operate with reduced staff.

Revenues for the proposed budget include about 26 per cent from the municipal tax rate (based on the current $2.459 per $100 of assessed valuation), about 30 per cent from sales taxes and various permits and licenses, about 16 per cent from charges for current services, approximately 10 per cent in state monies, 10 per cent in federal revenue sharing funds, with the balance of the city income from reserves and miscellaneous revenues.

The first public hearing on the proposed budget will be h eld Monday night at the City Council meeting at 8 p.m.

Huge profits during Arab embargo, says paper

Sparkman and Carey linked to oil deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cox Newspapers said Saturday night that an old friend of Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama and the brother of Gov. Hugh Carey of New York reaped millions in profits in a secret and disputed oil deal during the Arab oil embargo last year.

The newspapers' Washington bureau said that Sparkman and Carey, both Democrats, applied political pressure on the Commerce Department and the old Federal Energy Office to approve the deal, according to three sources then employed by FEO.

The dispatch, by Jean Heller, said Sparkman acknowledged he interceded to help a constituent, and that Carey denied through a spokesman that he had anything to do with the matter.

"The Commerce Department's Office of Export Administration made the deal possible by approving three licenses which allowed Sparkman's friend, Alabama oilman Bart Chamberlain, to sell cheap domestic crude oil at inflated prices to a refinery in the Bahamas controlled by Hugh Carey's brother, Edward M. Carey," the dispatch said.

"This was done at a time when refineries in the United States were starving for crude oil and when the crude that Chamberlain shipped to the Bahamas were covered by federal price controls.

"The licenses enabled Chamberlain to circumvent the price controls. He sold Carey's refinery almost one million barrels of crude frozen domestically at $5.10 a barrel for an average price of $13.51 a barrel.

"Edward Carey refined the crude, most of which became industrial fuel oil. He imported most, if not all, of that fuel oil into the New York area where he sold it to utilities at even further inflated prices. The utilities simply passed on their high costs to consumers in the form of increased electric bills."

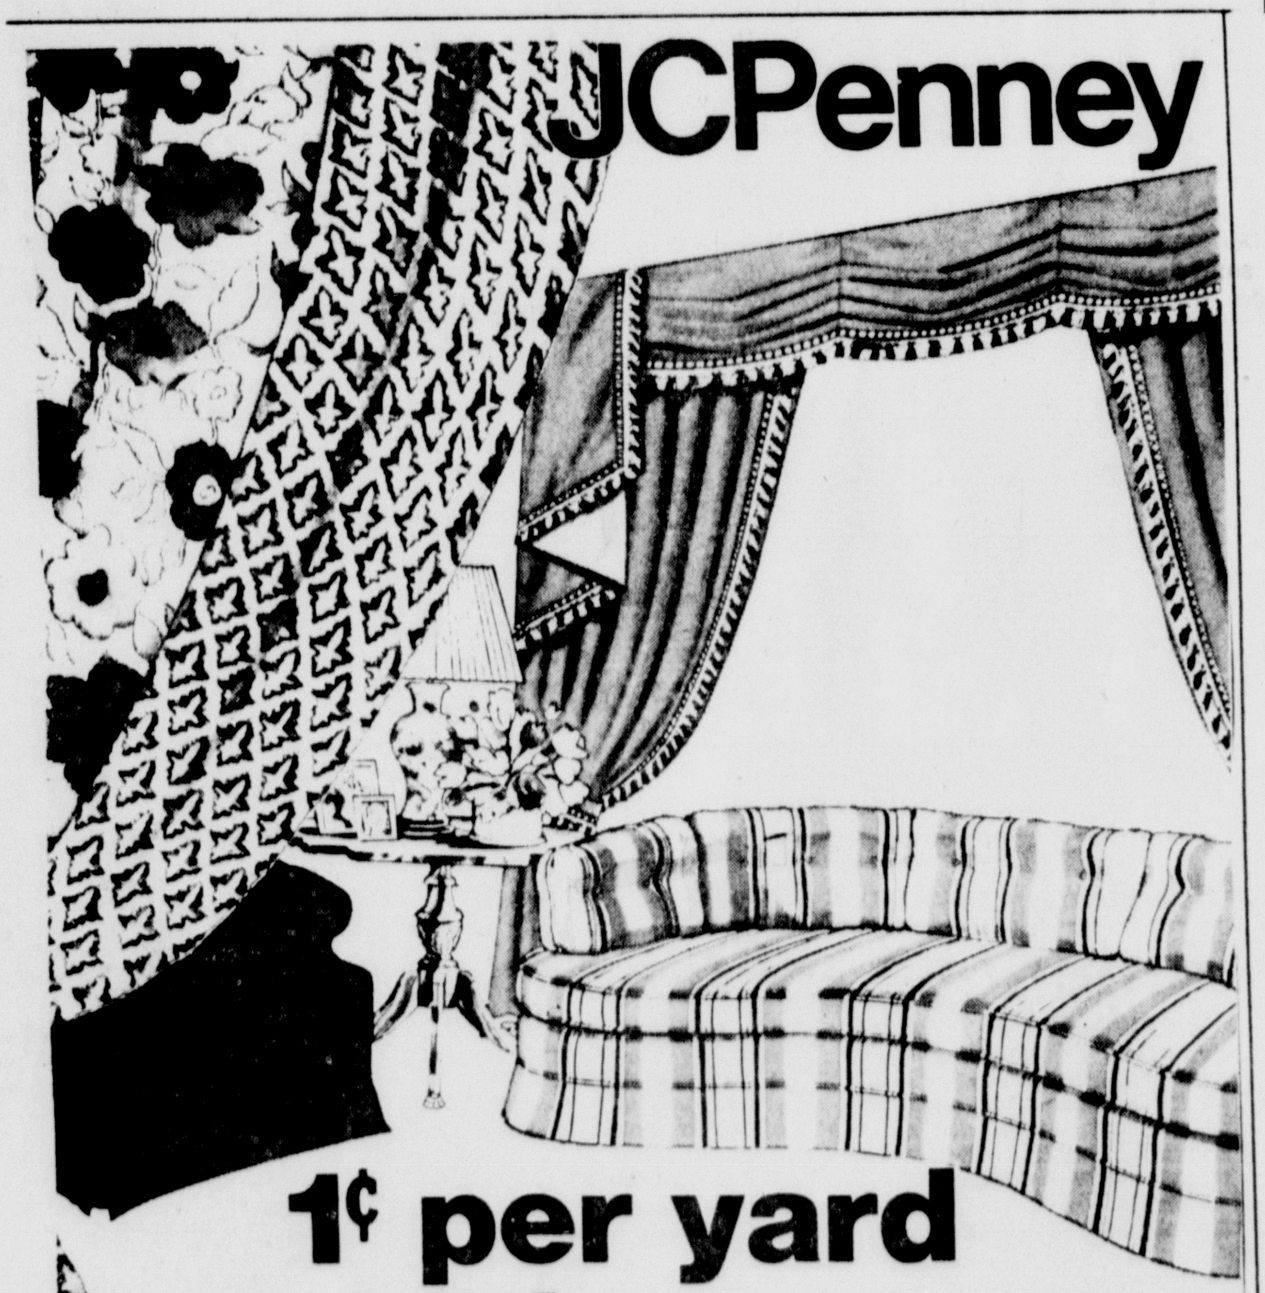

After Chamberlain's firm, Citronelle-Mobile Gathering Corporation of Mobile, Ala., obtained its first export license in December 1973, the account said, the transaction came to the attention of FEO whose officials objected vehemently.

But in the face of continuing pressure on both the Commerce Department and FEO, the predecessor to the Federal Energy Administration, it continued, officials backed down and two more licenses were issued to Chamberlain's company in January and February 1974.

Cox Newspapers said its sources as to political pressures are two former FEO officials and one still with the energy agency; it said all asked not be to named.

The account said evidence of Sparkman's intercession was obtained through interviews with the senator and other officials, and through documents obtained from the Commerce Department under the revised Freedom of Information law.

Alcohol cause of sterility

Alcoholism is almost certainly a cause of male sterility in the United States, according to research recently published by Dr. David H. Van Thiel, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cuilhe of Pomona.

Dr. Van Thiel and Roger Lester, who shared the research project at the University of Pittsburgh, say they have found high levels of a female hormone in the blood and livers of men who drink excessively.

They say it may explain why such men acquire feminine physical characteristics and, in some cases, become impotent and sterile.

Dr. Van Thiel, delivering a paper before some 4,000 doctors attending a conference in San Antonio, Tex., on digestive disorders, described the results of a two-year study at a Boston hospital.

The physician said that alcohol stimulates the liver to produce estrone, a female sex hormone. This hormone also blocks vitamin A, which is necessary for the formation of sperm.

The estrone level in chronic alcoholic men in Boston was three times as high as in a test of a group of normal males, Dr. Van Thiel said.

The physician attended St. Joseph Elementary School and graduated from Pomona Catholic High School in 1959. He attended Pomona College and graduated from the UCLA Medical School in 1967. He is an assistant professor at the University of Pittsburgh.

Sadat says he was warned by Soviet, U.S. against war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says in an interview to be published Sunday that the Soviet Union warned him four times against attacking Israel within its 1967 borders.

Have also said that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "warned me during the 1973 war that the United States would fight against us on Israel's side if we moved to annihilate the Israeli force west of the Suez Canal.

"Kissinger told me that he United States would never allow Soviet weapons (used by Egyptian forces during the 1973 war) to defeat American arms (used by Israel)."

In the interview, with Bassam Frieha, general manager of the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar which is carrying it in Sunday editions, Sadat said that Kissinger and President Ford "harbor no animosity toward Egypt" and praised their efforts to arrange a peace settlement in the area.

But he also expressed doubts that the United States will be able to achieve such a settlement, and said that Israel lacked a strong leadership capable of proceeding on with peace arrangements with the Arabs.

Sadat claimed that Israel was working to "oust Kissinger, because he is the living witness of its defeat. Israel has worked for the failure of the Kissinger mission."

Speaking of his ties with the United States, Sadat denied he was giving the Americans any naval facilities in Egyptian ports.

"I follow a policy of neutrality and I refuse to go into the game of the big powers," he said.

Sadat admitted the Soviets were given naval facilities in Egyptian ports "because of their pro-Egyptian stance after the 1967 defeat" in the war with Israel.

"But why should I give the Americans any such facilities?" he asked.

Sadat said he would allow Israeli cargo in non-Israeli ships to transit the Suez Canal, "but this would be granted only after Israel shows good intentions with tangible steps toward a peace settlement."

The question of permitting Israeli merchant vessels to use the canal would be considered "only within the framework of an overall peace settlement between the Arabs and Israel," he added.

Sadat also conceded his relations with the Soviet Union were going badly. He warned that Egypt might reconsider its 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation with Moscow if the Soviets continue to ignore requests for rescheduling Egypt's debts.

Egyptian debts to Moscow are said to amount to $4 billion, almost exclusively for arms imported since 1967.

Sadat added that the Soviets were "giving others the arms they had denied me." He was referring to a huge arms deal signed recently between the Soviet Union and Libya. Sadat added that such deals would cause him to reconsider his treaty links with the Soviets.

Gas firms told to show records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven major natural gas producers have been ordered to turn over confidential records of their gas reserves to a congressional panel after thwarting efforts by the Federal Trade Commission to obtain the same records.

The subcommittee that subpoenaed the records is investigating whether the natural gas industry has been underestimating U.S. natural gas reserves in order to persuade the Federal Power Commission to allow higher prices.

The trade commission has been trying to obtain many of those records since 1970 but the companies have been successful in court actions in keeping the information confidential.

No progress with Syria in talks by Kissinger?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam concluded their meetings Saturday with no sign they made any progress on restarting the Middle East peace negotiating process.

Khaddam came to the United States as part of President Ford's reassessment of the American Middle East policy ordered after Kissinger's step-by-step effort to arrange interim settlements between Israel and the Arab states broke down.

What effect Khaddam's visit will have on the reassessment is uncertain but it was clear after Saturday's breakfast session with Kissinger that the secretary was concerned over the slow pace of the talks.

"We reiterated as the President has stated repeatedly that the United States ... would oppose any stagnation and stalemate," the secretary said.

This has become an American signal, one State Department official explained, of dissatisfaction over the attitude of some of the nations in the Middle East.

Kissinger was asked after the breakfast if any progress had been made in the talks, which included a meeting Friday.

South Pomona hoodlums

City maps attack against juvenile gang

Police and city officials are looking into complaints by Pomona residents that their neighborhood is unsafe due to juvenile problems.

Complaints by residents on a south Pomona neighborhood were made to the city council nearly two weeks ago and were the subject of a Progress-Bulletin story last Sunday.

Pomona Police Chief F. P. Wallich said officers have contacted the residents and are investigating the complaints.

"Action is being taken. We will do everything we can within our power," said Wallich.

Although he declined to explain exactly what measures are being considered, Wallich said that he would make a detailed report to the City Council concerning the problem in about two weeks.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce said that health and juvenile authorities would also be looking into the problem.

As an off-shoot of the neighborhood problem in south Pomona, Gonce said he contacted the District Attorney's office and asked that a representative be appointed for the formation of a community conflict resolution team.

Gonce explained the team concept would include members from various agencies, including police, juvenile authorities, probation officers and counselors, and would meet on a regular basis and try to work out neighborhood problems before they get out of hand.

He said that in many cases small irritations between neighbors can become major problems if not resolved over a long period of time.

If the team is formed, its work would be similar in nature to the type of neighborhood counseling the city's Office of Community Relations has undertaken in the past.

Basically, team members would go into a neighborhood, contact residents and find out what the problems are.

Team members then could decide what approach to use in alleviating the problem, whether it meant police action, or counseling or some other action.

Gonce said that he would like to see one person appointed to each of the various geographic areas of the community to serve as a liaison between the community and city hall, so that the city would become aware of potential problems before they erupt.

He stressed that if such a plan is approved, the liaison worker would not be a spy for the city or police, but would simply communicate the feelings and problems of residents to city hall from the various neighborhoods.

Car crashes into home; driver held

Louis Marquez, 37, of 11269 Essex Ave., Pomona, was booked for drunk driving at West End jail after his auto left the road and entered Campbell's home at 4255 E. Grand Ave., about 1 a.m.

Highway patrolmen said Marquez was unhurt in the accident, and no one in Campbell's house was injured.

Marquez, a forklift operator, was traveling westbound on Grand, officers said, when his car made a sudden left turn, jumped a curb and bolted through the home.

Patrolmen reported "major damage" to the front and interior of the house, due to the accident.

Uganda leader will reconsider execution

LONDON (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has agreed to reconsider the death sentence imposed on a Briton accused of calling him a "village tyrant," the British Foreign Office said Saturday night.

Britain's high commission in Kampala, capital of the East African nation, reported the development shortly after two British army ofsicers met the president and handed him a message from Queen Elizabeth II, the spokesman announced.

He said Lt. Gen. Sir Chandos Blair and Maj. Iain Grahame, who once commanded Amin when he was a sergeant in the 4th King's African Rifles in British colonial times, had been allowed to see the condemned man, 61-year-old Denis Hills, a retired university lecturer who has lived in Uganda for many years.

Hills told the officers that he had been "very well treated" while under arrest, the spokesman added.

"We are glad that President Amin has agreed to reconsider the death sentence of Mr. Hills," the Foreign Office said in a statement. "We hpe that this reconsideration will result in a reprieve."

He was sentenced to death by public execution by a five-man military tribunal that found him guilty of treasonable acts against Amin and the military government.

Ugandan radio said the execution is scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday (5 a.m. EDT) in the area of Kampala that was the scene in 1898 of the execution of 27 Moslem Sudanese soldiers who mutinied while serving under the British. The British call it "Mutineer Gully," while Ugandans call it "Execution Valley."

Six arrested for setting fire in street

Six persons were arrested and charged with arson early Saturday when West End Sheriff's deputies discovered a bonfire burning at the intersection of 24th and Center streets, Cucamonga.

Investigation reveated that fuel for the fire was county road signs which had been ripped up from along the road sides, and several persons were gathered around the fire.

Arrested and booked at West End jail in Ontario on $5,000 bail were Henry Anguino, 18, of 9885 Jersey Ave., Cucamonga; Arthur Santibanez, 8803 London Ave., Cucamonga; and Richard Moreno, 24, of 12002 Ashford Ave., Etiwanda.

Three juveniles were booked into juvenile hall.

2 hurt in bar fights, woman held in assault

Two persons were treated at San Antonio Community Hospital early Saturday after suffering cuts in beer bar fights in separate incidents.

Melinda Rose Hacker, 26, of 1451 S. Virginia Ave., Ontario, was charged at West End Sheriff's Substation on a count of assault with a deadly weapon after she was arrested at Club 66 in Cucamonga.

Betty Kathleen Porras, 24, sustained a cut on the forehead which had been inflicted with a drinking glass and was taken to the hospital by aubulance for treatment.

In a later incident, Palos Alfonso Ortiz and his brother-in-law went to El Canto Bar, Cucamonga, to drink beer and play pool.

Ortiz reportedly was accosted by two other men wielding broken beer bottles.

He suffered a cut on the forehead and a four-inch gash on the forearm.

Nixon and Pat celebrate 35th anniversary

A Nixon spokesman was unavailable to say how the couple spent their first anniversary since Nixon's resignation.

Blind baby 'sees' with new sonar device

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A baby blind since birth now can "see" his favorite toy and reach out accurately to take it in his hands.

Dennis Daughters, 8 months old, "sees" much like a bat does, by broadcasting silent sounds that return as audible echoes. The echoes tell him where things are, and other knowledge about the world he cannot see.

It's all done through special equipment within a kind of beanie cap worn on his head.

Dennis is apparently the first blind baby in the world ever to experiment with an echo-sounding or sonar device, says Dr. Tom Bower, a Scottish psychologist who conceived the project. He believes a blind baby learns to think better if he knows early how to move about in his world and to reach for things.

Dr. Bower enlisted the aid of Telesensory Systems Inc. (TSI) in Palo Alto which supplied the equipment free of charge.

A beam of ultrasound is broadcast to and from a transducer system, about the size of a half-dollar and weighing only 1½ ounces, in the middle of a headband on the baby's forehead.

Objects struck by the beam return echoes, which then are translated into audible sounds, conducted through plastic tubes to the baby's ears. The sounds are a repeated series of pleasant little whistles. They are quite subdued so the baby can also hear everything else around him, including his parents' voices.

The echoes tell:

—The distance of an object, through pitch of the sound. The closer the object is, the lower the pitch.

—Direction, because an object to the right of center produces a louder sound if something is more to the right than the left. So Dennis knows if something is more to the right than lef, or can "focus" straight upon it by turning his head until the sounds are equal.

—Size, by the intensity of the echo when he is looking directly at it. By moving his head slightly, he can define the edges of it, where echoes diminish.

—Surface. Hard, smooth objects echo back a clear, pure sound. Fuzzy surfaces sound "mushy."

Hence, Dennis can identify his favorite toy, a rubber caterpillar with six projections or spikes on it, with a soft side that he likes to rub against his cheek, a side that produces a squeak under pressure. He can distinguish it as against an object of similar size, both about as big as a man's hand, Dr. Bower says.

Dennis likes to stand on his mother's knee, receiving a strong signal when he looks directly at her. He's learned he can "turn her off" by looking to one side, then "turn her on" again by looking directly at her. This is his peek-a-boo game, producing smiles and giggles.

Our world, the psychologist continues, is organized in space. If a baby has no vision for the first 18 months of life, he never "organizes" or understands his world in a spatial way.

"We believe the cognitive or thinking process is tied up with motor processes. If they receive poor quality of information from sounds, they are handicapped."

MELODY DAUGHTERS AND DENNIS WITH SEEING SONAR

TSI is the U.S. and Canadian distributor of the Sonicguide for the blind, a pair of modified spectacle frames that incorporates the electronics for broadcasting ultrasound and making audible sound from the returning echoes, fed to each ear. They are manufactured by Wormald Vigilant, Ltd., of Christchurch, New Zealand.

Designed as an adjunct to the blind person's guide dog or cane, the Sonicguide "sees" things up to 12 to 20 feet away. The beam produces echoes from objects 40 degrees, or sometimes more, on either side of center of direction of the wearer's eyes.

Matt Magoun, an electronics engineer and international service coordinator for TSI, adapted the equipment for the blind baby. He reduced the range of echo-sounding to six feet, since Dennis is only now just beginning to crawl, and needs no information yet beyond that distance. Magoun made other adaptations, using some older equipment than in the production spectacles of Sonicguide.

As a first experimental prototype for the blind baby, no attempt was made to produce a sophisticated article, he says, and the baby's head kept growing so rapidly that the headgear had to be made easily adjustable.

The device operates from an eight-ounce, rechargeable battery, which Dennis' mother either holds or puts on the floor.

"You can't tell a baby what you want from him," Magoun says. "There he was, suddenly presented with a new stimulus. He's a bright boy and learned pretty quickly. We're guardedly optimistic about producing some new effects he can cope with."

Dr. Bower shares the same hope, saying "the baby seems to realize he is getting information through it. Sometimes he wants information. Other times he wants his mother to do things for him."

"He is fascinated by new places, people and things, scanning about with his head to take them in. And like a sighted baby, he is sometimes bored with his surroundings."

A sighted baby usually can reach out accurately for things at about age five months, so Dennis is not far behind. He can put out both hands to accept something, Dr. Bower says.

Baby Dennis has several rattles, preferring one of the size and texture that he likes as a teether. He can pick it out, says Dr. Bower, when it and another rattle are held in front of him.

Dennis was first fitted with sonar device at age 14 weeks, and has usually worn it for five to 15 minutes in twice-a-day training sessions for the past 18 weeks. For a month of that time, there was very little training when the remarkably intelligent boy was down with flu and colds.

Centro de recreo para la juventud

La Junta Educacional de Chino aprobo un credito de $9,400 en su reunion del martes por la noche, para ayudar a crear un fondo con el proposito de crear un centro de recreo para la juventud de los barrios.

Los senores concejales de la ciudad habian destinado la misma cantidad en el presupuesto municipal con el mismo proposito a principio de mes, en tanto que los administradores escolares habian pospuesto su accion, pendientes de un informe sobre el estado de los fondos de los servicios para la comunidad.

Previamente le habian informado al concejo que habia un remanente estimado de $6,000 en la cuenta. Ellos expresaron algun disgusto cuando descubrieron que en lugar de superavit, la cuena tenia un deficit de $14,607.

El voto unanime del concejo fue no solo aprobar el fondo, sino proveer todo lo necesario para nivelar el balance general de la cuenta de los servicios para la comunidad.

El centro de recreo juvenil esta localisado en el GI Cafe, en las calles Quinta y D. Con su creacion se espera eliminar la violencia en los grupos juveniles del barrio, guiando a la juventud con programas constructivos.

Se calcula que el costo del centro sera de unos $26,800 durante el primer ano, proveidos en la cantidad de $8,000 del presupuesto de la Comision de Recreo, y el resto en la misma proporcion de $9,400 cada uno, del Municipio y de la Junta Escolar.

El programa del centro estara bajo la direccion del Departamento de Recreo, asesorado por un con sejo local. La nomina del centro inclye un Director y dos Auxiliares, ayudados por voluntarios.

Fue aprobada una formula para mantener abierta durante todo el ano la escuela superior Buena Vista, con acceso abierto a los estudiantes y atencion personal, en modulos de tres semanas.

El proyectado modulo de tres semanas permite flexibilidad en la asistencia, permitiendo alos estudiantes coordinar sus planes con los vacacionales de sus familias, les dan oportunidad de trabajar, o de asistir a la escuela cuando cesen en sus trabajos. El programa empezara el dia 7 de julio.

Agencia reparara y revendera las casas abandonadas

Un nuevo proyecto para resolver el problema de las casas abandonadas fue aprobado en la noche del lunes por el concejo de la ciudad de Pomona, por el acuerdo entre el municipio y una agencia benefica para reparar y revender 10 casas vacantes.

Por el acuerdo, la ciudad comprara 10 cases del Departamento de Casas y Dearrollo Urbano (HUD) e inmediantamente se las vendera a Open Choices, una agencia de servicio gratuito de Pomona.

"Open Choices", con la ayuda de un constructor, reparara las casas en un termino no mayor de 90 dias, poniendolas a la venta para particulares.

Un contrato por la cantidad de $355,089 le fue concedido a la firma de Steiny y Co. para la instalacion de nuevas luces de transito en las intersecciones de Primera y Reservoir, Primera y Avenida East End, en las avenidas de San Antonio y Lincoln, y en las avenidas de San Antonio y La Verne. El contrato tambien senala modificaciones en los semaforos localizados como en 12 diferentes lugares.

Los padres, integrantes del Consejo de Accion Comunal de Chino, tuvo el soporte de 29 ciudadanos de la localidad, quienes firmaron una peticion solictando que el senor Moreno sea nombrado jefe de la policia. Algunos de los peticionarios son miembros del CAC.

El Sr. Frank V. Meehan, el Jefe actual, abandonara Chino el dia 30 de junio, para ocupar similar posicion on Redondo Beach.

El requerimiento y peticion de la CAC se origino al tener noticia de que el Administrador de la Ciudad, Sr. Robert Fast, anuncio que el municipio contratara un consultante independiente para reclutar el nuevo jefe. La busqueda se producira en todo el Estado.

La firma consultante, Griffenhagen y Kroeger, ayudara en la compafia de anuncios proponiendo el empleo hasta finales de agosto, tiempo limite para presentar las solicitudes para el puesto. La revision de los expedientes que se presenten se berificara en septiembre, y despues de seleccionar al candidato mejor capacitado, se llenara la posicion en Octubre.

CAC representante, Sr. Louis Monsivais, dirigiendose al Municipio, solicito que el Sr. Moreno "sea considerado seriamente" para jefe de la policia. "En 18 anos de servicio, ascendiendo de policia a capitan, ha demostrado su habilidad para trabajar con la comunidad, y los ciudadanos han expresado sus buenos deseos de trabajar con el," dijo el Sr. Monsivais.

Bullring rarity

Third 'moment of truth' fatal to Foxy

Foxy was a fighting bull. He was so brave, and fought so well, against Manolo Espinosa "Armillita" on Feb. 5, 1966, that Armillita asked officials of the El Progreso Bull Ring in Guadalajara to spare Foxy's life.

Fighting bulls are not allowed to breed before they enter a ring. A bull who shows exceptional bravery in a fight is sometimes spared so he can be put to pasture to breed others like him.

Foxy, who was 4 at the time, was sent to a tranquil life in the pastures of Javier Garfia's famous bull ranch where he was born. Armillita was symbolically awarded Foxy's ears and tail as a token of the excellence of the fight.

It is rare for a bull to be granted an "indulto" or pardon because the whole purpose of a bull fight builds toward the climactic moment when the matador must expose himself to the horns in order to lunge over them and plant a sword in the bull.

It is even more unusual for a bull, once given pardon, to fight again. Fighting bulls are intelligent, cunning animals. They learn quickly, as a Spanish saying goes, "to attack the meat instead of the cloth."

But a year later Foxy was brought from retirement to face Armillita again.

Again Foxy was brilliant and brave. Again Armillita asked that Foxy's life be spared. Again El Progreso officials agreed.

And again Foxy went back to pasture.

Armillita is not one of Mexico's most famous bullfighters. He is a journeyman who is used to fill out cards topped by one of the big names. He cannot make heavy demands on promoters.

Promoters of an unusual Saturday fight (most bull fights are on Sunday afternoon) needed a gimmick. Someone remembered Foxy.

He had already fought twice. He was very old for a fighting bull. He had spent eight years as a seed bull and some of his grandsons had already had their moment of glory in the ring.

Bullfight critics in the Mexico City newspapers said it was the first time in the recorded history of bullfighting that the same bull had been fought three times in a major plaza. And they said old Foxy again proved his mettle. He was especially fast and dangerous and showed more stamina than many much younger animals.

But this time Foxy was doomed.

Offer $500 for first one caught

Hope reclaimed river will yield salmon

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Wanted! Dead or Alive! Salmon caught in the Connecticut River.

Up and down this historic waterway, fishermen have their eyes peeled for Atlantic salmon, one of the top sporting game fish in the world. Catching one could net some lucky angler up to $500 under a federal-state program to return the salmon to its native waters.

The fish disappeared just after 1800 when the first industrial dams were built on the river, blocking the salmon's return to spawning grounds as far north as the Canadian border.

With the waters clean enough to support salmon, four states and the federal government are trying to restock the river.

A reward of $500 is being offered for the first live adult salmon turned over to authorities. The next 19 live fish will bring $100 each. The first 40 dead ones are worth $25 apiece.

Since the start of the program in 1967 over 500,000 baby salmon grown from Canadian eggs have been raised in the Connecticut's tributaries. But only one fish is known to have returned and it died.

Live fish are more valuable because of the eggs they yield. But even dead ones will give the fish experts some proof the fish are returning.

At the same time, fish ladders are planned at five electric company dams, the first to be ready this summer at the Rainbow dam on the Farmington River.

Salmon will be captured in traps and used as egg sources until the fish population returning each year is large enough to support itself.

Salmon, which spend two winters in the Atlantic Ocean, reach weights of 12 pounds and lengths of 29 to 32 inches. Another year of feeding near Greenland can boost them to 40-inch 25-pounders.

Returning the 1,000 miles to the Atlantic seaboard, the fish "smell" each river as they swim south and enter the river they recognize as home. There they seek a clean gravel bottom with rapidly flowing water to drop their eggs.

But with the construction of a dam at Hadley Falls, Mass., the salmon cycle came to an end.

"During the industrial revolution virtually every stream in the state was dammed. This was true all up and down the coast," said Cole Wilde, chief of fish and waterlife for the Connecticut Environmental Protection Dept. The fish, unable to reach their spawning grounds, died and the genetic pool for the Connecticut River disappeared.

Send-a-kid-to-camp

Fifty-two local needy children will attend camp this summer at Bluff Lake in the San Bernardino Mountains thanks to the contributions of Progress Bulletin readers.

The Donrey Public Foundation Inc. conducted the drive but you as readers contributed the funds to send the children to camp. During the first Send-a-kid-to-camp drive over $3,100 was collected.

It cost $60 to send one child to a week of summer camp. At camp children will fish, swim, hike, water ski, and attend chapel. In addition they will learn arts and crafts and will play and work with children their own age.

Children being sent to camp are local needy children. They are children whose financial and environmental background makes it impossible for them to attend camp without financial help.

Often the children you are now sending to camp come from broken homes or homes where one parent has deserted the family and the other parent is working to keep the family together. In most cases the income of the families is barely sustenence level.

At Bluff Lake camp the children will receive three nourishing well-balanced meals per day. They will also receive snacks and other small items children enjoy at camp.

Children will be attending camp from July 5 to July 12. They will ride buses from the valley to Bluff Lake and will return the same way.

Children going to camp have never been before and thanks to your contributions they will experience at least one week of happiness and fun for this summer.

Valley water bill goes to Gov. Brown for signing

A state measure that would require a "pump tax" on water withdrawn from the Chino Basin to finance studies on how to stabilize the water level is being delivered to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. for his signature.

State Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., sponsored the bill, which passed through the Senate and Assembly without opposition.

The measure seeks to assess a fee of $2 per acre foot on water drawn through the 1976-77 fiscal year to finance a study needed to speed a solution and conservation program.

"We are now losing about 70,000 acre feet of water per year, and in future years this really could create a crisis," Ayala said. "This may be the salvation of the valley."

The senator said the measure is "self destructive" as it terminates once $400,000 in taxes has been reached. To extend it further would require another act by the state legislature.

"This is the most substantial piece of legislation I have carried this year," he said. "Water is most vital to the valley."

Ayala had some opposition to the program initially. But this was dissolved following a series of public hearings.

The Chino Basin extends from eastern Los Angeles County to Fontana and Mt. Baldy to the Chino Hills and Santa Ana River. Officials estimate that the average householder will pay 10 cents per month under the assessment.

The measure provides for an investigation, including a system analysis, to develop and test on a pilot basis an operating and management plan for water resource in the basin, he said.

The Chino Basin Municipal Water District will conduct the assessments and have the primary responsibility of administering the program. The district, in turn, will be assisted by an advisory board to include representatives of the basin's users.

Officials said the basin study may include the verification of present production, safe yields, location of water recharges and a revenue procedure to best finance a water supply program.

Some 2,000 pumpers are presently drawing 200,000 acre feet of water per year from the basin. A "safe yield" is estimated to be 130,000 acre feet, leaving a yearly deficiency of about 70,000 acre feet.

Of the amount drawn, 35 per cent is pumped by cities, 50 per cent by agriculture users and the balance by private companies, "mutuals," districts and individuals, said officials.

To compensate for the overdraft, the basin receives about 12,000 acre feet per year from the Colorado River, most of which is used by the Southern California Edison Co. for its steam plant. The basin, however, will no longer be required to rely on this low quality water since high quality water from Northern California soon will become available from the Metropolitan Water District's Rialto Reach.

Officials claim there is room in the basin to store two million acre feet of water. This can be stored safely underground to avoid loss by evaporation and could be available for use in later years.

Since the Ayala measure was carried as an emergency bill, it would go into effect immediately when signed by the governor. The senator said Brown should receive the bill this week.

Seek solon probe of brakes law to boost jobs here

In an effort to reopen the Freightliner truck assembly plant in Chino, Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., has called for a congressional hearing on new truck brake standards and suggested a tax reform for trucks.

Lloyd visited the plant last month and met with management and labor representatives. The work force has dropped from 1,100 workers in September 1974, to nine at present. sent.

Freightliner officials have blamed new federal brake standards which increase truck prices from $1,500 to $3,000 per unit as a major factor in the declining sales.

Lloyd has requested a review of the new brake standards by the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation. He also asked the House Ways and Means Committee chairman to consider repealing the 10 per cent federal excise tax on new trucks and the eight per cent tax on truck parts to neutralize the added cost of new brakes.

Valley handicapped to head for camps

Youngsters from the valley will be among the first group of campers to participate in two-week resident camping programs of the Crippled Children's Society which begin Monday.

Youngsters will attend either Camp Paivika in the San Bernardino Mountains near Crestline or Camp Joan Mier, on the coastline above Malibu.

Activities for the handicapped campers include swimming, horseback riding, camp-outs, nature study and creative arts and crafts.

More than 600 disabled children and young adults will have camping holidays this summer as a service of the Crippled Children's Society which has conducted camping programs for 30 years.

Vacations are completely without charge to children's families and are funded mainly through contributions to the annual Crippled Children's Seal Campaign.

Campers in the first session from the area are Steven Jackson, 10, Hacienda Heights; Jane Moreau, 11, and Raymond Moreau, 9, Pomona; Lori Carlson, 8, Glendora; Deidre Loncar, 10, Pomona; Gina Mikel, 8, Glendora; and Douglas Huff, 9, San Dimas.

Panel studies freeway tunnel closure

A pedestrian tunnel, popularly known as "the rathole," which goes under the San Bernardino Freeway at Mountain Avenue soon may cease as an escape route for criminals.

Claremont's Traffic Safety Commission has agreed to a study by the Pomona City Engineering Department before the tunnel is closed, or gates installed to allow access only by school children.

Pomona City Engineer Edward R. James in a letter to Claremont Public Works Director Paul Cook suggested that a permanent closure would be appropriate if there are serious problems.

James said that although the tunnel is in Claremont, Pomona has removed grafiti from its walls.

James enclosed a letter from a Pomona resident who complained of many petty thefts in his neighborhood and that thieves are using the tunnel as an escape hole to the north.

Claremont Police Chief Charles R. Lines said it would be "extremely difficult" to document the number of times that the tunnel has been used an escape route by thieves or potential thieves from the north side of the freeway.

Lines said the tunnel is "extremely frustrating and difficult to control" since the only access to it is from San Bernardino Avenue in Pomona.

Lines said he would vigorously recommend closing the tunnel as an escape route.

A recent count revealed 12 children southbound in the morning and 9 southbound in the afternoon, 52 northbound in the afternoon and nine in the morning.

Cook said that installing gates would be a solution only if the tunnel were located close to a school which could be responsible for locking and unlocking the gates.

In other actions, the commission recommended that the bike path on the west side of Cambridge Avenue south of Bonita Avenue be removed because it isn't working.

Cook said that cyclists going north use the east side of the street as they were trained, and only 60 to 70 percent of the southbound traffic use the lane.

Residents of Cambridge Avenue apartments are opposed to the bike path because they feel the berm causes problems such as parking, U-turns and access to driveways.

May building permits up

Residents of Pomona were issued 112 city building permits for dwelling alterations and additions which represent a $169,100 valuation.

In addition, two more permits were issued for swimming pools for a $8,500 valuation and three for residential garages or carports, valued at $5,600.

For May, the city issued 146 permits with a $285,187 valuation. This boosts the year's five month total to 826 permits and a $3.1 million valuation.

This compares with 161 permits and $187,326 valuation for May 1974 and five month 1974 totals of 739 permits and $1.9 million valuation.

Other permits issued last month included: additions and alterations to non residential structures, three permits and $5,300 valuation; signs, three, $1,420; and all other permits, 20, $93,777.

Major projects involved installing fire sprinkler systems in two buildings at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds at a cost of $48,360 and building fire doors and two-hour rated walls at Pomona Valley Community Hospital at a cost of $28,997.

Bus service for elderly will start Monday

NEW SERVICE FOR ELDERLY

Checking one of the mini-buses which will be used beginning Monday for transportation of elderly persons in La Verne, Claremont, San Dimas and Pomona to medical appointments, government offices and shopping are, from left, the Rev. Leland Holland and Miss Dorcas Turner, both volunteer escorts, and Lloyd L. Rochambeau, Claremont Manor administrator. Service will be stressed for low-income and minority persons 60 or older. Reservations for the service must be made at least a day in advance.

Mini-bus service, intended to reach the isolated elderly persons in Claremont, Pomona, La Verne and San Dimas is scheduled to begin Monday.

The federally-funded project, an escort transportation service, is being sponsored by four area homes for the aging — Claremont Manor, Hillcrest Homes, Mt. San Antonio Gardens and Pilgrim Place — and the county Department of Senior Citizen Affairs, a funding agency.

The four retirement homes and the Claremont Red Cross will donate mini-buses on a rotating basis Monday through Friday between 8:30 and 5 p.m. for trips to medical appointments, government offices, shopping and other necessary outings.

Priority use of the service will be given to low-income and minority elderly.

Application for the grant was made by Claremont Manor. The program is being operated under the name of the Baldy View Community Services for the Aging.

"Lack of transportation to move around the community can isolate persons as completely as if they were bedridden," commented Lloyd Rochambeau, administrator of Claremont Manor. "Many older people do not drive, and public transportation, where available, is often difficult for them to use because of physical frailty or simply because they are afraid to venture outside alone."

Residents of the four homes and others in the community are being given the opportunity to serve as volunteer escorts on the trip.

An escort will go with the mini-bus to pick up the person and accompany him on the trip.

Rides can be arranged by reservation the previous day by phoning 596-1159. Anyone who would like to volunteer as escort may also call that number.

New urgency to privacy issue

Aside from all its other implications, the Rockefeller Commission's report on illegal activities by the Central Intelligence Agency has given new urgency to the "privacy issue."

This is something that concerns every citizen, for few of us do not have our names, ranks (income, education, et.) and serial numbers (Social Security, driver's license, et.) stored in a myriad government and private files.

So far, the only major legislation in this area, the Privacy Act of 1974, deals solely with government-compiled information. However, a broad-coverage bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives that would do for the private sector what the Privacy Act did for the public sector.

Commenting on the proposed legislation, Dale H. Learn, president of Information Science, Inc., which claims to be the nation's leading designer of "Human resources systems," notes that legislation is clearly required to insure that the privacy of the individual is not transgressed and to prevent the unauthorized and unwarranted use or dissemination of employe data. He suggests two ways this could be done:

1) By setting up tight security systems for keeping files under lock and key, whether they are computerized or manual.

2) By permitting employes to see the information in their files so that they may review, question and correct it if need be.

But as for the widespread impression — or fear — that a lot of the personal information contained in corporate and business files is unnecessary and irrelevant, if not downright false, Learn's experience has been that this is not so.

In the 10 years his company has been designing employe information systems for many of the nation's largest corporations, it has never, he says, been asked to include such data as political activities, standing with the Internal Revenue Service, credit ratings or the like. On the contrary, the information kept on employes is relevant to the jobs they hold and is "employe originated" for the most part.

The computer, Learn contends, may actually be the key to the "repersonalization" of society. "The computer will enable the movement away from treating citizens and employes in impersonal mass groups and back toward the individual assessment on the basis of qualifications, capabilities and preferences."

There is a need to prevent erroneous information from being immortalized in the computer, he admits, but the collection and use of employe information have little if anything to do with the right of privacy as long as appropriate security measures are observed.

Reusing used oil

It may be a small step in conserving oil, but it could be a sizeable leap at solving one part of the pollution problem. This is the pilot program launched by a major oil company aimed at encouraging the proper disposal of used motor oil.

Most car owners have their crankcases drained at service stations, where the old oil is stored until it is hauled away for recycling. No problem there.

However, a growing number of do'it'yourselfers are changing their oil at home, and are either putting the discarded oil out with the trash or pouring it down the sewer. This is a problem.

To help solve it, Continental Oil Co. recently initiated a used oil disposal program in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Its stations in the area will accept containers of used oil from any motorist who wishes to leave them. To make things easier, the stations offer at cost (33 cents) a special five-quarter container for transporting the stuff. The used oil is stored in underground tanks at the outlets and is later picked up by a recycling firm which refines it for other uses.

Another benefit of the program is that the several cents a gallon the recycling firm pays for the used oil will be donated to local agencies such as the cancer and heart funds.

If the program works well in the Twin Cities area, it may be expanded to other parts of the country and it is hoped that other oil companies will follow the lead.

FBI used burglary, too

WASHINGTON — There have been whispers around Washington that the FBI, like the CIA, has occasionally used burglaries as an investigative technique. We have now nailed down one illegal FBI break-in.

It happened some four years ago during a flurry of bombing threats against synagogues and death threats against Jewish leaders.

The FBI, called in to investigate, became suspicious of a known bigot a few miles from Washington, D.C. Tipped off that he might be plotting violence against Jewish leaders, an FBI break-in squad entered the bigot's dwelling illegally in search of incriminating evidence. The burglary attempt was faked to look like an ordinary housebreaking.

Words of the FBI break-in reached Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., during the Senate Watergate investigation. Thinking the incident might have Watergate overtones, Baker asked committee counsel Sam Dash to check into it.

Dash confirmed from official sources that the FBI committed the break-in but that it had nothing to do with Watergate.

Footnote: Presented with our information, Dash acknowledged his role in the incident. The FBI refused comment.

THURMOND'S REVENGE: We recently described the plight of a lowly Pentagon officer, Lt. Col. Wilfred Ebel, who made the mistake of antagonizing Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C.

Old Strom, you see, is no ordinary senator. He is also a spare-time, two-star general, the commander of Capitol Hill's bay window brigade, the beau de guerre of the congressional cloakrooms. No military hero is more honored by the Pentagon than is Thurmond who leads the Army's legislative battles in the Senate.

The unfortunate Ebel, as part of a confidential study of the Army reserves, criticized one of Thurmond's comrades-in-arms. Ebel portrayed Maj. Gen. J. Milnor Roberts, the Army reserves chief, as lazy and incompetent.

From on high on Capitol Hill, Old Strom snorted with displeasure over such heresy. He protested to Army Secretary Howard "Bo" Callaway, an able, amiable fellow, who knows where Army appropriations come from.

Callaway obligingly brought down the Pentagon roof on Ebel's head. The Army Inspector General was turned loose not against Roberts, who was accused of mismanaging the reserves, but against Ebel who had dared to say so. Ebel's name also was dropped from the promotion list, his Pentagon job was yanked out from under him and he lost a bid to become executive director of the Reserve Officers Association.

When we reported all this, the Thurmond apparatus turned upon us. We were assaulted with telephone calls and letters from the Pentagon, Capitol Hill and other strategic places. The general theme, omitting the abuse, was that we had exposed the wrong man and that we should have taken Roberts' side against Ebel.

Old Strom himself sent out letters accusing us of "extreme exaggerations and falsification."

Meanwhile, the obliging Callaway, with an eye still on Old Strom across the Potomac, tried to soothe Roberts' ruffled feelings by awarding him the Army's highest noncombat award, the Distinguished Service Medal.

Our report on Roberts, however, wasn't based upon Ebel's evaluation alone. Not only did we check with our own independent sources in the Pentagon, but we have obtained still another official evaluation which Callaway must have thought was safely buried in Army files.

Gen. Bernard Rogers, who heads the Army Forces Command, also conducted a study of Roberts' operation. This study, which was submitted to the Army Vice Chief of Staff, backs up Ebel's evaluation.

The Rogers study charges that Roberts, office caused "the needless waste of tens of millions of dollars in training costs."

On Nov. 4, 1974, for example, Rogers' command handed down to Roberts "122 troop actions designed to eliminate units which were poor performers and which were excess to Department of Army force requirements." Yet four months later, only eight of the money-saving actions had been taken while "114 remained incomplete," the report alleges.

The study, unusual for its blunt language, concludes "the current system has almost ceased to function." And much of the blame is laid squarely at Roberts' door, particularly with respect to his failures in getting units in combat readiness.

Yet this same Roberts, who allegedly helped to waste tens of millions of dollars, received the Distinguished Service Medal from Callaway. And Roberts' implacable champion is none other than the old economizer himself, Sen. Strom Thurmond.

Footnote: We asked Roberts for his comments. He acknowledged there had been delays in eliminating money-wasting units. But he cited documents showing other Army officers were also responsible for the delays. He claimed that he had been merely "a nice, convenient scapegoat" for the Rogers report. "It sounds as if it's simple," Roberts said, "but it's not. The system needs to be improved. The Army is loaded with bureaucracy."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: President Ford has told subordinates that he will press Congress for a full $100 billion military budget, as evidence to the world that the United States isn't planning any more pullbacks . . . Before Congress votes more military money, some legislators intend to ask tough questions about the billions worth of equipment abandoned in South Vietnam . . . The special prosecutors who tried the John Connally bribery case had to take private lessons in how to select a jury before they went into court. They botched the case because of their inexperience, legal veterans have told us . . . To try to block further gun laws, the National Rifle Association is circulating a "national opinion survey on crime control." But the questions are so phony that even some gun control backers are embarrassed.

Just in jest

As the timeworn cliche goes, "Where there's a will there's a way." In fact, when it comes to survival in these financially troublesome times, a lot of folks are demonstrating that there's more than one way to kill their geese and collect their golden eggs.

In the throes of imminent bankruptcy, New York City is temporarily postponing the evil day by offering attractice discounts to property owners who pay their taxes early.

In Las Vegas, some casinos are now employing roving card shufflers so that dealers can concentrate on dealing an average of 20 per cent more blackjack hands per hour.

In Paris, France, the prostitutes are demanding social security and old age pensions.

Back here in the United States, a lot of erstwhile upper class Americans are today postponing starvation by eating out on their dining cards and then running like hell when the bill collector arrives. Less fortunate citizens are eating dog food.

And finally, an ever increasing number of folks are surviving the easy way. As a consequence, the burglary rate in the U.S. has increased thus far in 1975 to one every 12 seconds.

Our pioneer forefathers who crossed the plains in covered wagons definitely wouldn't understand. So it is probably a good thing they are not still around to listen to today's jet-age travelers complaining about the hardships they face as they rough it all the way across America on economy flights. — "Imagine," said one, "having to go all that way with only a box lunch to sustain you and, worst of all, not even one glass of free champagne."

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions. It costs you nothing. Write to Heartline, 8514 North Main St., Dayton, Ohio, 45415.

Heartline: I used to get disability benefits but they stopped 3 years ago when my condition improved. Now, at age 60, my health is failing again and it looks like I'll have to stop work. I remember reading something about not having to wait five months for the benefits to start if you become disabled again. Is that right? A.N.

Answer: In your case, yes. If a worker becomes disabled a second time within five years from the time the benefits stopped, there is no 5 month waiting period. Your benefits would start with the first full month you are disabled. If you do have to stop work, reapply for benefits right away at your Social Security office.

Heartline: I am 71 years old, live with my daughter and her husband and receive $70 a month from Social Security. Would I be eligible for Supplemental Security Income? E.F.

Answer: You may be eligible for SSI depending on whether or not you have any other income and the value of any property you may own. The fact that you live in the household of another and that you are receiving Social Security benefits would reduce your SSI benefit amount, should you be eligible.

Heartline: Where can I get information about the Supplemental Security Income program? G.A.

Answer: Write, call, or visit any Social Security office. They will give you literature on the new program and answer any questions you might have on eligibility.

Heartline: Can I continue receiving my Civil Service pension if I move to another country after retiring? M.C.

Answer: Annuity checks can be mailed to annuitants living in most of the foreign countries. Since there are a few restrictions, you should contact the Bureau of Retirement, Insurance, and Occupational Health, U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. 20515 concerning the country in which you would be interested in movinl to.

Heartline: Since I am receiving Supplemental Security Income, do I have to advise Social Security that I just moved in with my son and his wife? M.S.

Answer: Yes. Any change in your living arrangements should be promptly reported to Social Security as it may effect your benefit amount. Social Security also needs to know your new address to insure correct delivery of your checks.

Toads excellent exterminators

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since I'll never use any poisons in my garden, toads have been recommended to control the bugs. Are they practical? —I.B.

DEAR I.B.: Pretty practical, from a gardener's standpoint. Toad tidbits run the gamut of potentially destructive garden insects. So they are definitely beneficial garden pets. They need a secluded retreat during the day and you should put up some type of low fencing arrangement, since toads tend to wander a bit during their nightly forays.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is canned cat food which was accidentally put in the freezer safe to use? —L.M.

DEAR L.M.: Presuming the food was left in the freezer long enough to become frozen, your answer would depend on the condition of the cans when they were removed from the freezer. If the cans' seams were not stretched to the point of leakage, the contents should be safe to use. The food might be slightly less palatable since freezing would break down gelatin and starch, if any, within the food. If only a can or two is involved, it would be safest simply to dump them. Otherwise, evaluate each can carefully before and after it is opened. Eating spoiled food would certainly be more dangerous and more expensive in the long run(s) . . . if treatment were required.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Bo is as bad as any other dog my sister's had. Just like the rest, he's always looking for a fight. She says it isn't her fault, of course. She even showed me an article saying that fighting in dogs is an inherited characteristic. It still seems strange to me that her dogs are always so belligerent and none of them have ever been related. My dogs don't have that trouble. Wouldn't you say there's something wrong with the way she's raising her dogs? —S.F.

DEAR S.F.: Blaming Bo's belligerence on his heredity is scientifically sound, since fighting behavior IS genetically determined. Is it strange that all of your sister's unrelated canines crave battle? It may be unless you consider that your sister may be initially attracted to (and chooses) canines displaying considerable independence and aggressiveness. Odds are, too, she picks male dogs mostly, and they're more likely to be feisty.

Even though specific pooches are born, not made, environmental factors and training also play a strong part in modifying genetic behavior. A dog raised in a happy environment and receiving firm guidelines in potential problem areas will be less likely to develop aggressive tendencies than would the same animal raised in a less favorable environment.

Ann Landers

Terrifying experience to tot

Dear Ann Landers: May I add a word of advice for both mothers and sitters — on behalf of the child?

It can be very traumatic for a youngster to be left with a total stranger on a moment's notice. The sitter should be invited to the house as a guest to say hello a day or so before she takes on her first job with a new child.

It can be a terrifying experience for a little one to be left with a person he or she has never seen before. The sitter must then calm the child and reassure him, and this can be a difficult job.

So please, Ann, add this suggestion to your list of "helpful hints" for both mothers and sitters. —It Happened To Me

Dear Happ: Excellent suggestion. Thank you for writing. Your letter is a good example of how an ounce of prevention can be much better than a pound of cure.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with a man who is 27. We became engaged a short time after we dated — two and a half months, to be exact. We both felt we were just right for each other, so why wait? We announced our engagement last week and arrangements are being made for our wedding.

There's a problem that keeps me up nights. My fiance cannot seem to get over his former girl friend. They talk on the phone and see each other occasionally. I believe he is still in love with her. He refuses to discuss it, but I know something is there. I'm afraid I caught him on the rebound and he is too much of a gentleman to back out. How do I find out if I'm right or wrong? He's not a very good talker and I'm not a very good listener. This is a cry for help, Ann. —Three's A Crowd

Dear C: You are obviously beset with doubts, which is no way to go into a marriage. Cancel the wedding plans at once and give your fiance his freedom. If he really loves you and not the old flame you'll know it within a few months. It's easier, my dear, to reinstate plans for a wedding than to go through a divorce.

Dear Ann Landers: You sometimes print pet gripes which can be very useful because people learn from them. Here's mine: The Wrong Number.

I often wonder who these people are who make phone calls at 3:00 a.m. Either they are insomniacs or folks who work nights and sleep during the day.

It so happens that my husband and I work days and we need our sleep at night. This past month we have been awakened three times between 3:00 and 4:00 a.m. by some jerk looking for "Alice." Once that phone jangles us out of a sound sleep the night is shot. It also means feeling lousy the next day. It just isn't fair.

Please, Ann, ask your readers to dial with care — especially after midnight. It's the very least one can do for his fellow man. Thank you. — Red-Eyed This Morning.

Dear Red: Here's your letter and I hope it helps. Unfortunately, at least half of those wrong numbers (especially the jerks who are looking for "Alice") can't see the dial for the booze — so please don't expect me to produce miracles.

Erma Bombeck

Combinations for everything

In trying to pull a wardrobe together for my vacation, I ran into an incredible phenomenon — the preplanned, no-fault, can't-miss, color-coordinated basic wardrobe.

"This," said the salesperson, "is the Weekender. It has four basic pieces that will take you from a super casual afternoon to a formal evening. And here is the Fortnighter. It's an 11-piece coordinated collection designed to meet all the fashion requirements of a two-week cruise. This, of course, is the Around the World In 80 Days and 44 Pounds. It's 22 pieces that combine to make 156 outfits."

"This little stack of clothes weighs 44 pounds?" I asked.

"Of course not. The clothes only weigh 8 pounds. There's a 36-pound can of deodorant that comes with it."

"How does it work?" I asked.

"You just press the nozzle and . . ."

"Not the deodorant! The wardrobe!"

"Simple. Here is your basic pants suit. Take off the blouse, add the vest and you're ready for polo. Take off the slacks, put on the shorts and you're dressed for bicycling. Zip the lining into the shorts, add the halter and it's a bathing suit. Take the straps off the halter and it's a bra. Add a short skirt and you're ready for tennis.

"Now, turn the blouse inside out and it's a bathrobe. Turn down the cuffs on the slacks, take the belt off the overblouse and you're in your jammies."

"It certainly is versatile," I stammered.

"Versatile! Look at the accessories. This elasticized halter can get you a sun tan, but when pulled down over the hips is a girdle. Now, slip into the evening skirt, slip on this veil, and you're ready to be married. Or, slap a monogram on the jacket and you can pass for a member of the U.S. Olympic Chess team. The long skirt is plastic-lined. If you have to, you could convert it into a tent and live out of it for a week. Or snap out the sleeves in the overblouse and it's a caftan.

"Take off the scarf, roll down the sleeves of the blouse, put it on backwards, take off your underwear and it's a hospital gown. Trust me, there are enough combinations to mix and match for 80 days."

"What's this?" I asked picking up a small plastic kit.

"That's a kerosene and the box of matches for the 81st day or when the deodorant runs out . . . whichever comes first."

Dr. Lamb

Basics of body chemistry

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'd like some basic information about food and body chemistry. Just what does what do to what? There is such an amount of information or misinformation around about calories, cholesterol, saturated fats, unsaturated fats, animal fats, vegetable fats, protein, carbohydrates, and sooner or later, each substance is the evil one or the life saver, depending on who is writing or talking about it. I am completely confused.

I'd like to know what are the necessary substances, what are the beneficial ones, and what are the harmful ones? Which ones build the body? Which ones maintain it? Which ones destroy it? Am I correct in presuming that unsaturated (vegetable fats) are good fats and saturated fats (animal fats) are the harmful ones?

Is protein the body builder? If so, what type of protein food is available, low or without cholesterol, which I understand is present in large quantities in milk, cheese and eggs, which are high protein foods.

Along the same line, what is the difference between processed and unprocessed foods, such as cheese and flour? And what exactly does the term mean? Ice cream, coffee, tea, salt, pepper, gelatin, sugar — do these substances have any nutritional value? Do they have any harmful effects? Are there any guidelines along which one could discover just what has gone into a product, and this way conclude for himself whether the item is beneficial or harmful? I believe my ignorance and confusion over the subject is evident. Can you inform me?

DEAR READER — The first step to knowledge is confusion. I can't answer all your questions in one column. I will say that your letter exemplifies the general confusion of the public today. I'm crusading, you might say, for increasing people's knowledge of health — the big gap is in our educational system. It does seem to me that one of the most important things a person should learn, to cope with living, is how his own body works and how to take care of it. What could be more relevant, if I may use that word? Most of our school systems have little time devoted to this most important basic knowledge. The young people are interested, too, I have learned from my mail. They are like you and can't get solid information.

The subject is large. You will need to understand how food is processed or, as you say, what does what do to what. I have written two books on these topics. Don't buy them, just go to the library and ask for "Metabolics: Putting Your Food Energy to Work" (Harper and Row, 1974) for information on processing your food, and "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking For Health" (Viking Press, 1973) for information on food items, preparation and food values. You will find most of the questions you have raised discussed in those two books and the scientific reasons involved.

I would like to comment that, while it is generally believed that saturated fats are more likely to cause a rise in cholesterol levels, too much fat of any kind is not considered good. And, you can use fortified skim milk or low fat cottage cheese as a good source of protein without getting any significant amounts of fat or cholesterol in your diet.

Jacoby's bridge

Find winning line of play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North and South have nine of the easiest tricks possible at notrump, but most pairs would land at four spades with or without West's club overcall.

There are the nine tricks available at spades, but 10 are necessary.

The easiest place to find that 10th trick is in hearts. Just let the suit break 3-3 and South's fourth heart will become a winner.

South can do a trifle better than that. He can guard against a 4-2 heart break provided the man with the four hearts also holds three or four spades.

This should be enough of a hint to you to find the winning line of play. If you haven't found it, here it is.

South takes the first club, plays one round of trumps, leads a heart and ducks in both hands. He can't afford two rounds of trumps — some mean opponent might lead a third. And he can't afford to play out the high heart first — someone might get to overruff dummy.

After this start the contract wheels in. South gets in with a diamond, plays one more trump, continues with the ace and king of hearts and finally ruffs his last heart with dummy's last trump while poor East has to follow suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one notrump your partner has raised you from one heart to two hearts. What do you do now?

For Monday, June 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will be ambitious and rarin' to go today. Unfortunately, others will drag their feet and slow your progress.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be very tactful in expounding your theories today. People you rub shoulders with know your ideas aren't always practical. They'll tell you so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Watch your step in business dealings the next few days. Don't lay out cash till you've examined the merchandise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's unlikely you and your mate will see eye-to-eye today on an important domestic issue. One will have to compromise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make every effort in this period to stay atop your work. If you lag, it will be extremely difficult to catch up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be in an awkward situation today when someone tries to chide you into picking up the tab. You'll resent his tactics.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The world may jostle you a little roughly today. Absorb your lumps without taking it out on the family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being too temperamental could be your downfall today. If not careful, you could react with angry words you'd later regret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may be in a tight spot if you fail to keep current on obligations, especially if you're indebted to a friend in some way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll feel like you should be twins today to meet all demands of people pulling you in various directions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend who has done you a favor will want you to reciprocate today. Don't let it be obvious you resent the request.

Your Birthday, June 23, 1975

You will be determined to attain your goals and improve your lifestyle this year. Chances for success are good if you don't spread yourself too thin.

Australian chauvinism

Young lady, if you're a liberationist interested in emigrating away from the male chauvinism around here, better rule out Australia, too. In no other modern country do the men so dominate the daily work and play, I'm told. Australia still has countless gathering places, plain and fancy, where men but no women are allowed. The fellows there jealously think of themselves as the front-line soldiers. And the girls they regard as support troops only.

OLD WARRIOR CHIEFS in ancient England used to pick out special-duty soldiers by tapping their toughest fighters on the helmets. Each so tapped was called a "william." That's where the name came from, says our Language man.

DOG

Q. "What does that breed of dog known as the 'Turnspit' look like?"

A. That's no breed. Was any dog that people years ago locked inside a wire mesh treadmill attached to a barbecue spit. When the dog walked, getting no place, the wheel turned the roast over the coals. Miserable way to treat a dog.

USUALLY YOU think of fish as going around in schools or shoals. So how do you account for the fact that a group of trout is known as a hover? And that a batch of perch is called a pack? And that an assembly of smelt is simply referred to as a quantity? Peculiar.

THE HARD FACTS

Where you aware that the first colony of Germans to settle in the Western Hemisphere did so in Venezuela? . . . SOME RUDE LAD scrawled under the young lady's graduation picture: "Voted Most Likely to Concede" . . . IF YOU SUSPECT that more city kids than country kids skip school and more frequently, you're right . . . Pleasenote, food represents only about 5 per cent of the garbage you toss out, probably . . . THE VERY LATE report is that Winston Churchill smoked more than 300,000 cigars.

THE MARKETING BOYS queried a whole batch of people who own greenhouses to find out what they do and don't like about them. Answers differed, except on one matter only: They all said they'd made the mistake of buying greenhouses that were much too small.

AMAZING how sensitive are the measuring instruments in observatories. Take those in Heidleberg, for instance. They've proved that the observatory itself during the last 80 years actually has moved about eight inches farther away from the North Pole.

HOUSING

Not all housing experts agree that your basic housing bill — including mortgage, taxes and insurance — should amount to no more than 20 per cent of your monthly income. The FHA estimators say you ought to include maintenance costs, too. Gas, electricity and heating. And they say the total payments should amount to no more than 35 per cent of your monthly take-home pay.

Alaska pipeline's impact

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — By its sheer size and scope, the Alaska oil pipeline is oozing into every crevass and cranny of Alaskan life.

Cars with out-of-state license plates now line the streets of Fairbanks and Anchorage. Unemployment is high and prices, always high, are higher. More than that, say some, a way of life is changing.

There are now twice as many liquor stores as grocery stores in Valdez, the southern terminus of the pipeline. Alaska Airlines now operates through flights from Anchorage to Houston and Dallas. Yellow school buses ferry tourists around the Arctic Ocean oil fields, and vehicles with outsized balloon tires roll over tundra until recently reserved for the elk and the Eskimo.

The signs are everywhere. Divorce complaints rose 25 per cent last year in Fairbanks, and housing vacancies are almost a myth. Unemployment ranges from 7 per cent in summer to 11 per cent in winter, and school lunches went from 55 cents to 90 cents in the past three years.

And telephones. If the state had a theme song, it would be set to the rhythm of a busy signal.

It is called "pipeline impact" here, and it is only beginning. It already is straining social services and institutions, and it will largely determine the economic future of the land called Aleyeska, "the great land," by the Aleuts.

The trans-Alaska pipeline is the largest private construction project in the nation's history. At a cost of $6.1 billion, a consortium of eight major oil companies is stringing a 48-inch steel straw from the Prudhoe Bay oil field, on Alaska's North Slope, the rim of the Arctic Ocean, to Valdez, an ice-free port on Alaska's south coast. It will cross two mountain ranges, the never-before-spanned Yukon River and 798 miles.

After six years of planning and controversy, the first pipe was laid this spring. In July 1977, the schedule says, 1.2 million barrels of crude oil a day will begin flowing through the pipeline. It will go to a country that now uses 17.5 million barrels a day.

Around 10,000 people now are working on various phases of pipeline construction — driving earth movers, welding pipe, building storage tanks and pump stations and work camps. By midsummer there will be 14,200 well-paid workers on the pipeline.

But though there are jobs, there are not enough jobs. Thousands of men and hundreds of women have arrived, most jobless, homeless — a few hundred dollars in their pockets.

With the economy slumping elsewhere, what officials fear now is a flood of job seekers from outside.

"In one day last week, we got over 1,200 applications in the mail and about 50 walk-ins in the lobby," said E.L. Patton, president of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the organization set up by the oil companies to build the pipeline. "People outside don't realize this is a union project."

The lure of the pipeline is jobs, good paying jobs. A union laborer, with no special skills, makes $10.35 an hour. With guaranteed overtime and a seven-day work week, he can clear $525 a week after taxes. If he stays in one of the construction camps along the pipeline route, he lives and eats, eats very well, free of charge.

So people come, and with them the changes. Valdez, a few years ago an inconspicuous fishing village, has watched its population triple to 3,300 since last spring. Homebuilders pay $10,000 for small box lots that recently sold for $450. And the town just got its first ice cream parlor.

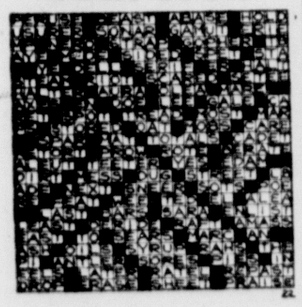

Private homes have been converted into rooming houses in Fairbanks, the only inland city near the pipeline route. Men pay $10 a night to sleep on one of five bunks in a living room. Sharing one bathroom with 45 others is not a problem because everybody works different shifts, the landlord says.

The pipeline brought a

Pipeline impact . . .

$900 million down payment into the state — fees paid by the oil companies for drilling rights at Prudhoe Bay. "The $900 million has been eaten up," Gov. Jay Harmond says simply. It went or will go for social services, sanitation projects, stronger police forces and other things Alaskans used to think they didn't need.

The pipeline is still the Golden Goose. Alyeska has guaranteed another $800 million will be paid native Alaskans for filling 3,500 pipeline jobs over the next four years. The state legislature this month approved a property tax on oil and gas reserves that could generate up to $250 million a year until 1978.

After that, the state will derive revenue on every barrel of oil that flows through the pipeline — up to $1 billion a year in 1980. Nevada, by comparison, made $51 million last year from its legalized gambling.

With more people and more money coming into the state, the spiral is upward — prices, wages and everything else. Milk is close to $3 a gallon in Fairbanks and a small can of tuna costs 73 cents in Anchorage, where garbage men now make $18,000 a year under a new contract. By 1980, the state will need four more embalmers and 72 new judges. There are nine embalmers now, and 141 judges.

The governor, a former hunting guide, has appointed an 11member Growth Policy Council to help guide the state into the future. The council was told recently by an economist: "There is no way the state can receive and spend the money (oil revenues) that doesn't result in growth."

In August of 1973, Rogers C.B. Morton, then secretary of the interior, stood against a backdrop of towering mountains and small hills of steel pipe at Valdez.

"This project," he said, "is to our times as the pyramids were to theirs."

That may be; but it is little consolation to the housewives in Fairbanks who couldn't buy brooms because Alyeska had swept them all up for the 29 pipeline camps.

It means little to the woman whose husband is up on the North Slope helping eat 800 pounds of steak each week at Prospect Creek Camp while she can't find a head of lettuce to feed the kids.

Or the woman who calls three plumbers to come fix her washing machine and has to settle for a high school boy, who knows nothing about motors, because each call brought a response: "I'm sorry, but he's on the Slope working."

"You can't even get a decent drink in this town," grumbled one Fairbanks resident. "All the bartenders are driving trucks."

But whatever the costs, the pipeline continues. A 360-mile first-ever, all-season road has been draped across the tundra from the Yukon River to the Arctic Ocean; the wells at Prudhoe are being drilled and capped, and every day, all day, pipe-laden trucks highball north, always north.

And it is only the beginning

Another pipeline — for natural gas—is already on the drawing boards. Despite a state study indicating it may be impossible to sell the gas competitively because of transportation costs, two companies are bidding for rights to siphon off the estimated 26 trillion cubic feet of gas under the North Slope.

And on the North Slope, next to Prudhoe Bay's 9.6 billion barrels of oil, lies the Navy's petroleum reserve No. 4. with its estimated 33 billion barrels of oil.

For better or worse, the state's license plates say it all: "North to the future."

Beard comes from out of nowhere with a 67

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Frank Beard, once one of the game's great players but a pathetic, struggling figure in recent months, fired a magnificent 67 that lifted him from eighth strokes off the pace to a three-shot lead in Saturday's third round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

The 36-year-old Beard, the 19 9 leading money winner who had collected only $522 in five months of play this season, swept past suddenly-stricken front-runner Tom Watson aith a 54-hole total of 210, three-under-par.

Watson, who shared the lead in the first round and held a three-stroke advantage with a record-matching 36 hole score of 135, collapsed to a 78 that left him at 213, even par.

Beard was the only player under par after three rounds over the 7,032-yard Medinah Country Club course, a tame and tihid kitten of a layout for the first two day's play but a snarling tiger in the 90-degree heat and high humidity that marked Saturday's action.

It sent them all—all but the enigmatic Beard—stumbling in shocked dis ay, head-shaking frustration, bitter exasperation reeling back in the pack.

Even the mighty Jack Nickulaus couldn't escape.The Masters champion, the holder of 15 major titles, the greatest player the game has known saw his improbable dream of a modern Grand Slam fade and all but disappear on the strength of a 75, four-over-par that left him seven shots back with only 18 holes to play.

"It was just one of those days when you never get it going, never develop a swing," said Nicklaus. "The result...75."

Nicklaus shook his head when asked about his chances to keep alive hope for the unachieved one-year sweep of all the world's major titles.

"I've got to get over this round before I start thinking about the next one," he said.

Lee Trevino also had a 75 for 216. Gary Player of South Africa shot 72-220. Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller each had fat 41s on their front nines. Miller finished with 76-223. Weiskopf salvaged a 74-220. Defending titleholder Hale Irwin had 73-218, five-over-par.

Arnold Palmer double bogeyed his final hole for 73-217.

"It's just a bad hole. Let's don't talk about it," Palmer said.

They all had their troubles. The reason seemed to be a mystery.

"There's no reason for it," said Nicklaus. "The course isn't playing hard. Actually, it's pretty easy. The fairways are good, the greens are holding. Theres no reason for it—except possibly that it's the third round of the U.S. Open."

Watson, wo blew this title with a poor final round last year, was tied for seiond with Pat Fitzsimons, who shot a third-round 73.

Ben Crenshaw, the 23-year-old who had such a fantastic start as a pro two seasons back, shot 76 and was tied at 214 with Lou Graham and England's Peter Oosterhuis. Graham had a 68 and Oosterhuis an unusual 72 that was made up of nines of 41 and 31.

Beard's sudden return to the top was even more startlin lpqn his slow descent into the golfing depths.

"It would be a decided understatement to say this is my best round in the last 3½ years," said the quiet, thoughtful man from Louisville.

GET IN THERE!!

Frank Beard gets a little tense as he watches a putt in the third round of the U.S. Open Saturday. The putt fell and Beard, who has been struggling lately, fired a 67 to take the lead into today's final round.

Getting a grip on golf

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Through the discouraging bleakness of missing the cut in 13 tournaments in row, afrank Beard and his new grip emerged into the limelight Saturday as leader of the U.S. Open.

The 36-year old veteran, whose last victory was the 1971 New Orleans Open, unleashed a third-round 67 for a three-under-par 210. As he forged ahead, the front-runners fell back and the combination left him with a three stroke lead over Tom Watson and Pat Fitzsimons entering the final round Sunday at steamy Medinah No. 3.

"I feel like a man again. I feel like a kid with a new toy," said Beard, who won 11 tournaments from the time he joined the tour in 1963 to the beginning of 1972 and was leading money winner in 1969.

Then the curtain began to drop and Beard faded away. His streak of failing to make the cut ended last week when he had four consistent rounds in the Philadelphia Classic to tie for 15th. He had qualified for the Open automatically by being among the top 15 finishers in the 1974 U.S. Open at Winged Foot.

Beard said the change began last March, when his friend, Phil Rodgers, suggested he seek help for his withering game from Paul Runyon, "Little Poison" of yester-year, in Denver.

"I had worked pretty hard on my game but I couldn't put a finger on what was wrong," said Beard. "In five minutes Paul saw the trouble. I always had a strong left hand and he said I had to get my right hand more on top in my grip. I played and talked to him for three days. The new grip started to work. I felt all that struggling was getting behind me, now. It only cost $105 to find it out.

Beard continued: "The slump has been embarassing. I was trying my best but nothing happened. You couldn't be happy in such a situation.

Tanana fans 17 as Angels split

ANAHEIM (AP) — Frank Tanana says he considers himself a strikeout pitcher, but not quite in the manner he exhibited Saturday night.

"I might be a one strikeout per inning pitcher, but 17...well, that's not quite my league."

It was his league Saturday night, however, as the California Angels' second-year pitcher struck out 17 Texas Rangers en route to a 4-2 victory to establish a major league high for the season.

Tanana had 17 by the end of the eighth and he and his catcher, Ellie Rodriguez, chatted on the bench about what records were in sight. Two more would have enabled him to match teammate Nolan Ryan' Steve Carlton and Tom Seaver with the major league record of 19 strikeouts in a game, while three would have enabled him to stand alone.

"I knew what the score was, but I was just happy to see any kind of out-he said. "I just wanted a (win)."

"When I got two strikes on (Leo) Cardenas in the ninth I wanted a strikeout," he said, "but that was the only time in the inning I tried for one."

Naturally, the 17 strikeouts were a career high for Tanana. He did not walk a batter but strangely had to weather nine Ranger singles.

"Seventeen strikeouts and nine hits are hard to explain," Tanana agreed, "and I can't."

Tanana, 5-4, says he should be an eight-game winner by now, "with the type of support I've been getting. But maybe this will get me in the groove. I'd like to chalk up about seven complete games in a row and show the man (Manager Dick Williams) I'm not a five-inning pitcher."

Then he added, with a grin, "But I don't think he'll expect 17 strikeouts from me every time out."

Tanana began with a blaze, fanning two Ranger batters in the first inning and three more in the second.

Two more Rangers went down swinging in the third but Texas also collected a pair of singles and score one run.

Roy Smalley singled and stole second as Jim Sundberg struck out. With two down, Harrah punched a single to left, scoring Smalley.

Dave Collins, Jerry Remy and Rivers opened up with successive singles for a run and one out later, Lee Stanton doubled home two more to give him 21 RBI for the month. Stanton, however, was forced to leave the game at this point with a slight muscle pull in his left thigh. Stanton's drive brought on rookie Mike Bacsik to replace Umbarger and he was touched for Winston Llenas' run-scoring double which capped the four-run inning.

Smalley and Harrah teamed up again in the fifth for the second Ranger run. Smalley singled, took second on an infield out and came home on Harrah's line single to center.

Grieve delivered his gamewinning shot in the nightcap into the center field seats off Luis Quintana after the reliever had struck out the first two batters.

The Angels, without the aid of a hit, took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap. Texas starter Clyde Wright walked three men and third baseman Toby Harrah committed an error to make it easy for California.

The Angels made it 3-0 in the third when Rivers was hit by a pitch, took third on Tommy Harper's single and scored on Winston Ilenas' sacrifice fourth on singles by Tom Grieve and Toby Harrah plus Jim Fregosi's sacrifice fly, but California struck for a run in the same inning on Dave Chalk's double and Jerry Remy's single.

Both Ranger catchers—Jim Sundberg in the first inning and Bill Fahey in the fourth—were forced out of the game when struck on the hand with foul tips and Lenny Randle took over. It was his first appearance behind the plate in the majors.

Randle's groundout drove in the second Ranger run in the fifth and the Rangers scored three times to grab a 5-4 lead and chase Hassler in the sixth. A walk to Jeff Burroughs, a single by Grieve and doubles by Harrah and Roy Smalley did the damage.

Yeager's sacrifice lifts L.A., 4-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Steve Yeager's sacrifice fly capped a two-run rally in the eighth inning and carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-3 victory over the San Diego Padres behind the three-hit pitching of Andy Messersmith Saturday night.

Rich Folkers, 2-4, took a 3-2 lead into the Dodger eighth but loaded the bases and forced in the tying run with a walk to Joe Ferguson. At this point, Danny Frisella came in to give up Yeager's sacrifice fly.

Bobby Tolan climaxed a three-run rally with a two-run homer in the fifth inning to help the Padres take a 3-2 lead.

Messersmith, 11-3, had a 2-0 no-hitter going until Mike Ivie opened the Padre fifth with a homer, his fourth of the baseball season. Willie McCovey singled before Tolan hit his first homer of the season.

Singles by Dave Lopes and Tom Paciorek set up an unearned run for the Dodgers in the first inning when third baseman Ivie fumbled Steve Garvey's two-out grounder. In the second, Folkers gave up a bases-empty homer to Yeager.

Alston may manage Dodgers forever

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers team bus was rolling through the streets of St. Louis not long ago and Walter Alston, the manager, was sitting in the front seat recalling the first time he had seen the city.

"I had just signed my first professional baseball contract, in 1935 after I'd graduated from Miami (Ohio)," the 63-year-old Alston began.

"Branch Rickey's brother, Frank, was a scout with the Cardinals. He only say me play a couple of games in college. It was a doubleheader and I played shortstop the first game and pitched the second.

"But he signed me for $125 a month and I was told to report to Branch Rickey in St. Louis. I stayed at the YMCA and everyday I'd go to Mr. Rickey's office. I'd be told to go there or sit here and finally I'd just go back to the YMCA. I did that for a week and finally they sent me to Greenwood, Mississippi. Eddie Dyer (later to manage the Cardinals) drove me all the way to Greenwood, through rain and everything else. We got there at noon and I played in the game that day."

It was a humble start to a career that has spanned 40 years, the last 22 as manager of the Dodgers.

He's managed World Champions and Hall of Famers and, most certainly, he'll one day be enshrined himself.

Just when that day will be, though, remains a mystery because before he can qualify for Cooperstown, first he must retire.

"I'll manage this club as long as Mr. O'Malley wants me to," Alston replies whenever he's asked the question, which is often.

Says Walter O'Malley, the Chairman of the Board:

"Walter Alston can manage this club as long as he wants to."

So there it is. A beautiful marriage. Employer and employee equally happy, a happiness that's reflected again this season in the standings of the National League West.

Alston's 1975 players have encountered numerous injuries and, even more damaging, a lengthy hitting slump. But the Dodgers, last year's National League champions, remain solid contenders.

"It's a credit to the man's patience," says pitcher Don Sutton, who early in his career was often critical of Alston's tactics, particularly when he was sent to the bullpen a few years ago. But today he is Alston's No. 1 admirer.

"When I had that two-month slump last year, not winning a game and pitching awful at times, he stayed with me 100 per cent," Sutton said. "I can't imagine any other manager doing that."

Alston, recalling Sutton's skid and subsequent nine-game winning streak, just smiled and said, "Heck, there was no way I could give up on Don. I knew it was just a matter of time before he'd come around—and he did, too, just when we needed him the most."

ners since, as well as four other National League pennants.

Over-all, his managerial record is incredible. He ranks with the elite. Only four managers in the history of the game have ever won more pennants than Alston—Hall of Famers Casey Stengel (10), Joe McCarthy (9), John McGraw (9) and Connie Mack (8).

Alston also ranks No. 7 on the all-time win list, behind Mack, McGraw, Bucky Harris, McCarthy, Leo Durocher and Stengel. He'll pass Stengel before the end of the season.

But he talks more about who's pitching tonight or making a double play than he does his milestones, which are numerous.

When his pitchers are slumping, he quietly reminds people that "there aren't too many guys like Sandy Koufax or Don Drysdale around. It's not too hard managing with guys like those," he adds, playing down his own role.

Hardly a flamboyant type, Alston has often times been criticized for his lack of flair. One New York writer, in fact, once said, "No way Alston would've lasted 20 years in New York."

Alston always, looks to the future.

"I'm still enthusiastic," he said, "but when the season is over I want to get away from it, too. I go home to Darrtown (Ohio) and ride my motorcycles and my horses, work in the wood shop and shoot skeet and play pool. But when spring comes around, well, I'm still enthusiastic. I look forward to working with the young players and, probably to sum it, I wouldn't trade jobs with anyone."

Alston has often been accused of being out of touch with the young players on his club and, despite a record of seven pennants, six seconds and two thirds in his 21 summers, there have been those who have argued for a managerial change, saying that he is too old.

Old or not, he is not afraid to make changes.

A classic example is shortstop Bill Russell. An outfielder, and a good one, when he arrived in the big leagues, Alston saw that soon, with Maury Wills aging, there would be need of a shortstop. So he made the change and even though Russell, who has been injured most of this season, led the league in errors in 1974, Alston snapped:

"I don't care. He gets to more balls than most shortstops do and he'll out-hit most of 'em, too. And don't forget he was on the All-Star team the year before."

Alston, while admitting that he's probably gone out further on a limb with Russell than anyone else, has made changes with others. In fact, of the Dodgers' infield on last year's pennant winning team, only third baseman Ron Cey was playing his natural position. Steve Garvey, the first baseman, was originally a third baseman. Second baseman Dave Lopes was an outfielder when he signed with the Dodgers, and so was catcher Joe Ferguson.

Alston came perilously close to being fired just once, in 1958, the Dodgers' first season in Los Angeles when they finished an embarrassing seventh.

He didn't get fired and won the World Championship the next season. There have been two other World Series win-

Shaw betters own record

LONG BEACH (AP) — Tim Shaw destroyed the world record in the 1,500-meter freestyle in Saturday night's National AAU World Championship swimming trials, with a time of 15:20.91.

The 17-year-old Long Beach high school graduate improved his own world mark of 15:31.75 swim last year at the AAU national championships in Concord, and lowered the pending mark of 15:27.75 by Australian Steve Holland this year.

Shaw's split at 800 meters or 8:13.68 is also a world mark. He took the race at his own pace, slightly behind James Magley, of Bloomington, Ind., at the start.

But by the 200-meter mark, the race was all Shaw's as he steadily pulled away from the field. He repeated each 100 meters with an average of 1:01.3.

"I didn't really think I was swimming as fast as I had planned," said Shaw after the race. "But I knew I must be doing pretty good because I could hear the crowd yelling. Jochums (Dick Jochums, Shaw's coach) had it set up for me to do 15:22.5. I was a little faster than that."

Told that he had swum his last 100 meters in 58.9 seconds, Shaw paused before answering. "I didn't think I was that fast," he said.

Jochums, head coach at Long Beach Swim Club, said Shaw had pointed toward this event for this meet. "We were really worried when he swum the 200-meter freestyle Wednesday. He had no real speed and he didn't have much rest. We didn't bring his training all the way for this meet. He should do even better with rest."

Wednesday, Shaw was second to teammate Bruce Furniss in the 200-freestyle. Thursday he propelled himself to a world mark in the men's 400-meter backstroke in 2:05.44, the fastest time in the world to date in the event this year.

In other action Saturday, 17-year-old Andy Coan, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who qualified second in the morning heats behind the 51.12 world performance by Jim Montgomery, won the 100-meter freestyle in 56.26, just off the world record time. Montgomery, an Indiana University junior, was second in 51.49 and Bruce Furniss, of Santa Ana, was third.

Kathy Heddy, of Summit, N.J., had to produce an American record time to best Jenni Franks, of Wilmington, Del., in the Women's 400-meter individual medley clocking 4:58.13, ahead of Frank's 5:01.35. The American record time makes Heddy the first American woman to go under the five minute mark in the event. The time was fourth all best time in the world.

Linda Jezek, the 14-year-old from Santa Clara, Calif., who won the 100-meter backstroke Thursday finished the 200-meter back first in 2:21.19. Ellen Wallace, South Amboy, N.J., was second in 2:21.92.

The top three finishers in the Men's 100-meter freestyle and the top two in both the Women's 200-meter back and the 400-meter individual medley qualified for the U.S. team heading for Cali, Colombia, Juy 18-27 for the World Swim Championships. Shaw already qualified for the men's team with his previous effort. Brian Goodell's second place finish in the 1500-meter freestyle gained him a Cali berth.

Post 30 pitchers stifle Covina again

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Pomona Post 30 pitching has allowed only four hits in both of its last two starts. The result: two American Legion victoreis over District 18 competitor Covina. After winning Friday night 6-2 at Ralph Welch Park, the visiting Gems used a 14-hit offensive attack to clobber Covina 16-1 Saturday afternoon at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut.

Joe Jones and Dan Ross combined for the four-hitter Friday, and coach Joel Wiese used four pitchers Saturday.

Mike Forsyth started for Pomona and went five complete innings to pick up his third win without a defeat, striking out three and walking only one before yielding to Todd Bell.

Bell gave up one hit and struck out two in two innings of work and was replaced by Ross. Ross worked one inning giving up the lone Covina run on one hit. Jones took over to hurl the ninth, striking out one and walking one.

District 18 champion Pomona put the game away early with five runs in the first inning, three in the second, and one in third.

Robbie Franklin drove in one of the first inning runs with a triple to right field. Kevin Schmiiking walked to force in a run with the bases loaded and Chris "Scooter" Davis singled with the bases filled for two more runs. The ther run scored as a result of a wild pitch by losing pitcher John Sanchez.

In the second it was another wild pitch and Fosyth's two *EI single that accounted for the three runs.

After Glover had got on with one out in the third, Mike Keegan singled to left with Glover going on the play. Glover went on to score end Keegan to second when the ball got by leftfielder John Suarez.

Pomona scored a solo marker in the fifth when Franklin picked up his second RBI of the game with a single, (his third in five at bats).

Pomona scored two more runs in the eighth, building its lead to 12-0. Davis walked with the bases loaded for the first run. With the bases still loaded, John Souza grounded to third bsaeman Randy Mancuso who threw to catcher Glen Pardon for a fore at the plete. Pardon then attempted to get a double play, but threw wildly to first base allowing a run to score.

Covina broke up Post 30's shutout bid in its eighth with a run on Dough LaValley's single.

Pomona finished off the scoring with four runs in the ninth, three of which were unearned. The other run was driven in by Jones on a triple to rightcenter.

Pomona (4-2, 13-9) will play Wednesday against Fontana in a 6:30 p.m. contest at Ventura Park.

Report of Kings deal for Dionne

DETROIT (AP) — Marcel Dionne will sign with the Los Angeles Kings, who will compensate the Detroit Red Wings with two players and a draft choice, according to Barton Miller of Mutual Radio in Los Angeles.

Dionne, whose contract with Detroit expired recently, will join the National Hockey League Kings in exchange for Dan Maloney, Terry Harper and a second-round draft pick, Miller said Sunday.

In response to Miller's report, a Red Wing spokesman said Saturday: "Those were some of the names that have been kicked around all week long (at the NHL meeting in Montreal)."

"LA very definitely is the team," he said, "but the Wings can't do anything until Dionne has signed and the Wings are notified of it. If and when Dionne signs a contract, assuming it will be with LA, the NHL will notify the Detroit club and then a player deal can be executed."

The spokesman said Red Wings Coach Alex Delvecchio told him he expected a settlement on the Dionne question "the first of the week."

Dionne, a 23-year-old center, was the league's third-leading scorer last season with 121 points on 47 goals and 74 assists. His assist and point totals are team records.

Connors sues Ashe for libel

LONDON (AP) — Wimbledon champion Jimmy Connors has sued Arthur Ashe for $5.0 million, Connors' manager said Saturday.

The squabble between the two American tennis stars was revealed by Bill Riordan, Connors' manager, as the Wimbledon champion started his final practice session before the big tournament that opens Monday.

"We filed two suits in Indianopolis last week," Riordan said.

The first suit, Riordan added, concerned a letter written by Ashe as president of the Association of Tennis Professionals to 16 players about the captaincy of the U.S. Davis Cup team. Connors alleges that Ashe libeled him in the letter.

The second suit has been filed against Ashe; Donald Dell, the ATP's legal adviser; Bob Briner, the association's secretary, and Jack Kramer, the executive director. It alleges libel in an article written by Briner, Riordan explained.

But Dell said: "We have not received a writ, either officially or at our office in America."

At the Queen's club, where Connors was practicing for Wimbledon, Riordan said that Kramer should resign.

"Tennis will be in a state of chaos unless he steps down," Riodan said.

Connors has another legal suit pending against Kramer, Dell and the Commercial Union Assurance Co., which sponsors the Grand Prix. Meanwhile, Kramer is suing Connors and Riordan for $3.0 million, alleging libel and slander.

Connors is the favorite to win again at Wimbledon. Ashe, who never has won the big title, is seeded No. 6.

Ancient Title wins

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Ancient Title, California's horse of the year in 1974, led virtually from start to finish under the ride of Laffit Pincay Saturday and captured the 36th running of the Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

Ancient Title, carrying 125 pounds, went out of the gate first and gave up the lead only briefly to El Tarta

Ancient Title had finished second in the Gold Cup a year ago after winning the Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds at nearby Santa Anita.

Baird drives in two; Bumstead wins third

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Bill Bumstead tossed a neat four-hitter and Jerry Baird broke out of his worst batting slump of the entire year to lead La Verne Post 330 to a 2-1 decision over Claremont Post 78 in league action Saturday afternoon at Bonita High.

Bumstead (3-1, 1.18 ERA) gave up a single to Claremont's Tim Helton to open the game and then didn't allow another hit until Carl Cervantes lined a single to center with two away in the seventh inning.

Post 78 scored its only run off the Bonita junior in the eighth. Helton started things off when he drew a walk. Following an out, Paul Sokolowski sent Helton to third with a ground shot to right field. Ken MacLoad then chipped a "dinker" to shallow left, that barely eluded the diving attempt of Post 330's Dave Drury. Helton scored on the play, with pinchrunner Brad Kirkendall and MacLoad advancing to third and second, respectively. Bumstead got out of the jam when he got Dave Cervantes to pop up to third baseman Bret Dody for the final oat of the frame.

Bill, who has now won three in a row, fanned four and allowed only two walks. (In 38 innings, Bumstead has given up only eight free passes).

Baird broke out of an 0-for-10 slump with two hits in three trips to the plate, and drove in both of La Verne's tallies. The All-Hacienda League catcher entered the contest batting a meager .136 with three RBI.

Jerry drove in Bumstead in the second after "Bummer" drew a walk and advanced to second on a single by Dody.

In La Verne's seventh, Ron Pickenpaugh went to first after Claremont starter Mil Pompa hit him in the back with a fastball. Jim Richards was sent into pinch run, and promptly stole second. Jim went to third on a passed ball, and after a ground out, scored easily on a booming double by Baird.

Pompa matched Bumstead pinch-for-pitch until getting into trouble in the seventh. The junior southpaw allowed only five singles until then, and fanned six.

Bruce Hines broke out of his longest slump of the year (0-for-5), with a single in the fifth. The 330 speedster also added his 13th stolen base of the season.

Claremont (0-3, 12-10) will host La Verne (4-1, 10-4-1) today at Pomona College at 2 p.m. Post 78 will send Leonard Peacock (0-2) to the mound, while La Verne will counter with Drury (2-0, 0.64 ERA).

In another American Legion game played Saturday afternoon, Redlands Post 650 handed the Montclair entry a 9-0 loss.

Mike Castelano of Redlands recorded the pitching wins as his teammates struck for five runs in the second inning off Montclair starter and loser Mike Medieros and four more in the fourth against reliever Mike Kizziar.

The only bright spot of the game for Montclair was the first Legion pitching appearances of Eddie Salazar. He came on to begin the seventh inning and retired nine Redlands batters in a row to finish the game, striking out three of them.

The losers were shut out in spite of doubles by Bill Moore, Larry Wallace and Greg Walton, who also had a single.

Montclair will risk its 5-3 league record against Tri-City today at 1:30 p.m.

Connors hottest favorite in years

The dynamic little lefthander from Belleville, Ill., is rated a 5-to-4 bet by the bookies. That means you bet $4 to win $5. The next best odds offered are 10-to1—against Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla., and Sweden's 19-year-old wonder boy, Bjorn Borg.

Connors and Ashe have spent two weeks preparing for the big tournament by playing in comparatively lesser events on English grass. By doing that, they by-passed the chance of big prize money in the French championships, which was won by Borg.

But their decision could give the Americans a head start over their rivals.

They called the game lawn tennis in the first place because it was played on grass lawns. Nowadays, the big money-winning pros scarcely hit a ball on grass all year, until Wimbledon comes around.

Borg played devastating tennis to retain his French title in Paris a week ago. But that was on the slow clay surface of the Roland Garros Stadium. He admitted it will be a tough job adjusting himself to the faster pace and shallower bounce of grass.

The problems of switching from clay to grass are trickier than they used to be. The European season is shorter and most of the traditional English warm-up tournaments before Wimbledon have disappeared.

The All-England Club seeded 16 players on the basis of a computer ranking list produced by the Association of Tennis Professionals, but took the grass question into account. The seeding worked out with Connors first, followed by 40-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, Borg Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, Ilie Nastase of Romania, and Ashe in sixth place.

With most of the stars having a mere week of grass court play before Wimbledon, the experts are ready for anything to happen.

The courts are reported in questionable condition following a cold, wet spring. That could lead to upsets. If there are worn patches on the grass, big servers could slam way to success and make the computered rankings look silly.

Ashe, 31, is openly making a big play for the Wimbledon title this year. He reached the semifinals twice—in 1968 and 1969—but has never made the final.

Besides Connors, two former champions are in contention. Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., the winner in 1972, is seeded No. 7 following a decline in form. Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, who won the title in 1973 when most of the top stars were absent, is the No. 12 seed.

Who'll buy ailing Giants?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The Giants is dead."

Charley Dressen, Brooklyn Dodger manager, said it in 1953 as the New York Giants dropped in the National League standings.

Today, San Francisco Giants owner Horace Stoneham appears to have a dying baseball franchise on his hands. But maybe not for long.

"The team is still for sale. I've been talking to several people and would hope an agreement could be reached before the season ends," the 72-year-old club owner said in an interview before a midweek game which drew a crowd of 1,851 fans on a cold and overcast day.

"Some of the people interested in buying the team say they want to keep it here. Others—at least in the back of their minds—I'm sure are thinking of moving it," Stoneham said, adding he has no intention of working with new owners unless possibly in an advisory capacity.

"If the people don't start coming out to the games soon, the team will have to move," says Willie Montanez, the first baseman who didn't realize how bad things were at Candlestick Park until the Philadelphia Phillies traded him to the Giants.

"They just won't come out, period," concluded pitcher John Montefusco, convinced one week ago by a turnout of 4,890 fans on a sunny Saturday afternoon.

The Giants, who drew a major league low of 519,000 customers last year, won't come near that total this year at the rate they're going. A 10-date homestand which ended Wednesday attracted less than 50,000, with the 32-date total for the season creeping to 220,000.

Stoneham reported a $1.7 million loss last year to stockholders of the parent National Exhibition Co., and he owns almost 70 per cent of the stock. Bank loans are keeping the Giants going.

Stoneham wants to sell all the company's assets, including an Arizona hotel which is used as spring training headquarters and property in suburban Minneapolis, and has an asking price of about $18 million for the package.

San Francisco financier Robert Lurie, a member of the company's board of directors, immediately expressed interest in the Giants when Stoneham announced in early May he was willing to sell. But Lurie has made no offer.

"I'm still interested, however," said Lurie, who added that his intention as owner would be to try to make a success of the operation here.

A Japanese group also is interested in the team, "but has made no concrete offer," according to Stoneham.

Anvone interested in moving the Giants to New Orleans, Seattle or any other open territory—presumably not Japan—would have to find a way to get out of the long-term lease at city-owned Candlestick.

And there's no guarantee that other National League owners would approve a move. They could urge new owners to stay, trying to force Charles O. Finley, whose world champion Oakland A's are a profitable operation, to vacate the area instead.

"But some people probably would be willing to take the gamble they could move the club," Stoneham said.

"There's no way a team can be assured of success in this area unless one of the clubs leaves," he added.

The 1975 home attendance of the A's, playing on the other side of San Francisco Bay, is almost double that of the Giants now, and the world champs appear to have a good chance of hitting one million for the second time since moving West from Kansas City in 1968.

The weather at the Oakland Coliseum is decidedly better than Candlestick's, "100 per cent better for both the players and the fans," in the opinion of former Giant Bobby Bonds, now with the New York Yankees.

But the Giants, despite their recent lean years at the box office and in the standings, have a superior local radio-television setup, worth about $1 million a year.

"The ratings remain good and the sponsors, as far a I know, are happy," says Al Michaels, the play-by-play announcer who finds the ratings comforting on cold nights when there are mostly empty seats in the ballpark.

Fans often filled Candlestick in the early 1960s, when major league baseball still was new on the West Coast. They tended to laugh off the weather conditions.

But the windswept stadium has few defenders now.

Willie McCovey, who played 14 seasons with the Giants, is finishing out his career now with the San Diego Padres and says, "In San Diego, the fans can come out to the ballgame and enjoy a pleasant evening.

"Until I left San Francisco and came back with another team, I didn't really realize how cold this park can be."

He added, however, "I hope they keep the team here. I'll be living here when I retire and I'd like to have some baseball to watch."

Cards get Finnie back

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Offensive lineman Roger Finnie, who became a free agent last month, has returned to the St. Louis Cardinals by signing a multiyear contact, the National Football League team announced Thursday.

The 6-foot-3, 245-pound Finnie was a busy reserve during most of last season, then started at left tackle for the Cardinals when regular Ernie McMillan went out with a neck injury.

Seventy-one players from the Los Angeles area have qualified to seek sectional berths for the 8th annual Junior World Golf Championships senior division (15-17) to be played July 9-12 at Torrey Pines golf course.

Sectional tournaments will be conducted under PGA supervision Monday at Hillcrest Country Club and Tarzana's El Caballero Country Club.

Winners of the boys' and girls' titles as well as one player for every six participants will be eligible for next month's Junior World.

Three players from the valley who qualified are Jim Desesi, Walnut; Colin McNeilly, Diamond Bar; and Mark Pailthorpe, Glendora.

Ben Crenshaw says he still is experimenting with his swing. "I've had too much right hand in it, swinging from the top." Even after a 67 the first day of the Byron Nelson Golf Classic, he wasn't happy with his stroke. The reason —he made putts of 70, 50, 35 and 25 feet for birdies. "Mostly, it's a lack of confidence in what I'm doing," he added.

Feminist movement

Speaker wants equality

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The wives of the Egyptian and Philippine presidents say the women's rights movement should not become a competition against men.

Imelda Marcos of the Philippines, in a speech prepared for the International Women's Conference, and Jihan Sadat of Egypt, in an interview, contended that the feminist movement in the United States and other prosperous nations is too demanding and antimale.

"The demand for equality has too often had overtones of revenge, the venting of grievances, the acquisition of advantage, the aggression of concealed hatred and envy," said Mrs. Marcos in a keynote address to the conference Friday.

The feminist movement "should not and need not be antimale," she said. "Women are not adversaries, the enemies of men, but their equal partners."

She said the Oriental woman "has not sacrificed her femininity to individualism but has rather enhanced it with participation. She has not striven for a sterile status but has preferred to play her true role in nature and human society."

In an interview Thursday, Mrs. Sadat said the emancipation of woman "should not become a competition against man or into the kind of extremism that it has in the United States."

She said emancipation should not wreck the companionship between women and men because "the two need and complement each other.

"It should not break up families because the family is the nucleus of society. It should take place in complete harmony.

"As long as women get their rights and freedoms, I do not see why there should be any clashes."

AT MONUMENT — Jihan Sadat, wife of Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, signs register at Mexico's Revolution Monument in Mexico City after laying a wreath at monument. She is attending International Women's Year Conference which began Thursday.

More than 5,000 women and men are attending the two-week conference sponsored by the United Nations and a parallel "Tribune" for nongovernmenal delegates.

A substantial number of delegations to the U.N. conference are led by wives, sisters or other relatives of heads of state or government. The Tribune is drawing the bulk of the militant feminists from the United States and other nations.

Opening the conference Thursday, President Luis Echeverria of Mexico urged women to fight not only for their own liberation but that of all oppressed people.

"Women constitute an enormous revolutionary reserve in the world today," he said.

He said he hoped "that the women's revolution will give a decisive impetus to the transformation of society" and will spur the development of a radical new world economic order.

"It is imperative that every woman should be valued for herself, for the work she does, for the ideas she upholds, for the causes she defends, and not solely for the support she gives to the world of her husband," Echeverria said.

"It is imperative to replace the stereotyped image of the female sex as merely the sum of suffering, tolerance, patience, generosity and prudence by another image which includes intelligence, courage, independent judgment, and firmness" — qualities which women possess but which they have had to suppress, to their own detriment."

Joyce Brothers

The Runaway wife

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I don't understand what has happened to my marriage. Last week my wife delivered an ultimatum — unless I did certain listed things she was going to leave me. I didn't believe her but a week ago, she left. What is so surprising is that we had good marital relations. I still can't believe it and I've put a detective on her trail to force her to come back. I place the whole blame on her women's lib group. She has everything a woman could want; a car of her own and every gadget and appliance known to man — or woman! — R. W.

Dear R.W.: Modern appliances and gadgets don't make a marriage — even when there's a good sex life. There's more to it than that.

Without talking with your wife, of course, I've no idea of the exact cause of her dissatisfaction, but my guess would be that it is probably due to a combination of factors. Many women who pack up and leave home are really lonely for companionship. Often, their husbands spend so much time away from home that these women begin to feel they're living with strangers who come through the door only to eat and sleep, or perhaps, just to engage in sexual relations.

What is missing from many of these fragmented unions is communication that goes beyond the bedroom. Common interests are not developed or explored and often, neither husband nor wife is able to share his or her innermost thoughts and feelings. Sometimes this is because they've never been able to have truly intimate relationships on this level as they have never learned to develop trust in any human being, including their parents. Or, they have failed to develop close relations because of the pressures of their work; or, they have carefully but unconsciously developed a life style that is so frantic there is simply no time.

In many cases, women who leave home are simply bored. Some men do not understand this; especially those, like you, who provide their wives with all the modern conveniences and appliances. They feel that their wives have nothing but leisure once they have been provided with labor-saving devices.

Actually, this is not true. According to Dr. Alice Rossi, a psychologist, the number of hours a woman devotes to regular household work goes up, not down as more appliances are added. Dr. Rossi's study points out that if one has an automatic washer, one is expected to wash clothes at home instead of sending them out, and in many cases, to wash them more often.

The average married woman spends from 50 to 60 hours a week on maintaining the home, shopping, clothes care and food preparation. She spends only one-third as much time with her children and only one-fourth as much time with her husband. Even if appliances provided total leisure, they are not the solution for avoiding boredom and restlessness in men or women. We must all learn to use leisure in rewarding and gratifying ways before the added time can enhance our lives.

It may comfort you to know that some 50 per cent of the wives who leave home in desperation return on their own or are easily found because they have failed to cover their tracks. Most of them really want to be found because what they basically want from their husband is not a divorce, but more understanding.

When your wife returns, and I think she will, don't place the blame on women's liberation groups, but try to listen to her. Give her more true respect and understanding.

Flowers

The official flower for Father's Day is a rose — a red rose being worn for a living father, white indicating a deceased father. According to Hallmark Cards researcher Sally Hopkins, the rose was suggested by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, who was mainly responsible for making Father's Day an annual celebration. She recommended a rose boutonniere for men, a corsage for ladies and a bouquet for the table.

Vitamin needs

Milk, cheeses and ice cream are primary sources of calcium. Calcium helps build bones and teeth. Blood could not clot without it nor muscles contract and relax normally. Calcium also delays fatigue and helps tired muscles recover. And without calcium, the body could not properly use the other important minerals.

'Give 'em Hell, Harry' craze is growing

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman always figured you ought to wait until a man is dead before you think about putting up a monument to him. It was his way of saying don't judge too quickly.

Well, Truman has been dead only 2½ years and already he's getting the best kind of monument there is: people are thinking most kindly these days about Harry Truman.

All kinds of people. In all kinds of ways.

Kids, who've never heard of a whistlestop, are wearing T-shirts proclaiming "Give 'Em Hell, Harry." Teen-agers, not yet born when Truman was president, but much aware of Watergate, made a hit of a musical lament that America needs Truman.

"We'd love to hear you speak your mind

"In plain and simple ways,

"Call a spade a spade

"Just like you did back in the days

"Speak of what was going down, with honesty and style."

Their parents, remembering the shock of learning Harry Who? replaced Franklin Roosevelt as president, remembering the Cold War and Korea, are packing the house at every performance of a one-man play about Truman. Two recent books, one by Truman's daughter, Margaret, have been best sellers.

And leading the Remember Truman brigade is none other than Gerald Ford, President of the United States, who was one of only 10 Republican first-termers to win election to Congress in 1948 when there was a single overriding campaign issue: Truman.

Ford was so delighted after seeing actor James Whitmore portray Truman that he mounted the stage and told the audience:

"Everyone here knows I've known and admired Mr. Truman for 25 years, but tonight I learned some new things. All of it increased my admiration for him."

It seems the whole country has been learning new things about the Man from Missouri, who held a pollster's record for low popularity in office.

"We could have predicted it," says Dr. Benedict Zobrist, director of the Truman Library. "People are looking for an honest man who had integrity. Not that he didn't have his faults, but here is a man even the younger generation can identify with."

In St. Louis, there is a man who makes his living by guessing what the younger generation will identify with.

Max Scharf, a manufacturer of decorated T-shirts, saw a piece of the Whitmore play "Give 'Em Hell, Harry," on CBS's 60 minutes. Something clicked and he ordered his production department into action.

"Nostalgia is very hot for us," says Scharf. "You can do so much with Harry." Result: a passable line drawing of HST and the slogan, naturally, "Give 'Em Hell, Harry," on T-shirts.

The renewed interest in Truman shows itself in other ways. The Truman Library, not exactly in the travel path to Disneyland, the mountains or the beaches, has had such an increase in visitors that it's extending its summer hours.

Librarians report a run on Truman books, a movie is about to go into production, another play is in the works, a television retrospective is planned. The number of researchers delving into documents at the Truman library is growing.

"There's no question in my mind what did it — Watergate," says Ned Chase, the editor of Merle Miller's book about Truman, entitled "Plain Speaking."

The Miller book, coinciding with the start of Nixon's second term in 1973, set the publishing industry on its ear. It sold more than two million copies.

Another biography, "Harry S. Truman," by daughter Margaret Truman Daniel, was a blend of personal reminiscence, history and biography. It preceded Miller's by a few months and sold more than one million copies. A spokesman for Putnam, the publisher, called it a "raging best seller." Publication nearly coincided with Truman's death on Dec. 26, 1972.

Mrs. Daniel says she doesn't know the reason for the nostalgia about her father, and Watergate possibly is as good an explanation as any.

"This started happening before he died," she says. "I was very glad he lived to see this."

It wasn't nostalgia then, she added, but a re-evaluation of his presidency.

Re-evaluation might not be the proper phrase. In some minds it would be a complete turnabout.

Truman's popularity had sunk to 22 per cent in his last year as president. "To err is Truman," was a popular phrase.

He had survived such ups and downs before. Before he became vice president he was referred to as "The Senator from Pendergast," a reference to the corrupt political boss who nurtured his rise. In 1948, when a divided Democratic party nominated him at 2 a.m., there were signs in the hall, "We're just Mild about Harry."

Historians still tend to look at his administration with a jaundiced eye. They blame him for the Cold War that has affected American relations with Communist nations ever since. They still argue over his decision to drop the first atomic bomb and they assail his dropping the second.

The reassessment seems to focus more on the man than his actions.

Dan Fennell, a Kansas City political insider, says, "Nobody's making a god out of him, but people yearn for truth in government and honest principles. We are all looking for a man whose word is good."

That's the theme of the song "Harry Truman," recorded by the rock group Chicago. It recalls the 33rd president for the younger generation in the same way the books and play do for their elders.

Robert Lamm, singer and songwriter with Chicago, says he wrote the song during the Watergate trial after reading Miller's book and Truman's two volumes of memoirs.

He was impressed with Truman's idealism, "the same kind of golden rule our grandparents lived by and tied to teach us."

The kids reacted to the song by buying it in respectable numbers. At Chicago's concerts, Lamm says, "It's been getting an incredible response. When we do the last chorus, we hear, completely unprompted, a lot of voices singing along in the audience. And while the audience is singing along, we unfurl two American flags from the ceiling and hit them with lights. People just stand up and salute almost."

Since Truman always cared about the youth of the nation, he might have been pleased to see what prompts the response. It's these words:

"America's calling Harry Truman.

"Harry, you'd know what to do.

"The world is turning, turning round

"And losing lots of ground.

"Oh, Harry, is there something we can do

"To save the land that we love."

'The Submersion of Japan'

Disaster film turns out a disaster

TOKYO (AP) — Filming the total destruction of Japan wasn't easy, and the television network that did it found it still couldn't get all the nation's TV viewers on the edges of their seats to watch.

Actually, the destruction went on for months until a TV news announcer appeared with tears streaking down both cheeks and composed himself long enough to tell a fearful nation, "Fellow countrymen, sayonara (Farewell) ..."

The picture on the tube jumped as the studio was thumped asunder by a powerful earthquake and the TV screen momentarily went blank.

When the picture returned, a tableau of destruction and horror was laid before the viewers' eyes. One be one, each of Tokyo's landmarks tumbled down, covering the streets with rubble and killing millions of the people in this Japanese capital of 11 million people.

What occurred next on prime time Sunday night television was an impossible act to follow — or even repeat.

The Japanese islands, ravaged for 26 weeks by earthquake and fire, slowly slipped beneath the water and settled permanently on the bottom of the Pacific Ocean.

And the television series called "The Submersion of Japan" came to an end. It had not been a big success.

The network, one of five in Japan, believed that bad news would be good business. Two years ago, Japan's novelists and moviemakers turned to themes of doom, and found an eager market among the nation's 110 million people, melancholy over an economic downturn.

"Submersion" started out with 18 per cent of the Sunday evening audience. By the time Japan sank, however, only 13 per cent remained.

If the show's popularity wasn't all that Tokyo Broadcasting System had hoped for, one reason might have been the acting. The story of the evereroding archipelago seldom got away from melodrama.

But the special effects were something else.

It took two days' shooting for two minutes of suitably shocking footage, said officials at Tokyo Broadcasting.

Each installment was preceded and followed by a special announcement informing viewers they were watching a fictional account.

In one episode, powerful tremors struck the picturesque old city of Kamakura and its giant statue of Buddha shook and trembled before being swallowed up by the earth. The city's terrified residents tried to escape by boat only to be called back — too late — with news of an approaching tidal wave.

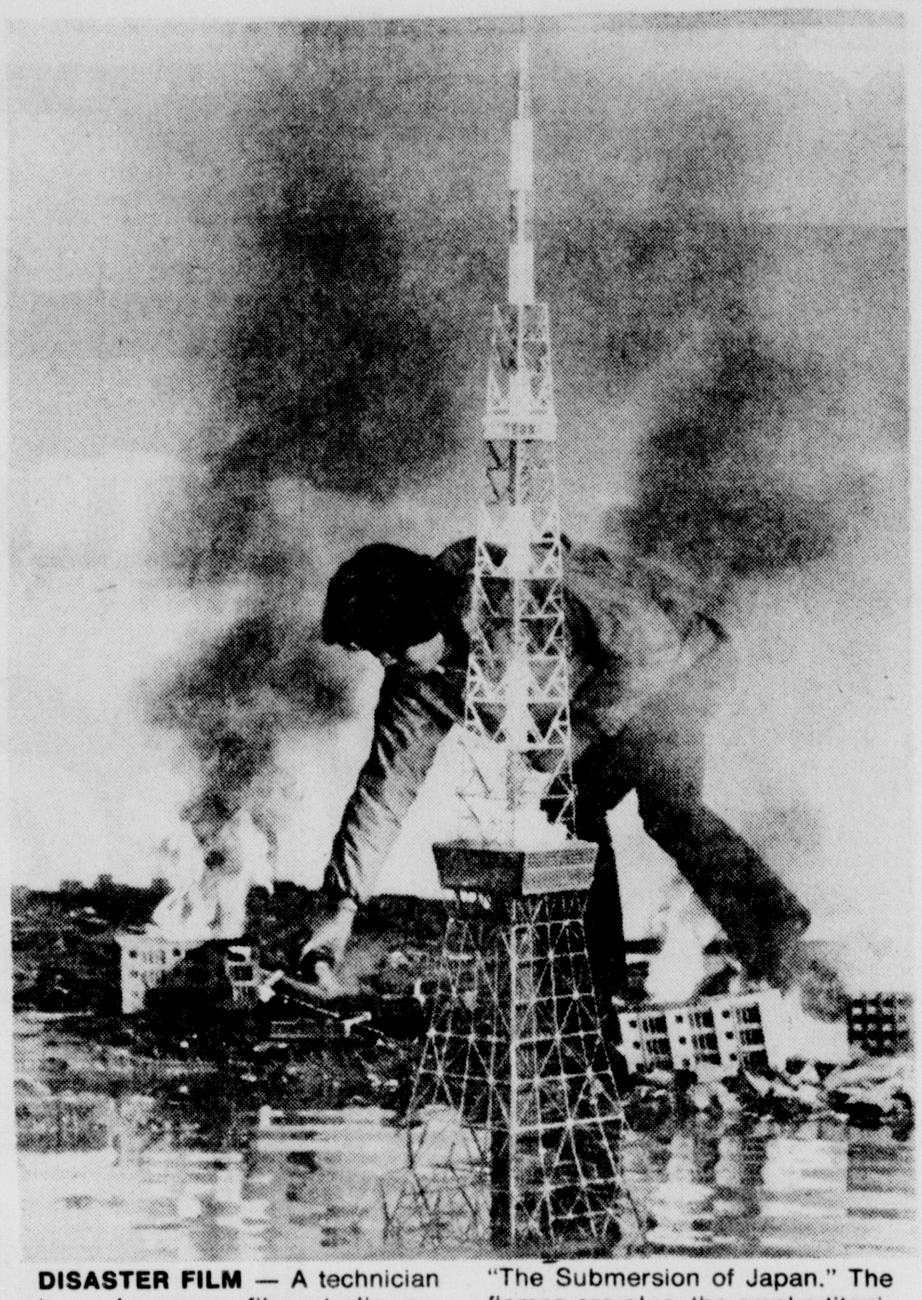

Kyoto, spared by American bombers during World War II because of its rich cultural heritage, lost each of its famous temples and castles down gaping chasms before another tidal wave turned the ancient city into a vast watery grave.

The story has the United Nations organize a massive evacuation that manages ..to save .f;o whe,$becomes apparent. The population is divided up and given shelter in the United States, the Soviet Union, Canada, Australia and elsewhere.

"The Submersion of Japan" TV series was adapted from a popular science fiction novel of the same name. The book sold more than 3.5 million copies and a feature-length film soon followed.

The movie became the biggest earning Japanese film in 1974.

But after the two year media blitz, the Japanese seem to have lost interest in the theme. And "Submersion" lost the ratings battle to a drama of sex, violence and intrigue in 17th Century Japan.

DISASTER FILM — A technician in a Japanese film studio arranges a scene for the destruction of the nation in a television series, "The Submersion of Japan." The flames are glue, the smoke titanium tetrachloride. The series bombed in the ratings.

Casinos feel Nevada's gaming future's bright

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) Nevada's gaming future is bright and rosy, despite the threat that other states may legalize gambling and compete for the tourist dollar, casino officials said here Wednesday.

"If a state does try casino gambling, it will be a long time before it could catch up to Nevada," said Robbins Cahill, president of the Nevada Resort Association. "Even if California did the unthinkable (and legalize gambling), it would not be the end of Nevada gaming."

His comments came at the final day of a conference on gambling sponsored by the economics department at the University of Nevada, Reno.

Cahill said the secret of Nevada's gaming success is change.

"Las Vegas discovered in the early 60s that if you want to keep on making money, you've got to build rooms, rooms, and more rooms and combine gaming with other forms of leisure living," he said.

Leo Lewis, general manager of the Flamingo Hilton in Las Vegas, agreed.

"Our industry has the ability to change," he said. "We must change or die in the future."

GENEVIEVE BUJOLD is one of the stars of Universal's "Earthquake," now playing at the Eastland in West Covina. It is her first major film role since she won an Academy Award nomination for her role as Anne Boleyn in "Anne of the Thousand Days."

MURAL ART — This is part of a colorful mural, 120 feet long and 10 feet high, painted by students of De Anza Junior High School, Ontario, on the back of the handball courts. It is the work of 33 students of art instructor Brian Henry. The American eagle and the cougar, the school mascot, are the work of art student Frank Franco. The mural took five weeks.

33 students paint mural

Thirty-three students at De Anza Junior High School 1450 S. Sultana Ave., Ontario, have painted a colorful, 120-foot mural on the back of the school's handball courts.

The mural, 10 feet high, was painted in five weeks by the students in art instructor Brian Henry's advanced art class, but planning and designing for the project have been going on for over a year and a half.

The idea for the mural originated in the De Anza student council, says Henry, when the council decided that "a mural might help to curb the graffiti and give De Anza students a positive project which would reflect themselves, their school and ther community."

The mural became, in fact, more reflective of the student-body than was originally planned. Henry said "The original theme was purely design form, but student artist Frank Franco brought about a more realistic and symbolic theme."

Franco's major contributions, according to Henry, are two central shapes resembling spectacles, which Henry suggests could symbolize "how we see it."

"My Ulcer & Arthritis Are Well Now

Says Mr. D. Rosa: For a whole year I took all kinds of remedies and pills, some which aggravated my stomach, yet my arthritis was not better. I got tired of fooling around and getting no help, so made up my mind to fly to L.A. to see Dr. Wing. Today my stomach and shoulder are both well without the use of drugs, surgery, shots or hospitalization. I am in fine shape now and eating again.

"ULCERATIVE COLON GONE"

Says T. L. Henson: I had ulcerative stomach and colon trouble as shown by x-rays. I went to several doctors but did not receive any help. I went to Dr. Wing for 5 weeks and was better. After two months, I went to another doctor. The x-rays showed the ulcerative colon and stomach was cleared up.

Bounds back after economic uncertainty

Renewed hope gets market rolling again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, bogged down in profit taking and economic uncertainty since early May, got rolling again this past week with a sharp and broadly based rally.

The chief catalysts for the upsurge were evidence of easing inflation, renewed hopes for an improving economy, and talk from the White House of giving private industry a place in the production of nuclear fuel.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 30.97 to 855.44, moving within hailing distance of its 1975 closing high of 858.73 on May 14.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index advanced 2.09 to 92.61, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was up 1.20 to 49.39.

Advances overpowered declines 1,234 to 55 among the 2,027 issues changing hands on the NYSE.

Big Board volume picked up speed, averaging 19.88 million shares a day compared with 18.46 million the week before.

The strong showing came despite some shock effects early in the week from Du Pont's forecast that its second-quarter earnings would be sharply lower than they were in the comparable period last year.

As of midday Wednesday, the Dow showed a negative reading for the week before it began to pick up some forward momentum.

When it did, brokers found several reasons — perhaps the most intriguing of which was the word from the White House that the Ford administration was considering proposing a bill to put future nuclear fuel production facilities in the hands of the private sector.

The government would reportedly retain control of three existing facilities for enriching uranium, if the plan were enacted.

Whatever other issues the proposal raised, one broker said he believed the idea would logically appeal to the financial community and investors who shared its economic philosophies for three reasons:

"First, it would do something to resolve our energy problems. Second, it would be done better by industry than it would be by government; and third, it would give somebody a chance to make some money."

By Friday morning, there were at least two other factors working for the market — the government's report that the rise of consumer prices slowed in May, and a Conference Board group's report suggesting that a marked economic recovery was in prospect for the next 18 months.

Of particular note in the consumer price report was the news that the increase in prices of non-food items was the slowest in 20 months. The non-food group is watched closely by observers looking for signs of trends because it is considered less prone to volatile short term swings than food costs.

With that kind of news to work with, the Dow gained 17.52 points Thursday and another 10.09 on Friday.

In all, 305 Big Board stocks hit new 1975 highs, against only 11 new lows.

Prominent on the new-high list were electric utilities. Brokers cited several reasons for the strength in the group, but a number noted that it seemed to benefit from particularly from the idea of the stimulus to nuclear power generation that private enrichment of uranium would most likely represent.

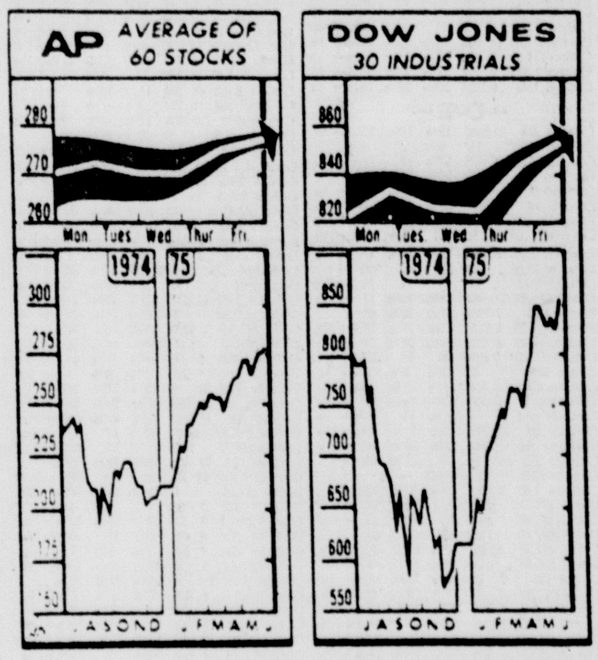

Southern Co., the Big Board volume leader, rose 7/8 to 13 1/4; Duke Power 1 3/4 to 16 5/8; Florida Power & Light 2 1/8 to 25 7/8; American Electric Power 7/8 to 20 1/2, and Virginia Electric & Power 1 1/8 to 13 1/8.

Among issues with uranium interests, Kerr-McGee jumped 3 3/4 to 93 1/2 and Atlas Corp. picked up 3/4 to 3 5/8.

Du Pont shares gained 4 to 123 1/2, recovering from a sharp but temporary setback on the company's earnings forecast early in the week.

A.E. Staley Manufacturing, which called off a planned 700,000-share offering, was up 4 1/2 at 42.

BUNNY TO ENVOY

MADRID (AP) — Chari Jordan, a former Playboy bunny, is giving new dimension to the U.S. Embassy in Madrid.

More than six feet tall and black, she probably is the most spectacular addition the U.S. diplomatic corps has had in Europe in years.

A junior officer trainee in the U.S. Information Service, she has drawn more than average attention in Madrid, where the average resident measures just a little more than five feet in height.

Born in the Virgin Islands, Miss Jordan worked in Playboy Clubs in Baltimore and New York after being graduated with a law degree from George Washington University. She entered U.S. foreign service early this year.

Improved economy aids home sales

Increased availability of home mortgage funds and growing indications the economy is improving are painting the brightest picture in many months for residential real estate.

A real estate market report made by the National Association of Realtors reveals that an upturn in housing is already underway and the market is expected to show further improvements during the summer months.

Survey participants — specialists in residential property — reported that demand for single family homes during the first quarter this year experienced a more than seasonal upturn. Buyer interest, however, hasn't yet approached levels of previous years.

Sales of existing single family homes began to show improvements in February when the seasonally adjusted sales volume index jumped 10 points. Further gains were shown in March when the salesvolume index increased three points and in April with a six point increase.

New homes sales didn't fare as well. During the first quarter, sales reported by the U.S. Bureau of Census were measurably below the volume for the same period last year and substantially less than levels which prevailed in 1972 and 1973. New home sales in March, however, rose 10 per cent over February levels in response to a favorable mortgage market and a five per cent federal tax credit. H. Jackson Pontius, executive vice president of the national association, said, "Buyers entering the single-family home market will be able to choose from a large selection of well maintained properties in good locations." The survey showed that supply or listings of existing single-family homes were generally more plentiful this spring than at any other time in the past two years. Two-thirds of the areas surveyed reported that listings were the same or better than a year ago.

Increase in the median sales price of existing homes nearly matched the double-digit advance of the Consumer Price Index during the past year, demonstrating the value of the single-family home as a hedge against inflation.

Horses allowed at 'Sol'

It is ironic that in the west where horses once had an important role that fewer and fewer communities are still zoned for them, said Roger Lewis, vice president of Lewis Homes.

"It's also sad because the appeal of living on a horse ranch is attractive not only to the most accomplished equestrian but also to the tenderest tenderfoot who has never been on a horse. Living in the wide open spaces close to nature appeals to many persons."

One community where horses are allowed is the Lewis Homes' Ranchos Del Sol, a bridle trail community in Fontana. Homes are built on half-acre lots.

"But even here the opportunity of living in such an open environment is rapidly diminishing as only three homes remain unsold," said Lewis. The four bedroom homes are priced from $32,250, with qualified veterans eligible to move in with $99 down payments.

The homes feature refrigerated air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings and garden kitchens. The ceilings and walls are insulated to make homes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter.

To reach the homes, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to Citrus Avenue, travel south to Slover Avenue, east to Oleander Avenue and then south to the site. Model homes are open daily.

BABY ELEPHANTS

OF ALL THE ANIMALS THAT LIVE ON LAND TODAY, THE ELEPHANT IS THE BIGGEST. WHEN FIRST BORN, A BABY ELEPHANT MAY BE 3 FEET TALL AND WEIGH 200 POUNDS. IT MAY WEIGH MORE THAN 12,000 POUNDS WHEN FULLY GROWN AND IT MAY STAND ABOUT 10 FEET TALL.

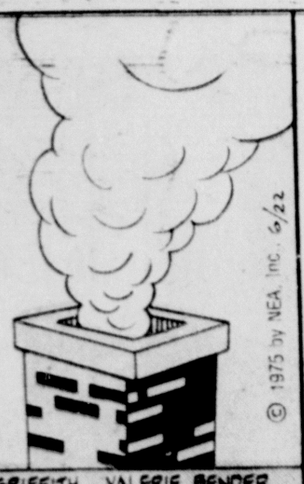

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

DEBBIE HAZEN OF NEW ALBANY, IN, ASKS:

"WHY DOES A FIRE MAKE SMOKE?"

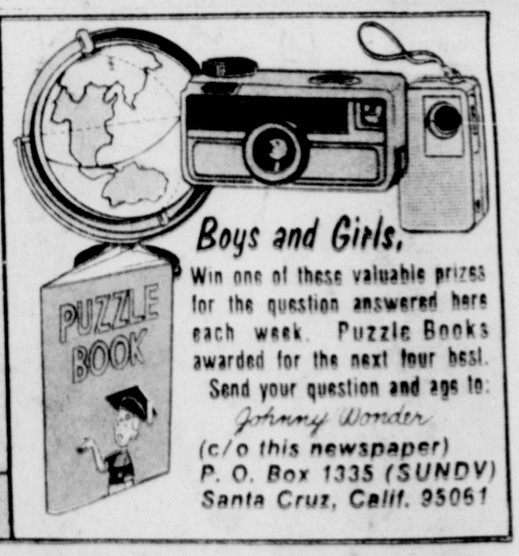

WHEN A LOG IN A FIREPLACE BURNS, SOME OF THE HOT WOOD IS CHANGED INTO INVISIBLE GASES. THESE HOT GASES RISE UP THE CHIMNEY AND DRIFT AWAY WITH THE AIR. OFTEN THE RIGHT AMOUNT OF OXYGEN IS LACKING TO MAKE THE FIRE HOT ENOUGH TO BURN THE WOOD COMPLETELY. THEN, MANY TINY BLACK SPECKS OF UNBURNED CARBON, CALLED "SOOT," ARE CARRIED AWAY WITH THE RISING CLOUD OF HOT GASES. THE SPECKS OF SOOT COLOR THE HOT GASES GRAY AND MAKE THEM VISIBLE AS SMOKE.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When taking coupons to the supermarket be sure to underline the dates. This is a big help for the checker and saves your time, too. — GEORGE.

DEAR POLLY — The easy way I give my dog a pill, no matter how large, is to cover it with enough butter to completely hide the pill. She swallows it with enjoyment and gets her medicine, too. — LORRAINE.

DEAR POLLY — I don't have enough drawer space for all my plastic container lids, so I covered a large shoebox with some leftover stick-on paper and set it on a shelf. The tops stand in the box, arranged from small to large. The few extra-large ones stand behind the box. —MRS.D.L.L.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I remove black marks and dirt from white shoes by rubbing on a little toothpaste and then wiping it off with a paper towel. A once-over with a damp cloth and a new coat of polish completes the job. — G.Z.

DEAR POLLY — My catch-all drawer is kept neat by using empty margarine containers to hold rubber bands, bag twisters, tiny lids, pins, screw, nails, etc. — MRS. D.L.L.

DEAR POLLY — When separating an egg and a part of the yolk drops into the white, moisten a clean cloth with cold water, touch it to the dropped yolk and it will adhere to the cloth. — CANDACE.

DEAR POLLY — Those small plastic packages cosmetics and little toys come in can make attractive wall plaques. Glue dried flowers, bark, moss and small plastic mushrooms or animals inside them. Cut out an appropriate picture, glue to cardboard and attach to the back. Add a small loop of yarn for hanging. — PAULA.

DEAR POLLY — I chop nuts for baking as soon as I buy them, then store in an empty peanut butter jar. It's easy to see when it's time to reorder! — RITA.

POLLY'S NOTE — I find it more economical and timesaving to buy packaged, shelled nuts that come as broken pieces.

ASTROLOGICAL RESEARCH NEWS BULLETIN

NEW DEVELOPMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

BY ASTROLOGICAL WRITER J. C. RILEY

THE SECRET OF HAVING GOOD LUCK

NEWEST DISCOVERY BY I.A.A. MAY BE BIGGEST IN THE HISTORY OF ASTROLOGY

By J. C. Riley - Astrological Writer

I am presenting here the most interesting story I have ever covered as an astrological writer. Read my story and find out how to become a luckier person. Yes, as a result of an astrological research discovery, you can actually increase your good luck. Here's how:

(Canton, OH) What's their secret?

Why are some people so much luckier than others? Good luck occurs too often for these lucky people for it to be a coincidence.

How do certain people get rich by being in the right place at the right time? How does that certain person in everyone's circle of acquaintances (you know the guy) seem to always win door prizes, raffles, lotteries, cards and you name it? Why are certain people always lucky in love, careers, and business ventures?

These were the age old questions I was mulling in my mind as I was flying to Canton, Ohio, on Wednesday, January 8, 1975.

My questions were soon to be answered, as I embarked on the most interesting story I have ever covered as an astrological writer.

Canton looked familiar to me as my plane touched down at 8:16 A.M. that morning. I have covered many stories here. This is because the object of my visit, The International Astrological Association, is the world's largest astrological society.

But never was the anticipation of myself and my colleagues back home so high. Nor, was there any other time when the people at I.A.A. informed us of a discovery with so much excitement.

I was meeting with chief astrologer Cary Franks and two of her research assistants at the society's research center in the northern part of Canton.

We met in a conference room next to the research center's computer complex. After some coffee and small talk we quickly got down to business because I couldn't wait to ask certain questions.

My first obvious question to Cary was, "How did you discover the secret of good luck?"

Answer: "The whole project is called the Life-Luck Project. It's referred to around here by its commissioned research project number: A537-LH.

Project A537-LH was commissioned by the board of directors nearly 4 years ago on March 7, 1971. Research data was gathered by: 1) Investigating historically famous, fortunate people, 2) Investigating famous fortunate people of today, 3) Observation of research test subjects (half of which were known to be lucky), 4) Analysis of more than 198,000 research questionnaires gathered from all over the country through I.A.A.'s nationally famous feature "ASTROLOGY TODAY" which has run in nearly every major publication in the country. Total number of people submitting birth information through "ASTROLOGY TODAY" was over 1.2 million. Total capital outlay for the Life-Luck Project was over $192,000.00."

LADY LUCK?

Cary Franks—Famous chief astrologer for I.A.A.—Director of the Life-Luck Research Project. Cary was born and educated in Cleveland, Ohio. She received a B.S. in psychology and chemistry from Case-Western Reserve University and a masters in polymer chemistry from Akron University. After graduating, she became interested in astrology. She studied the subject for 10 years and earned the highest certification given to professional astrologers. She has studied astrology in London and around the world. The mere fact that Cary is associated with this project may be lucky in itself. Many of her clients say that just being associated with her in any way seems to bring a person good luck.

"What did you find out as a result of your investigation of fortunate people?" I asked.

Answer: "We confirmed what we had already suspected - that most fortunate people get that way by using astrology. Professional astrologers will tell you that nearly all rich and famous people, past and present, use astrologers. Even present and historic world leaders use or have used astrology.

"But, although the fact that rich and famous people use astrology is news to laymen, it is obvious to professional astrologers. What we were really after was exactly HOW did these fortunate people use astrology. Astrology is a science of infinite scope. You must use specific areas for the specific things you want to accomplish with it. Also, you must know in detail how to APPLY astrological knowledge."

"What did you discover on HOW to use astrology to achieve good luck?"

Answer: "This was an important finding. In this discovery, we uncovered what areas of astrology to use and how to apply the knowledge. Here's the secret of successful use of astrology relating to luck."

"The SEQUENCE of using astrological knowledge relating to luck is critical. You must know WHERE, WHEN and HOW—AND IN THAT ORDER. First, you must know in what areas you are the luckiest—WHERE. Second, you must know at what time to act in these areas—WHEN. Third, you must know what to do when you do act—HOW. It was discovered, in fact, that the timing (WHEN) was the most important part. So, unless you do things in the right SEQUENCE, achieving good luck through astrology is impossible. For example, it is meaningless to know your lucky areas if you don't know EXACTLY WHEN to be active in these areas."

"Famous American tycoon J. P. Morgan used this sequence theory to great advantage. This was discovered early in our research and this fact was cited in "ASTROLOGY TODAY." J. P. Morgan's astrologer was none other than EvangelineAdams, grand-daughter of famed President John Quincy Adams. Maybe she discovered the secret long before anyone but kept it between herself and Mr. Morgan. J. P. Morgan invested in areas dictated to be best by his horoscope. But, he would only make investments at the exact time prescribed by Miss Adams."

"Again, on the importance of timing (when you INITIATE or START things) is this example. Few people know that the mother of Julius Caesar was bound in such a manner as to delay his birth for two hours. This was because the family's astrologer said that if he was born at that time, he would become a great historic leader. Then, to make sure that he was born at that exact hour, his mother was surgically opened for his birth. Thus we have the term, 'Caesarean birth'."

"That's amazing. So that's where I was going wrong. It all seems so obvious and simple, NOW, after all your hard work. What else did you discover during your investigation?"

"We also made this discovery: Fortunate people ALSO use numerology (a related field to astrology) and even psychology (more specifically the psychology of color) along with astrology to produce good luck."

"Numerology and psychology too," I responded, "That's interesting. How do they use these two fields to produce good luck?"

Answer: "There are many ways to use numerology. Like electricity, we can't explain why it works, but we know that nature and the universe contain numbers and combinations of numbers in rhythm. For instance, there are 7 parts to the human embryo, 7 great tissue systems, 7 layers of skin, it takes 7 months for complete renewal of soft tissue and 7 years to replace every cell and rebuild an entirely new body! Seven is a significant number in every other area of science. Seven is also embedded in basic religion structure and in the bible. There are other significant numbers such as 9 and 12, and also significant combinations. If you get into the rhythm of these numbers in the right way, you can achieve good luck.

"For example, the letters in the alphabet have assigned numbers. Singer Dionne Warwicke took the advice from her numerologist and added an 'e' to the end of her name. Her numerologist told her this would bring about the correct, fortunate combination.

She immediately skyrocketed to fame. She has revealed this fact on the Johnny Carson show twice."

"On psychology, in Germany, research was done on the psychology of color. It was discovered that a person's favorite color reveals a lot about him relating to luck. It was also discovered that certain combinations of colors seemed to cause good things to happen. Possibly these combinations produce luck vibrations and rhythms."

"Sounds like you really had it pinned down."

Answer: "No, we were still not home yet. Now came the acid test. We had to take all this information and produce a special tool which would actually increase good luck. This tool would combine ASTROLOGY, NUMEROLOGY and PSYCHOLOGY for the first time."

"After a great deal of research development, trial and error, we were able to perfect such a tool. We called this special tool the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE.

For the final rating of effectiveness, we tested it out on our in-house research subjects."

"So, in the final tests, how did the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE DO?"

Answer: "The results were astounding! And, I'm not exaggerating when I say that. We were able to turn people into winners who had never won anything in their lives.

But, let me qualify that statement. We also found out something else during this final test. And, that is that all people are not equally lucky. If it isn't in their horoscope, that is if they were not born at the right time and place, they have only so much luck potential.

But, why I am so thrilled about the results and why they are significant is this: WE WERE ABLE TO INCREASE THE GOOD LUCK IN OVER 95% OF OUR RESEARCH SUBJECTS. In other words, I will go out on the limb and say that although some people are luckier than others, there is a 95% chance that their luck horoscope will guarantee that they get all the potential luck that they have coming.

Now, I don't want to tell you some of the amazing things that happened to our research subjects, myself, because I already sound like I'm bragging. Let me make a quick phone call and get two typical research subjects up here. I say typical because many subjects were much luckier and many were much less lucky. They are the average. But, I want to use them because they had never won anything in their lives until they used the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE.

Cary summoned two of the research subjects who had taken part in the final tests of the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE. She said I was free to print their testimony. This really impressed me. Few people know that trade regulations are hard on testimonials from people. If an organization prints a testimonial with a person's name, it had better be true. Bear this in mind as you read the following testimonials from Ken Fronk and Rose Lineman.

The two people entered the room and sat down. I first asked for the testimony of Ken Fronk of Canton, Ohio.

"Ken, tell me your experience while using the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE that was prepared for you."

Answer: "My LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE was prepared for me on March 1, 1974. The horoscope was in great detail, and covered all areas of my life. But, we as research subjects were told to concentrate on games so we could get the quickest test.

My horoscope listed games in order, from those which I would be luckiest, to those that I would be the least lucky. It listed dates and times that I would be most lucky. It also listed what my lucky number, colors and combination never won anything in my life. In fact, I used to think of myself as a born loser. But, and I still can't believe it, here are the results of using my LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE.

The first day my horoscope told me I would be lucky was March 16 to March 20. On March 17, I played the horses because that was listed high on my lucky area chart. I used the color and number information once I got to the track. And, that night I won $506.00!

I was told I was going to be very lucky May 19 to May 20. Using the same procedure: On May 19, I played bingo and won a $10.00 door prize and $60.00 in bingo. On May 20, I played bingo at my Moose Club and won the $500.00 jackpot. On May 21, I played bingo again and won $50.00. On May 22, I won $525.00 on the horses and $45.00 playing bingo.

In October, the 6th to the 11th was a lucky period. But, I was told that October 9 was an especially hot day for me and I was to bet heavy. I played the horses and won the daily double and $1,090.00.

I then asked for the testimony of Rose Lineman of Fredonia, Pennsylvania.

Answer: "Well my testimony will be much shorter than Ken's was, because, the only game I am interested in is Bingo. I got my LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE on May 1, 1974.

Prior to that time, I never won at bingo over a period of a month. I would keep monthly records. They would usually come out on the loss side, with a few break-even months and a very few slight winning months. Overall, I was way in the red.

Now compare this. By following the advice in my LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE, from May 1 to December 31, 1974, I had won $2,219.00 over that eight-month period. I played on the average of once a week depending on my lucky periods, averaging about $70.00 a night.

But, there are two things that impressed me about this horoscope more than my own experience. As a favor, I had the I.A.A. do a horoscope for each of two friends of mine.

My first friend's horoscope told her to buy an Ohio lottery ticket on December 5. She just found out today that her ticket was a winner!

My second friend had a spicy experience. Her horoscope told her that she would have extremely good luck in her love-life in July. It told her to be active socially that month. She had more affairs that month than I think I had in my entire life. She came out of it with a lasting one—a guy that you couldn't have tailor-made any better for her."

"At this point, I have only one request from you people," I pleaded, "I want my LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE!" Everyone laughed at this point as though I had just made a request that a million other people had made before me.

Answer: "Yes, there is quite a demand for the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE since word has leaked out. And, we are now prepared to offer it to the public now—ON A SPECIAL BASIS. But, let me show you a sample LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE first so you know exactly what it is."

I was shown a copy of this special horoscope. To go into a complete description will take up too much space, so, listed next are the highlights of the contents of the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE.

- The LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE reveals the following:

1. WHERE, WHEN and HOW you will be lucky.
2. How to take advantage of your lucky opportunities.
3. How to increase your good luck.
4. How to avoid bad luck.

LIFE'S WHEEL OF FORTUNE

Scientists are finding out that it may not be coincidence that some people are luckier than others. Now it may be possible to insure that you will get your share and more of life's good fortune.

- The horoscope covers how you can be lucky, depending on your horoscope, in the following areas:

Love - Job - Career - Investments - Stocks - Commodities - Oil Wells - Bingo - Lotteries - Cards: Poker, Black Jack, Baccarat - Inheritance - Football and Baseball Pools - Horse Racing - Dog Racing - General Games - Keno - Sports - Tip Boards - Contests - Raffles - Sweepstakes - Roulette - Slot Machines - Dice - Parlays - Legal Matters

- The LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE also defines the following items:

Your Lucky: Years, Months, Days, Hours, Numbers, Colors, Metals, Stones, People (Their Signs And When They Were Born). How to Create Lucky Vibrations, How To Create A Lucky Attitude.

Answer: "We wish, of course, to market this product in the future. But, right now we would like to accomplish two more things."

"One, we would like to test this horoscope on the general public. Two, we would like to get some testimonials, like Rose's and Ken's, from PAYING customers. This is because we have found that if you can say 'testimonial from a paying customer' in your promotion, it carries the most weight with the public."

"We don't know what we will charge for this product in the future, but, for this extension of our testing program, the price will be only $9.95—a price we have found to be popular.

"Now here's the best part. People who purchase the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE through the test extension and submit a testimonial on their experience, could be awarded a nice chunk of money. Because, if their testimonial is chosen for use in our future promotions, they will promptly receive $500.00."

"Here's my check book," I said. "I'll pay you anything you want. Just do mine for me," I said, half jokingly. But, I really was anxious to get and try my LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE.

"But one last question. What about the news I've been hearing that part of the reason the LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE works is because you're associated with it. They call you Lady Luck around here, don't they?" (She kind of blushed at this point.)

Answer: "Well, I guess that does seem to be true. It seems that anytime I acquire new friends of business acquaintances that they become uncontrollably lucky and filthy rich. I don't know if it's coincidence or what. Who can totally explain life?"

We concluded the interview and Cary gave me the following information to pass on to those who wish to participate in the special project:

1) Get a blank piece of paper. 2) At the top of the paper, print the words "LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE". 3) Print your name and address. 4) Print your date, time and place of birth (if you don't know the exact time, just put 12 noon). 5) Write down your favorite color. 6) Mail this along with $9.95, plus 50¢ for postage and handling, in cash, check or money order to: I.A.A., Dept. L-17 ; 4626 CLEVELAND AVE. N.; CANTON, OHIO 44709.

This product carries a full and unconditional money back guarantee. When you receive your LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE, a business reply card will be enclosed. After using your LIFE-LUCK HOROSCOPE, simply write a few lines in your own words on your experience and mail it back to I.A.A. If your testimonial is chosen for future ads, you will receive $500.00 cash.

I'm in! Come along and join "the luckiest group in America." What if you miss your fortune because you didn't?

FRED THE COCKATOO & HIS OFF-SCREEN FRIENDS

On the TV screen, personable Fred the cockatoo shares unofficial star billing with Robert Blake in ABC's Baretta series (Wednesdays, 10 PM). Like Blake, he receives pounds and pounds of fan mail. His repertoire which continually delights viewers includes riding on a scooter, pedaling a bicycle, imitating a dog and a cat, and saying "Hello" and "I Love You" and "Freeze." Blake has joked that he's getting jealous of his co-star. "A TV newsman cancelled his set interview with me one day when he found Fred wasn't there," he commented. "He told me the interview would be a lot more visually interesting on a day Fred was there. And he was right!" Off screen, Fred shares the spotlight at his owner-trainer Ray Berwick's home with other screen celebrities such as Samantha the goose, who appeared in the ABC Sunday Night Movie presentation of "Friendly Persuasion," and Baby the golden eagle whose credits include Andy Griffiths' special on ABC, Adams of Eagle Lake.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'BOB BARKER—DEAN OF GAME SHOW EMCEES'

"I get paid for making other people funny."

The line pretty well sums up the career of Bob Barker, who is today the acknowledged dean of television's game show emcees. He is also the most-seen star in the medium's history and his new three-year, million-dollar-plus contract with CBS as emcee of The Price Is Right also makes him the highest-salaried emcee in that same history.

Barker has for the past 18 years been the witty host of the five-a-week Truth or Consequences, TV's longest-running audience participation show, and will continue for two more years with shows already taped even though 'T or C' has now finally, ceased production. He has been doing The Price Is Right for the past three years, has emceed both the "Miss U.S.A." and "Miss Universe" beauty pageants for the past nine years and the "Tournament of Roses Parade" for CBS and "The Indianapolis 500 Parade" for six.

To Barker, it's all a breeze — but so is an appendectomy to a trained surgeon. "If you have a son," he says, only half-kiddingly, "raise him to be an emcee. If he's a good one, he'll always have a job. But the audience participation show," he goes on, "is as much in short supply as are the trained emcees to handle them. There is a subtle but very distinct difference between the audience participation show and the game show. In the latter, it's the game that carries the show. In the former, it's the contestant — and it's the emcee who makes or breaks him. That's what I mean when I say that only rarely are people funny. It takes an experienced emcee to make a contestant funny, and, most important, to do it without hurting him or exposing him to ridicule.

"It isn't easy today for young people to gain that kind of experience. Radio stations, where a youngster years ago had a crack at doing every kind of job, now pretty well restrict themselves to music, news and sports." Barker's earliest years would seem to have had no bearing whatever on his later broadcasting career. Born in Darrington, Wash., he spent an idyllic boyhood on the Rosebud Indian Reservation in Mission, S.D., where his mother was a teacher and later County Superintendent of Schools. Mission had a population of some 200 and Bob had a Tom Sawyer existence — fishing, swimming, horseback riding and a priceless education in Indian culture and traditions from his Indian playmates. (He is, in fact, one-eighth Indian himself.)

He attended high school in Springfield, Mo., where his family had eventually moved, and got his first taste of broadcasting when he handled the public address system during the school's football games.

After graduating summa cum laude from Drury College and becoming a navy fighter pilot during World War II, Barker married his childhood sweetheart, Dorothy Jo Gideon, and got a job "doing everything" at a local Springfield radio station. Including hosting audience participation shows.

In 1950, after a brief interlude with a Florida radio station, the Barkers took off for Hollywood and within a week Bob found himself emceeing his own show, The Bob Barker Show, on KWIK, a pint-sized radio station in Burbank. Six years later, Ralph Edwards, the creator and host of Truth or Consequences, stumbled across The Bob Barker Show on his car radio. Edwards was impressed both by the quality of Bob's voice and his friendly, natural style. Furthermore, he had been looking for just such a voice and personality to become the emcee of a new five-a-week daytime TV version of Truth or Consequences. He tracked Bob down, auditioned him — and on Dec. 31, 1956, Bob Barker did his first Truth or Consequences show. Seventeen years and 3,524 consecutive shows later he was listed in the Guinness Book of Records as TV's "Most Durable Performer." His grand total today stands just over 4,000 'T or C' appearances.

The Barkers live in a large, comfortable Spanish-style home in the heart of Hollywood. They travel extensively and both speak fluent Spanish, Dorothy Jo more fluently than Bob. He is a Civil War buff, an excellent swimmer and golfer and maintains two unique collections — one of military figurines, gathered from all over the world, the other of exquisite Steuben glass. Unlike many other show business personalities, Bob Barker has never succumbed to the lure of politics. He has allowed himself only one lapse from this stand: In 1969 he served as Honorary Mayor of Encino, a political career that came to an abrupt halt when, in mid-term, he

'MR. ROONEY GOES TO DINNER'

CBS News writer-producer Andrew A. Rooney, whose acerbic, entertaining observations of government bureaucracy were recently seen on the CBS News Special "Mr. Rooney Goes to Washington," now takes his palate and a film crew to some of America's typical and atypical restaurants, observing in his own special way how Americans eat when they eat out, where they go and why, on "Mr. Rooney Goes to Dinner," a CBS News Special, Tuesday at 10PM.

For his candid study of the American way of dining out, Rooney sampled the cuisines of more than 75 restaurants in 12 cities, including Los Angeles, Seattle, Chicago, New York, and New Orleans. They ranged from the most expensive establishments, such as the Palace in New York, where a minimum tab comes to nearly $70.00 per person, without liquor but including tip, to fast-food chains, a variety of ethnic eateries and "theme" type restaurants, which feature unusual decors.

What makes customers frequent certain restaurants? Rooney found that the quality of the food was not necessarily the reason. "It's easier to find an acceptable restaurant today than it was, say, ten years ago," he comments, "but it's harder to find a good one. Today, a restaurant can attract as many people because it looks like a pirate ship as it can because it has a good chef."

In addition to looking at why people choose particular restaurants, Rooney explores what restaurants do to attract the customers. And, in spite of the wide variety of eating places included in his sampler, Rooney found many similarities prevailing. Take, for instance, the menu: "Most restaurants have a preference for using certain terms to describe their dishes. Among the most frequently used words are 'tangy,' 'topped with,' 'succulent,' 'choice morsels of' and 'zesty,' " notes Rooney.

"Since a restaurant makes more money on liquor than on food, it's easy to get a waiter to take your drink order, but hard to get his attention to tell him what you want to eat."

The chefs: "You wonder how some of them really feel about their cooking when they know the restaurant's main attraction is the view from the top floor." And the wines:

"If you can afford the wine, it probably isn't very good."

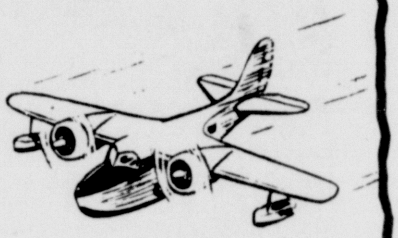

"Mr. Rooney Goes to Dinner" also looks behind the scenes of eating out. At a convention of the National Restaurants Association, some of the artificiality of the food business comes to light—the stretchers, tenderizers, softeners, thickeners and other agents which Rooney wryly describes as "articles that help restaurants make it by cheating."

There can be artificiality in the restaurant's setting as well, as exemplified by a visit to a company which specializes in creating restaurants to look like anything imaginable, from old airplanes to ships.

With the why's and wherefor's of dining out in America come a few of Rooney's own reasons for staying away from particular places. "If a restaurant has flaming torches outside and calls itself 'Polynesian,' I won't go in," he admits, adding that the same holds true for a restaurant that has a sign in its window, "Waitress Wanted."

'THE FOOD CRISES'

ABC News focuses on the crucial role played by the United States in the world food shortage and investigates the cost to American families and the hungry in other countries as a result of key government decisions, in the documentary special, "ABC News Closeup on the Food Crisis: A Matter of Policy." The report airs Friday at 10PM on ABC. The United States is the world's major exporter of grain — the basis of the world's food supply. United States grain will be as much a currency of the '70s as Arab oil.

Emmy Award-winning producer Pamela Hill heads the ABC News team which is examining government actions that have led up to the crisis. Peter Jennings is the correspondent and Brit Hume the reporter. The federal government has paid farmers to keep millions of acres of land idle at a time of surging food demand and famine overseas. Meanwhile, food costs for American consumers have mushroomed and farmers are organizing to protest wildly fluctuating prices. The ABC News report explores why. The report further will look at the relationship between giant grain companies and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Department's performance in protecting American consumers and farmers. ABC News also will probe the political uses of food aid programs.

"I believe this is a story that has been overlooked," commented Ms. Hill. "There is a misconception that somehow the food crisis is caused by natural forces—that food and agricultural policy is of concern only to farmers in Iowa. But, in fact, government policy is central to the food crisis. American policy has been a critical factor in the daily price you pay for food wherever you live. Furthermore, our research shows that Americans are paying a disproportionate share of increased food prices compared to their counterparts in other rich countries which buy much of our grain. American policy also has resulted in our reduced food aid program being used largely for political rather than humanitarian ends during the past few years."

The range of people interviewed for the report include bankrupt livestock producers, threatened grain farmers, agricultural economists, executives of grain companies and government officials. ABC News also has filmed in famine-stricken Bangladesh and India.

ABC News looks at America's position as the world's major food supplier, exemplified in the mechanized harvest of wheat in the state of Washington (left). Correspondent Peter Jennings, filmed climbing a grain-filled boxcar in Iowa (center), reports on the impact of government policy on high food prices in the United States and food shortages in poor countries such as India (photo at right).

'A VOLATILE COMBINATION'

How does it feel for a young actress to work with Katharine Hepburn? Joanna Miles knows: "For five weeks," she says, "it was like being part of a sun."

Miss Miles had just returned from England where she starred with Miss Hepburn, Sam Waterston and Michael Moriarity in a two-hour film of Tennessee Williams' classic, "The Glass Menagerie" which repeats this week on the ABC Saturday (June 28) Night Movie at 9PM.

"She's indomitable," Miss Miles says. "Her energy is so strong that she almost blew me over the first time we worked together. She's such an open person — her eyes are so transparent — that I could read in them, how well I was doing, moment to moment. I learned to play to those eyes, and always trust them."

"She's also absolutely tireless. The last scene in the show was shot at three in the morning in a driving rain that was only two or three degrees warmer than snow. I was freezing, huddled in a doorway between takes, and she was pacing up and down, full of energy, eager to work. The crew could hardly believe her."

The part of "Amanda Wingfield," which Miss Hepburn plays in the film, was created on Broadway by Laurette Taylor in a performance which is generally regarded as definitive. But Tennessee Williams, after seeing Miss Hepburn's interpretation, was astonished. "It is supernatural, how she catches the quality of my mother."

This is high praise indeed, since Amanda is based on Williams' mother — the play is what he calls "transmuted memory" of a time in his own life. What makes it so remarkable is the fact that he and Miss Hepburn spoke only once prior to the filming, and the character of Amanda was not among the topics they discussed. Despite the tradition, which Laurette Taylor probably began, of playing Amanda as flighty and a little unstable, Miss Hepburn found the strong, undefeatable woman who was in Williams' memory when he wrote the play and recreated her. "You'd have to say she's sensitive . . . and instinctive," Williams says.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ALAN ALDA

When did you first want to be a writer?—T.S., Ventura, Calif. (Editor's note: Alda developed the written concept of the TV show "We'll Get By.")

● When I was eight, I wanted to write books like those I was reading—books like "Top Horse at Crescent Ranch"! My dad and my teachers encouraged me. In fact, at school, I used to get out of book reports by writing little plays and things. I think it was good because it developed my writing ability and gave me a chance to get a feedback on it. For example, I would write the school Thanksgiving play. In exchange for that, I wouldn't have to do some of the boring work I would otherwise have had to do. I found it much easier to write a 60-page play than a 25-page term paper. I got higher marks, too, because instead of writing a paper on some historical subject, I put all the facts in play form.

FOR ETHEL MERMAN

● It's got to be when the final curtain came down the opening night of "I Got Rhythm," October 13, 1930. The Broadway musical starred Ginger Rogers, and I made my stage debut in a featured role. I don't mean to boast, but I brought the house down when I sang. Until I stepped onstage that night, then my name didn't mean a thing. But when I left it after the show, my career had begun.

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)

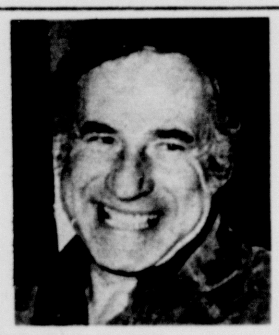

For 20 years, the military-industrial complex has run the U.S. to suit itself. Can Congress change that?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● I agree that the military has too much relative power. But my main objection is that it is soft and wasteful. What we need is a lean, tough, first-rate fighting force. But the military would rather keep its servants, commissary privileges and the overruns on the fancy gold-plated weapons. We could have a much stronger military for the same money, or as much military strength at far less cost.

FOR MEL BROOKS, actor and producer

Why didn't you appear in your movie "Young Frankenstein," as you did in others such as "Blazing Saddles"?—John Keepers, Pomona, Calif.

● There was only one part that I was right for in "Young Frankenstein" and that was Igor. Then, along came Marty Feldman and he mesmerized me with those eyes. Let's face it, he was born to play Igor. But thank you for the inquiry.

FOR VALERINE PERRINE, star of "Lenny"

How do you like people to pronounce your name?—David Bass, Howell, N.J.

● Per-RINE—like in "wine."

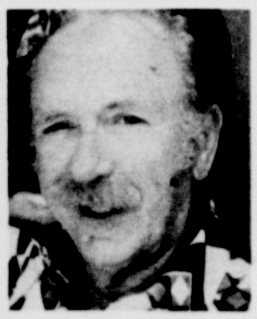

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN, sportswriter and author

Does Joe Namath have the most natural star presence of any person you have interviewed?—J.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● No. Evel Knievel has the most natural star presence of any person I've interviewed. He also spouts the best copy.

As a garage owner on your show, how much do you know about cars?—S.G., Texarkana, Texas

● One day my daughter and I were driving to the NBC studios and got a flat across from the Hollywood Bowl. I pulled off on the sidewalk and headed for the nearest phone. I told NBC to pick us up. While I was away, another driver—seeing my daughter stranded—offered to help. At that point, I came back. The man recognized me and said with great disbelief: "You have a garage, and you can't fix a flat!?"

How do you think you would do in present-day football? —T. J. McInerney, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

● I think I would fare okay. I weighed about 190 and was slightly over six feet. My time in the 100 was 9.7 seconds. I played both defense and offense. I liked to play, and I was not prone to injuries.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

I enjoyed your movie "The Longest Yard." Had you ever played football before, and did you do your own scenes in the movie?—Mrs. Al Kuzio, Jr., Whitesboro, N.Y.

● I was an All-State and All-Southern halfback for Florida State University and was headed for a pro football career until a near-fatal automobile accident ended my athletic dreams. Yes, I did all of my own football scenes in "The Longest Yard."

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Julie Budd

● About five years ago, when she was 16, singer Julie Budd was Liberace's costar in Las Vegas. She was depressed because she had no escort for Elvis Presley's opening at the International Hotel. Herb Bernstein, her manager, couldn't accompany her, but came up with this solution instead: "Liberace is going, and I'll ask him if he'll take you." He readily agreed: "Of course, she's like my kid sister." The miserable teenager got a new lease on life at the thought of seeing her idol's first night. Off went Liberace and Julie, arm-in-arm. A few months later, a scandal magazine came out with a special report of the "big romance" between them. Liberace was highly amused at the incident, but Julie was mortified. "M'gosh," she said, "I still call him Mister Liberace."

A Look Behind

- What's in It for Us
- What's in It for Russia
- What's in It for Man's Future in Space

It was early summer, 1969. Astronaut Frank Borman, his wife and sons were winding up a tour of Russia. During the long flight back to Moscow, Borman turned to his hosts, Soviet cosmonaut Ghermain Titov and Dr. Boris Petrov, chairman of the USSR Academy of Sciences Committee on Manned Space Flight, and made a momentous proposal: that the U.S. and the USSR fly a manned mission together.

In a way, Borman's trip through Russia (he was the first U.S. astronaut ever so honored) marked the end of the first decade of heated space competition. The Russians, after vowing to beat us to the moon, now knew they had lost, after the repeated test failures of their giant moon rocket. What they did not know for sure was that the U.S. knew of the failures. The decks had already been cleared for Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin of Apollo 11 to perform the first manned landing two months later. Before leaving the United States, Borman had gotten the approval of Henry Kissinger and the White House to approach the Russians. As commander of Apollo 8, Borman had led the U.S. team that daringly flew the first spacecraft to circle the moon six months ahead of schedule, when it looked as though the Russians were about to beat us.

"From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not."

Borman felt then, as he does now, that cooperation in space might lead to détente on earth. After the initial agreements, the joint space flight, christened ASTP—for Apollo-Soyuz Test Project—was approved.

The flight has much in it for both nations. It enables NASA to fly another Apollo mission at minimal expense—since the Saturn rocket and Apollo spacecraft are leftovers from the moon program—thus keeping launch teams and astronauts together for the forthcoming U.S. space shuttle in the late '70's and early '80's. The total cost to the U.S. is about $175,000,000—of which some $25,000,000 is for the docking module built by the U.S. that will link Soyuz and Apollo in orbit. By combining engineering ideas, a better docking adapter has been built than either the U.S. or Russia had before. The adapter makes rescue a possibility, not just a pipe dream, should astronauts of any nation get trapped in orbit on future space flights.

From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not. They're at least a decade behind in boosters and spacecraft. As for those who feel the U.S. is giving away technological secrets—nonsense! Apollo is 15-year-old technology. The Russians may get some computer-software tricks, but nothing they could not have purchased overtly or covertly.

The real triumph of ASTP is the spirit of cooperation that has risen above language and technological differences. The five crew members—U.S. commander Tom Stafford, 44, a veteran of three previous flights; rookie Vance Brand, 44; and Deke Slayton, 51, one of the original seven Mercury astronauts—and the two-man Soviet crew—Col. Aleksei Leonov, 41, the world's first space walker in 1965; and his flight engineer, Valery Kubasov—have worked together for the past three years. The men have slaved four hours a day learning each other's language. Several times a year, the crews and scores of technicians from both nations

The U.S.-Soviet Space Flight

By Jules Bergman
ABC News Science Editor

Aleksei Leonov from the Soviet Union and Tom Stafford from the United States will meet next in space—orbiting above their countries' differences and (hopefully) adding a new dimension to the concept of détente.

have trained at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston or at Star City, 25 miles east of Moscow.

The ASTP agreement was negotiated during the Soyuz 11 disaster. That's when, you may remember, three cosmonauts died on reentry after 23 days aboard the Salyut space station. U.S. skepticism grew about Soviet technical ability. But the Soviets solved the hatch-seal problem that had caused the tragedy and, to prove it, flew three unmanned and three manned flights.

The actual flight plan calls for Soyuz to be launched at 8:20 a.m. on Tuesday, July 15, followed at 3:50 p.m. by Apollo. Two days later, Apollo will pull up behind Soyuz and dock. Apollo carries the linking docking module beneath it, where the lunar module used to be stored. Soyuz is the passive target and Apollo does the active engine "burns" (the U.S. spacecraft carries far more maneuvering fuel and better radar). U.S. and Soviet ground stations and control centers will be tied together around the world via the U.S. ATS-6 satellite, which will also relay hours of onboard television back to Russia and the U.S.

The spacecraft will remain docked for two days, during which time the crews will visit each other's vehicle. One crewman from each nation will always be aboard his own ship. The crews will perform five joint scientific experiments, and the Apollo crew will do 22 more alone.

The joint in-flight rules are simple: The Russians will always talk English to the Americans, the Americans will always speak Russian to the Soviets. Gauges and instruments on Apollo are labeled in both languages.

Soviet obsession with secrecy nearly torpedoed the mission a few months ago. Tom Stafford had insisted that his crew see the Soviet rocket and the Soyuz spacecraft at Tyuratam, the Russian Cape Canaveral. Since the Russians also launch ICBM's there, they refused on the grounds of military secrecy. Stafford persisted, declaring, "If we don't see it, we don't fly it." The Russians gave in, and in late April the U.S. primary and backup crews, with no cameras allowed, were taken through Tyuratam. (The Russians, by the way, have always called Tyuratam by the name of Baikonur, a small city 135 miles away. They seemed to think this would throw the U.S. off about where their spaceport actually is. In reality, via reconnaissance satellites and electronic wizardry, the U.S. has known about Tyuratam for 15 years.)

When you sit inside the tiny Soyuz spacecraft, as this reporter did recently, you get a new appreciation of the courage of Soviet pilots. It is cramped and, by U.S. standards, primitive in its controls. It works well most of the time, but the Russians have lost four men returning from orbit on two Soyuz flights. The U.S. has lost none.

All things considered, Apollo is by far the more versatile and reliable spacecraft. But it was built for the far more dangerous, complex lunar mission, where no one could help if trouble developed. U.S. astronauts consider Soyuz more or less adequate for short earth-orbital missions, but they don't exactly get excited about launching in it. Ironically, the recent failure of Soyuz 18 was the best verification of Soyuz safety. The launch booster failed to achieve orbital velocity and the Soyuz was aborted, using its escape tower. The crew landed safely 1,000 miles down range from Tyuratam and only a few hundred miles from China. Col. Anatoly Filipchenko, the ASTP backup commander who flew the Soyuz 17 rehearsal mission, told me at Star City that this was the first time the escape tower had been tested, and the Soviet cosmonauts were elated that it worked perfectly.

Sitting on a shelf in Aleksei Leonov's apartment in Star City is a half-empty bottle of vodka that all five pilots of the ASTP mission drank from, sealed, and then signed their names on the label. That was at their farewell evening together a few months ago—their last until they meet in space—and they vowed to finish the vodka after returning from the ASTP flight in late July.

There may be problems on the mission that no one can predict—but camaraderie and the desire to succeed will not be among them.

Wives in Space? What Apollo-Soyuz May Lead To . . .

The U.S. and the USSR are already holding preliminary talks on possible follow-up missions. The avowed goal is possible joint manned flights in which America's space shuttle would ferry Soviet or joint crews up to the Soviet Salyut space station in the early '80's. Since the U.S. has no space station planned, the idea has some attraction. America's Skylab, still in orbit, might be revisited by a joint crew. More likely would be missions to an advanced Soviet space station

Prelude to the Impossible Journey: The first logical planetary goal looks like Mars, depending on what America's two unmanned Viking spacecraft find if they make it to the red planet next July 4.

The manned mission to Mars would be longer, more dangerous and more expensive than any flight yet attempted: a two-year round-trip journey at the best current chemical-rocket speeds, traversing more than 500 million miles through space each way. So long and dangerous a flight would be likely to require a mixed crew of husband and wife astronauts, at least one of them a physician. Early thoughts call for a five or six person crew. Cost: The latest projection is so huge a figure that no single nation could afford it. The Mars mission, if ever deemed worthwhile, would have to be an international flight.

What Your Hair Says About You

True or False: What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The length of a man's hair tells a lot about his attitude, outlook and general personality.

2. The all-important first impression a man makes on people depends to a large extent on whether he's a blond, brunet or redhead.

3. What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his.

4. Nervousness or emotional conflict causes some people to literally "tear their hair."

ANSWERS

1. True. Investigators at Utah State University divided college men into two groups: those with hair above their shoulders and those with hair below their shoulders. All were subjected to a battery of standard personality tests. Marked differences in character, outlook and general attitude were found between the two groups. The hair-above-the-shoulders students were much more interested in the opinions and ideas of others, from whom they felt they could learn, and sought to profit by the examples of the successful and to avoid the mistakes of the failures. They were inclined to adjust and adapt to conditions rather than to rock the boat. Students in the hair-below-the-shoulders group "placed significantly greater value on independence, and significantly less value on conformity and recognition. They were somewhat isolated from others and not as strongly influenced by their authority." They were also disinterested in any rewards that might threaten or compromise their independence.

2. True—according to psychological studies conducted by a team of investigators on men and women students at two Midwestern colleges. Subjects were shown colored slides of male faces of various types. Each facial type was shown first with blond hair, next with dark, then as a redhead. Findings: Blonds scored the highest ratings in terms of such valued attributes as kindness, compassion and consideration for others. The same faces when depicted with dark hair were judged superior in terms of being vigorous, tough-minded men of action. Contrary to expectations, the redheaded models impressed the subjects less favorably than the blonds or brunets.

3. True. A team of behavioral specialists at the University of Arizona made an interesting psychological experiment. A long-haired subject was introduced to a class that included long- and short-haired students. They were told that "the examiners wished to study how people can 'infer,' or estimate, patterns of behavioral traits and of abnormal behavior from very brief encounters . . . and that the subject—'Bill'—had volunteered to assist, since recently 'he spent some time in a psychiatric ward.'" "Bill" read a brief neutral statement about himself and then was allowed to depart. He was then given a short haircut, and the experiment was conducted again with classes of long- and short-haired students. Results: The short-haired students rated the long-haired "Bill" as the sickest—the most likely to be schizophrenic, anxiety-ridden, paranoid, etc. On the other hand, members of the classes with long hair judged the short-haired "Bill" the sickest.

4. True. When feeling distraught or frustrated, some people will absently pluck hair after hair from their head without realizing what they are doing. Specialists in human behavior term this penchant for hair-plucking trichotillomania. It is almost like nail-biting. Methods of breaking the habit run a gamut that includes greasing the hair so the person can't get a grip on it, offering rewards, etc. A psychological study at the University of Manitoba indicates that this hair-removing habit can be effectively coped with if the person is made acutely aware of what he is doing. This was done by instructing the subject to chart the number of hairs pulled daily for seven days, and to save them and place them in envelopes daily. Purpose: To give the subject immediate and emphatic feedback on his behavior.

Bill Bridges / Medical World News

Dr. James G. Price defines the trained family doctor as "a specialist in his own right—one in breadth rather than depth."

The "Family Doctor" Is Back! (And They're Calling Him a New Specialist)

"Having a doctor who knows the medical history of your entire family intimately is not only a help to you—it is a milestone in the modern medical ideas of genetics, family planning and improvement of the human species."

By Jessyca Russell Gaver

You may have heard of it. There is a new specialty in medicine called family practice. It has come into being not because other specialities have lost their allure, but because the American Academy of Family Physicians recently made the idea of specializing in family medicine attractive to medical-school graduates, and more and more new doctors are recognizing that the "whole person" is as important to care for as are special parts of the human anatomy.

There has been a cry for the return of the old-fashioned "horse and buggy" family medic for a long time. Leaving this dream behind, many of us have wished that the automobile age could at least make it possible to have a doctor available not only in a conveniently placed office and hospital, but at a patient's home, when it is difficult for him to get to a doctor.

Now, this is coming true. The "general practitioner" has been put at the low end of the medical totem pole for too long. Today there are all kinds of residency programs for those who want to become family specialists. Films, cassette tapes, classroom and hospital practice teach these residents to become aware of their patients as both individuals and family members. Such doctors learn to become concerned with every facet of a patient's family life and problems. The only other specialist who approaches this concept of the "whole" man is the internist, but he does not usually take on the family's problems as well.

One reason general practice lost out to specialties was because many medical-school graduates were afraid they would not be able to encompass the broad scope of knowledge required of a family doctor. It seemed easier to specialize.

Therefore, in an effort to remedy this problem, the American Board of Medical Specialties established Family Practice as medicine's 20th specialty in February, 1969. The American Academy of Family Physicians was the primary sponsoring organization, and, assisted by the American Medical Association, it set up a certifying board, The American Board of Family Practice, to conduct examinations and grant specialty certification.

The American Academy of Family Physicians has devised residency training programs for this specialty. These three-year programs enable their graduates to care for 85-90 percent of patient needs. As Dr. James G. Price, former president of the AAFP, explained:

"The trained family physician is a specialist in his own right—one in breadth rather than depth. His appearance on the scene corrects a long and fallaciously held assumption that the family doctor requires less training than the specialist, and is therefore less important."

The Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association defines a "family physician" as one who does these things:

1. Serves as the physician of first contact with the patient, and provides him with an entry into the health-care system.

2. Evaluates the patient's total health needs and, unlike other specialists, provides care in one or more fields of medicine on a continuing basis.

3. Refers the patient to another specialist when necessary —for complicated surgery, for instance—and acts as a liaison between the patient and the second specialist.

4. Takes responsibility for all the health needs of the patient and his family, including preventive care, rehabilitation, and treatment of psychiatric disturbances — even marriage counseling.

5. Relates all these services to the health resources and needs of the community in which the patient lives (such as hospitals, clinics, etc.).

Under the AAFP setup, each training program must include what the academy calls a family-practice center, which is an office setting much like that which any practicing physician would have, in which the resident, under clinical supervision, develops the skills and techniques he will need to treat his own patients. Although the center is based on the various departments of in-hospital care, one of its goals is to keep patients out of the hospital through preventive medicine and health maintenance.

At the end of his residency, the doctor sits for the very difficult two-day certifying examination of the American Board of Family Practice. If, or when, he passes this, he joins his fellow 7,000 family-practice specialists, who are called diplomates. To emphasize the increasing popularity of this specialty, you must realize there are now 2,400 residents in the program in 233 AMA-approved hospitals, and about 100 more programs are being planned. In July, 1975 (the start of a new training year), an additional 1,700 first-year residents will enter the program. More than two-thirds of the 111 medical schools in the United States and Canada now have departments or divisions of family practice. What is even more impressive is that the 1,700 residents entering the July, 1975, classes come from a total of 2,200 applicants. Dr. Price explains that the AAFP hopes to rectify this weeding-out process in the near future, as soon as more qualified teachers, money and educational programs are available.

Having a doctor who knows the medical history of your entire family intimately is not only a help to you—it is a milestone in the modern medical ideas of genetics, family planning and improvement of the human species. In matters of matching blood types for transfusions, of comparing disease backgrounds for immunity factors and of knowing if someone's familial characteristics would make it wise or foolish to marry and have children, the family specialist's records of your family's medical information would save time, worry and even eliminate danger.

Should you want such a family specialist, write to the American Academy of Family Physicians. The AAFP's address is 1740 West 92nd Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64114.

You, too, may find it true that there's no specialist like the family one in this modern age!

QUESTIONS ABOUT FAMILY DOCTORS

Answers Provided by James Price, M.D., Former President of the American Academy of Family Physicians

Q. Do family doctors charge the same amount as other doctors?

A. There is the same variability in charges among family doctors as there is among any group of doctors. The family physician may charge more, less or the same as a specialist in another field. The organizational position is that it is the service, and not the certification of the provider, that should determine the fee.

Q. How does a family physician differ from a general practitioner?

A. Some GP's treat a person on an acute episodic basis—that is, only when the patient comes to the physician with an ailment. The family physician treats the patient on a continuing comprehensive basis. The patient is regarded as an individual and as a member of the family unit. Prevention is a vital part of this kind of care. Family physicians have, by and large, maintained their skills and knowledge through continuing education. The specialist family physician must take recertification examinations every six years to retain his specialty designation. In addition, members of the academy must take 150 hours of postgraduate education every three years to maintain membership.

SHIRLEY MACLAINE:

"Some People Call It Cynicism—I Call It Giving Up"

Pictorial Parade

"One of the major things holding back progress today is the cynicism that has taken hold of people. We have to stop being so cynical, because that doesn't get us anywhere. It has become fashionable to be cynical, but that's really a holding action against change. It doesn't do anything but paralyze people. I think there is a reason for this tendency. People see what is happening all around them and feel that they don't matter. They feel worthless and even stop looking for good things within themselves. So being cynical becomes a defense and a justification for not doing anything. It is much harder to have hopes and act to bring them about. When you are cynical you are just giving up. You might as well be dead. For our survival and progress we have to drop such barriers and expand our efforts toward change. That's the only way we will have a purpose in living." Shirley MacLaine's latest book is "You Can Get There From Here."

The Doctor Lets You In

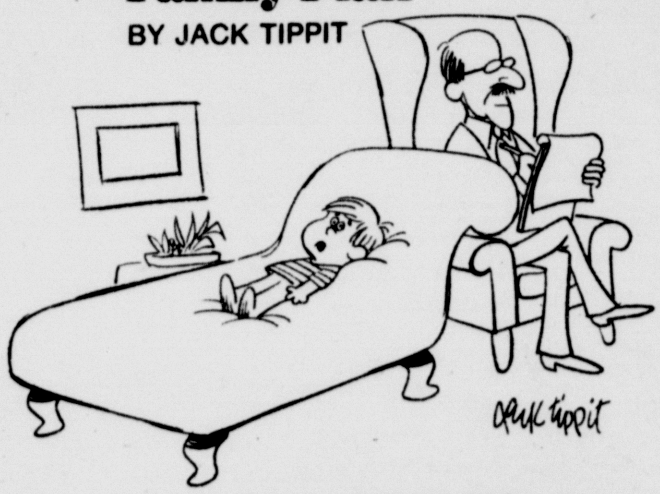

New Family of Wonder Drugs

There is a new family of drugs, called prostaglandins (PG's), that is astounding scientists. PG's are normally found in body tissues in minute amounts—there are different PG variants in different tissues. The body makes them from essential unsaturated fatty acids (arachidonic acid, linolenic acid, etc.) taken in the diet. Originally, PG's were separated from human and sheep seminal fluid. More recently they have been found in a marine coral. They're also produced by chemical synthesis. PG's also have opposing roles. Some dilate the bronchial tubes—useful in treating asthma; others constrict bronchial tubes and may cause an asthmatic attack.... The only PG presently authorized for use in the U.S. by the FDA is one that is being used to hasten labor and also to terminate pregnancy.... But other PG's are being used experimentally to increase blood flow in the lungs; to lower blood pressure; to stimulate the adrenal glands to produce natural cortisone or stimulate the thyroid to increase thyroid hormones. Other PG's can inhibit secretion of acid stomach juices (useful in treating stomach ulcer). Eventually they may be used for migraine or even as contraceptive agents. Within ten years, perhaps sooner, PG's could revolutionize medical treatment.—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

What Is "Image Eating"?

"Image eating" is a new dieting trick that's getting popular among TV celebrities. In image eating, a doctor asks his overweight patient to imagine herself in a bikini. While she's still shuddering, he asks her to imagine eating a slimming meal: cottage cheese salad with fruit, for instance—tasty enough, yet the kind of meal that can slim her down. Then he asks her to see herself wearing a whole new wardrobe two sizes smaller than her present one. In technical terms, this is called covert conditioning: You're repelled by the "old" fat you, and you identify slim, two-sizes-smaller you with the tasty-enough meal. Many researchers say that deliberately stopping before lunch and dinner and projecting these images is ideal. You flinch from the "old" you, and you identify the "new" you with the lower-calorie meal. Gradually, you achieve a new eating pattern. Some good low-calorie lunches to practice with image eating: shrimp salad with lemon; hard-boiled eggs with paprika, on lettuce; broiled fish with parsley and lemon, green salad. —By Harriet La Barre

People and You

Do Good Looks Affect How People Judge You?

If you're good-looking, does that mean that you are also good, kind, honest and sincere? Ask that of people and they'll probably laugh at you. "Of course not," they'll say. But strangely, what we say doesn't match what we do. Most people are susceptible to good looks. When three psychologists conducted experiments on people's reactions, they discovered a strong tendency to assume that good-looking people are good people. In the experiments, volunteers were given photographs of attractive, average and below-average men and women. They were asked to judge how kind, generous, serious, stable, interesting, sincere, sexually warm, outgoing, sociable, etc., each of the people was. In another test, they were asked to judge their friendliness, enthusiasm, social poise and trustworthiness. In all cases, people forgot about beauty being skin deep and decided that good looks probably meant good personality and good character.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

Jobmanship

What It Takes to Succeed as a Secretary

Many people become secretaries. Some are happy and successful in their work, while others who are just as intelligent are restless and dissatisfied. Why? The Johnson O'Connor Research Foundation, a nonprofit group that has tested half a million people for job aptitudes since 1922, says it's not just a matter of "making up your mind to succeed," it's also a matter of your natural abilities and your basic personality. A good secretary needs clerical ability, a natural ease in dealing with paper work, figures and symbols, as well as high finger dexterity. Without the clerical ability she/he makes mistakes, falls behind, daydreams, is just plain unhappy. Without finger dexterity, a secretary never masters the skills well enough to enjoy the work. Moreover, clerical workers and private secretaries need two different personalities. To spend hours typing, doing accounts, running machines or other solitary work, clerical workers need a "subjective" personality that makes them enjoy concentrating on the task at hand rather than working with people. A private secretary needs to enjoy dealing with people. A secretary also needs inductive reasoning talent—the ability to form a logical conclusion from scattered facts. The qualities that interfere with being a good secretary are: high creativity, a talent for thinking in three dimensions, an ability to think ahead and foresee situations, plus a strong inner drive to succeed.—By S. R. Redford

Joseph Jedd

Deaf-blind Dick Kinney "talks" with author Lyle M. Crist, who has written a biography of Kinney entitled "Through the Rain and Rainbow" (Abingdon Press, $5.95).

"The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"
—Dick Kinney (deaf and blind)

I laughed. My friend Dick Kinney had made a witty, humorous comment and I laughed.

Then I tapped him on the wrist, moved my fingers to a small machine resembling a portable typewriter, and slowly punched the keys "H-A, H-A."

I assumed there was no better way to respond. Dick Kinney is totally deaf and totally blind; the machine is the TellaTouch, a wonder aid for the deaf-blind, devised by the American Foundation for the Blind. By spelling out my laughter on the keys, I knew Dick received the impression in momentary thrusts of Braille dot patterns against the tip of his forefinger, placed on the other side of the TellaTouch.

He chuckled over my "H-A, H-A" message, but in that moment his expression betrayed a lesson I had yet to learn about the full meaning of communication among all of us.

Wonderful as it is, the TellaTouch was inadequate that morning, and the lesson from the incident goes far beyond the interview. I was in Dick Kinney's home in Winnetka, Ill., gathering material for the biography of this remarkable man. Blind at age seven, becoming deaf during his sophomore year in college, he lived in a vacuum without a clear sense of purpose for nearly a decade before Helen Keller and a host of interested agencies assisted his return to studies at Mount Union College in Ohio, using specially trained student-associates to communicate classroom lectures to him.

In 1954 he became only the third deaf-blind person in history to earn a college degree. Helen Keller was the first; Robert Smithdas of St. Johns University, the second. Today Kinney is president of the Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind in Winnetka, supervising its far-ranging curriculum, handling all fund raising, overseeing public relations, leading its many personal contacts with more than 4,000 students (a scattering of them deaf-blind) over the world.

His book, "Independent Living Without Sight and Hearing," is the text for a unique course for the deaf-blind, taught now by Geraldine Lawhorn, an equally remarkable black woman on Chicago's South Side. She, too, is deaf and blind.

Reading some of Kinney's comments on communication several weeks after the interview, I found that he was cautioning those in the families of deaf-blind persons to avoid using the TellaTouch when conveying emotion. To respond to a deaf-blind person's witty comment or joke simply with a "H-A, H-A" on the machine was "inadequate." "It is cold," he had written.

Well! On my next trip to Winnetka for material for the biography, I reminded Dick of my boner—I had relied on the TellaTouch for my laughter. And he remembered. "But after all, Lyle, any machine is too mechanical for real emotion. When you say something funny, don't you want a genuinely emotional reaction?"

"And don't you want to see a smile and hear a good, hearty laugh?"

Another single tap.

"Why?"

"To assure me that I've really said something considered funny." This time on the TellaTouch.

"Exactly. And those are the two experiences that I can't have—not in the same manner you can."

"What's to be done then?" The mechanical message seemed so logical.

He was emphatic. "The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"

My single tap on his wrist again meant "Yes."

Dick smiled. "Then agitate yourself! If you're agitated, come up to me, right next to me, agitate your arm against mine; take your arms and run them up and down my arms. Be agitated. In other words, do something that I can perceive directly, on the strength of the sensory perceptions I do have. Give me a sensory clue and I'll reach my own judgment about what's going on!"

He added, with his own brand of humor once again, "Why, if you do that, I will know that one of two things

Gordon Lightfoot:

Lover of Trains, Planes, Boats and His Work

Speculation over Lightfoot's private life has intensified—more than he would like.

"Since many of Lightfoot's songs deal with love affairs gone awry, it isn't unusual that fans try to match lyrics to the gossip they're hearing."

By Noel Coppage

"What I'd like to do is find a real fast woman and domesticate her," Gordon Lightfoot grinned into the vapors of his third Bloody Mary of the afternoon. We were talking about the famous "Lightfoot, lonely and womanless" caption under a photograph in a popular magazine. Apparently we were also priming Lightfoot—or something was—for the delivery of a half-kidding, half-serious roast of that publication the following evening from the stage of New York's Lincoln Center.

Public speculation over—and media probing into—Lightfoot's private life intensified more than he would like, but not, probably, more than he expected, following the success of "Sundown," the greatest hit in his long career. The 35-year-old Canadian has led a fairly private life, as major stars go, but now it seems everyone is listening carefully to everything he says, in or out of his songs. Since many of the songs deal with love affairs gone awry, it isn't unusual that fans try to match lyrics to the gossip they're hearing.

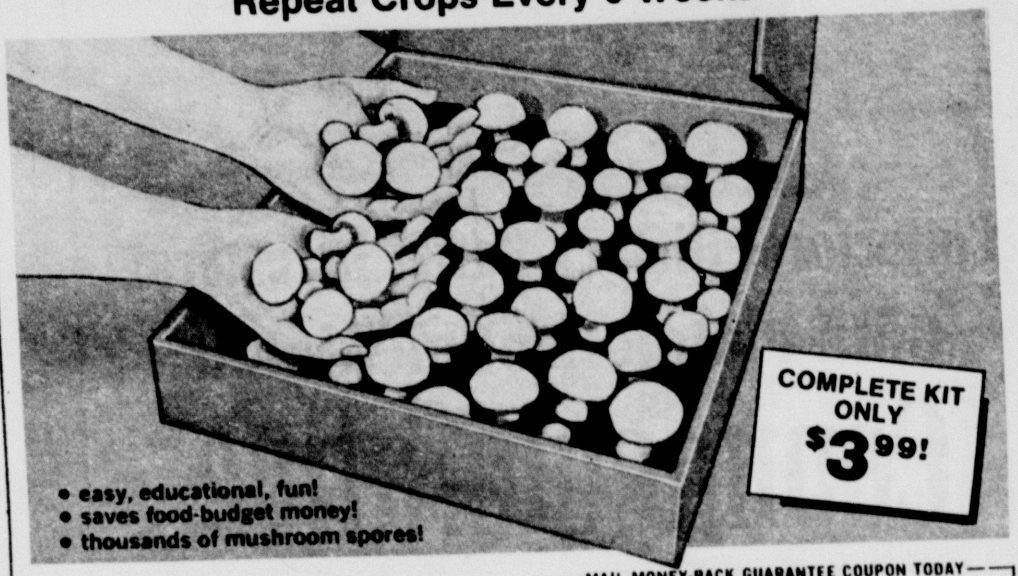

"They keep talking about my splitting with my ex-wife, and that happened four years ago," he said. "That magazine photographer happened to show up the day I had just split up with my girl friend—for about the 18th time. But we mustn't complain too much. As Barnum once said, no publicity is bad publicity."

Onstage, after ripping into the one publication for the "womanless" nonsense, he commended The New York Times for "an objective review" of his show the night before. The crush of people backstage between sets—despite the myth that backstage passes are difficult to get—had made it impossible for Lightfoot and the other musicians to tune up properly for the second half of that show. "The Times said we were rotten," he told his audience, "and it had a point—we were lousy."

Still and all, by George, as Lightfoot likes to say, there are other things in life besides women and publicity. There are airplanes, for example, and boats. Public speculation that "Early Morning Rain" (about being at an airport and being too impoverished to buy a ticket for home) was written by an airplane nut is dead on target.

"I do a lot of private flying," he said. "Lease a small jet." He ticks off the names of airplanes the way other people talk about cars. "Saves me about 20 nights a year of staying in hotel rooms, and I hate hotel rooms."

He has put his long-term romance with the sea into a few songs too. (Said an acquaintance who runs a sloop: "When I heard 'Christian Island,' with that line, 'I call her Silverheels and she tells me how she feels,' I said that guy's got to sail to understand how a boat does that.") "I love sailing," Lightfoot said, "and I'll be getting my own boat very shortly. I'm also a canoeist. Since the movie 'Deliverance,' everybody's asking me about that—'What happens on those canoe trips anyway?' "

The kidding stops when Lightfoot talks about his work. "Doing your job" is a phrase he uses with respect. Whereas many of Lightfoot's contemporaries are in one way or another updated versions of James Dean—rebels from the American middle class who portray themselves as using their talents for various good causes—Lightfoot is more the old-fashioned craftsman when it comes to melodies and the old-fashioned poet when it comes to words. He's a literary figure who subordinates politics and other temporal or quick-changing aspects of life to his pursuit of art. For example, in this age of troubadours essaying on the evils of big business, Lightfoot says of his relationship with Reprise, his record label: "I like working within the company structure, actually; I find it advantageous. I had one thing to show them when they signed me up, and that was a track record. They knew I could produce, and that must be important. They've treated me well."

He has recorded well over a hundred of his own songs in the last dozen or so years, many of them classy and some of them classics. Indeed, few can match his track record, as new followers attracted by "Sundown" found out for themselves.

"My favorites among my albums," he says, "are 'Did She Mention My Name,' and 'Old Dan's Records' and 'Sundown.' The only one I really hated was the first one ["Lightfoot," which embraces the certified classic "Early Morning Rain"]. It had some good songs on it, but I wasn't used to recording and it's all kind of unprofessional. In fact, I thought it was very amateurish-sounding. People who like it must like to hear me suffer."

Professionalism, craftsmanship, mastery of the trade's tools—these things preoccupy Gordon Lightfoot, who (unlike many folk singers) took the trouble to learn to sight-read music years ago, writes out all his melodies and even has a stint of orchestral arranging behind him.

"The only album I really hated was the first one. People who like it must like to hear me suffer."

Lightfoot has a passion for writing songs aboard vehicles. Nowadays, these are mostly planes, but several years ago he went on a work binge aboard British rail, turning out a sheaf of poems and songs while the English countryside—just about all of it—flashed by his compartment. He says he'd still like to work aboard the slower-paced, more leisurely trains—just as he'd like, someday, to have a smoother, less-exciting home and social life.

The song "Lazy Mornin'," in the album "Old Dan's Records," goes on at such length about the joys of a fresh pot of coffee, a woman in the kitchen and a barbecue grill to light come suppertime, that many assumed Lightfoot meant it as a satire of suburbia.

But no. "That's what I would like for it to be like someday, if it's ever possible," he said. His voice trailed off. But presently he hopped up and mixed another drink. "First, though," he said, "I've gotta find out what happened to my date tonight."

Telly's Horoscope predicted decision to shave his head would bring him superstardom

By WILLIAM CRONKITE

Telly Savalas. Three years ago, he was an unknown actor playing Europe's spaghetti western circuit. Today he is rich, famous, enjoys an exciting lovelife, and is obviously very happy. How did he do it? Is he that much different from you and me, or did he have a secret?

A research group was assembled in Boston, Massachusetts to answer this question. They chose Telly Savalas along with other research subjects who had one thing in common; they all were leading ordinary lives and then suddenly found success and happiness.

Here's Telly's story. After a disastrous business venture, Telly found himself bumping around Hollywood playing bit parts. He landed the role of Pontius Pilate in "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and decided to shave his head for added effect. His horoscope, with Jupiter trine Neptune, attributes his charisma to his head. It predicted that a small change relating to his head would bring him wealth and success. His horoscope was right. Telly's TV stardom in Kojak followed and he currently makes $800,000 a year.

His horoscope prediction again came to light during the shooting of Kojak. The directors insist that he keep a sucker in his mouth. Why? Because it calls attention to his head. With the sucker in his mouth, his charm is emphasized and the viewer's attention is drawn to his charismatic head.

The study of Telly Savalas and other successful people proved to this research group that there is a secret to success and happiness. After years of study, they proved beyond a doubt that there are two simple keys to success and happiness: 1. Making the right little decisions and, 2. Timing. Armed with these findings, these experts set out to develop a new astrological method which would produce a horoscope which would provide these two keys to success and happiness. The development is now complete. They are currently preparing individual horoscopes as part of their continuing research.

EXCLUSIVE STORY

THE SELECTION of a sucker for Kojak's trademark was not hit or miss. His horoscope explains why.

Several other examples of successful people will explain further what this horoscope can do. On the Johnny Carson Show, the editor of Cosmopolitan jokingly suggested that Burt Reynolds should pose nude for a Cosmo centerfold. Burt took her up on it. He posed for free, just for the fun of it. On checking back, this research group found that certain aspects in Burt's chart at the time of his decision, predicted that an unorthodox action would trigger his success. Time has proved that his perfectly timed decision has brought him super-stardom and millions of dollars to date.

This horoscope can bring love and romance. Several years ago, producer John Foreman unintentionally invited both Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood to his party. They hadn't seen each other since their split nine years before. But in making a comparison of their charts at the time of the party, the research group found that an aspect in Natalie's chart, indicated that a chance meeting would renew an old love. Of course, Bob and Natalie were remarried in July of 1972 and have recently been blessed with their first child.

Not all of the successful people studied for this research project are famous. Pat Carnes, a Canton, Ohio housewife, has won over $4,000 by following the advice of her horoscope. How did she do it? She used the Key Numbers (Lucky Numbers) and Significant Days given in her horoscope to win $1,222 playing Bingo, $2,000 at Waterford Racetrack, and $887 at various contests, raffles, and games of chance. Other members of her family have won over $3,000 by following their horoscopes and she has also won the Ohio State Lottery several times. Pat played only occasionally to win all this money, and she never ventured more than $12!

As you can see from the above examples, it was the little decisions, not the major ones, which led to luck, love, wealth, success and happiness. Each one of us makes many little decisions every day. Now think back to times when a little decision led to a big event in your life. Wasn't it something little that started all your romances and eventually led to your marriage? Or how about when you landed your job, met your best friend, started your favorite hobby, or won a prize or contest? Imagine what it would be like to turn all of your little decisions into joyous events. That's what this new horoscope does. This horoscope acts as a day by day guidance counselor in making sure that the right decisions are made.

But just making the right little decisions isn't enough to bring you success and happiness. You also need the second key to success, timing. You must make your little decisions during your most favorable time periods. These periods are called your Significant Days. Your Significant Days do not follow the days on your calendar. They begin at an exact minute (Example: 10:24 AM) and end at a specific time. I'll explain why.

The sun, moon, and the planets in our solar system move each minute. As they move, they pass through the 12 houses and 12 signs of the zodiac and form angular relationships called aspects. There are many different kinds of aspects (Example: Mars conjunct Venus in House 7). Planetary aspects have a strong influence on all of us here on earth, and affect each one of us differently according to our time and place of birth. Each new aspect triggers a new period of significant days. Think of your Significant Days as a bus or a plane ride. You have to be on board at the exact minute of departure and get off at the correct time in order to reach your destination. With the Significant Days in your horoscope, your destination is success and happiness.

This recent research project proved that a personal horoscope must pinpoint the beginning and end of a significant time period, in order to bring success and happiness. This is exactly what this new horoscope will do. Here's an example of how a horoscope will read: ("April 1, 1975, beginning at 4:46 PM, the influence of Mercury trine Saturn in House 8 will be in effect for a period of approximately 3 days. You are entering a period of good luck. Your key numbers for this period are 3, 6, 9, etc.") A horoscope that doesn't pinpoint the significant times, doesn't provide the essential keys to success.

The research group has compared applying these two simple keys to success to playing a slot machine. But unlike playing a real slot machine, there is no luck involved. A jackpot is hit every time the advice of his horoscope is followed. By a jackpot, they mean success and happiness in all areas of a person's life: money, love, job, self-understanding and self-confidence.

These professionals in their fields explain that at birth every human being begins with thousands of built-in jackpots, just waiting to be hit. These jackpots are spread out over an entire lifetime, so age makes no difference. They go on to explain that some jackpots are small, others enormous, but all are triggered by making the right little decision at the right time.

There are several reasons why this research group is so positive that a jackpot will be hit each time this horoscope is followed. First, each horoscope is individually prepared based on the exact time and place of birth. No two horoscopes are ever alike. This means that two people born at the exact same time, but in a different town would receive different horoscopes. Second, this horoscope will be prepared using the new astrological method which has just been perfected after five years and over 5,000 man hours of research.

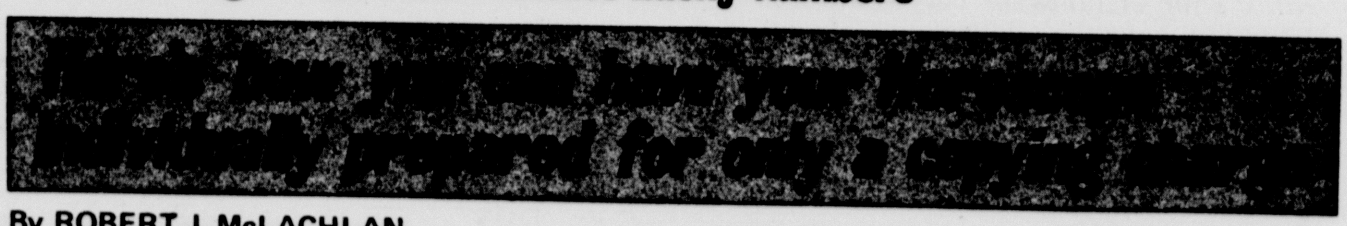

WHY DID his little spur of the moment decision to shave his head bring Telly Savalas wealth and fame? Only his horoscope can answer that question.

As the old saying goes, "If you watch your pennies, the dollars will take care of themselves." By making the right little decisions at the right times, all the big events of your life will fall into place naturally. Remember, Pat Carnes did nothing out of the ordinary when she won thousands of dollars. You currently have the right friends, live in the right place, and have the right job to cash in on all your remaining jackpots. But, how do you do it?

You could pay hundreds of dollars a year for your own astrologer. You could rely on chance and hope you make the right little decision at the right time. Or, you could read the article below which tells you how you can have your horoscope individually prepared for just a $3.00 copying charge. As each day passes, you lost more of your built-in jackpots which are impossible to recover. Read the article below and start heading for success and happiness today.

New Astrological Method Provides Lucky Numbers

By ROBERT J. McLACHLAN

A research group in Boston, Massachusetts has just completed an astrological study of successful people. Their study proved that there are two keys to success and happiness. (See the article above.) They've used the results of their research to develop a revolutionary new astrological method which enables them to prepare horoscopes which provide these two keys to success and happiness.

For a limited time, they are preparing these horoscopes for the public. If you send them your exact time and place of birth, they will individually prepare your horoscope for only a $3.00 copying charge because they need your birth information to continue their research.

No two horoscopes are ever alike, but your approximately 12 page, 4,000 word horoscope will cover all of the following areas of your life:

- Your horoscope will give you your key numbers (Lucky Numbers) and tell you the most favorable time to use them for bingo, horse racing, lotteries, drawings or any games of chance.
- Your personal horoscope will make an indepth analysis of your personality and thus help you utilize your strengths and talents to their fullest.
- Each one of us has hidden talents (sex appeal, artistic, musical, or writing ability, etc.) which can surface because of the movements of Jupiter and Uranus. Your horoscope will tell you when to look for these talents and thus set you on a course of self-improvement and self-fulfillment.
- Your horoscope will tell you when to look for romance, point out with whom you're compatible, pinpoint your most sexually potent days and give specific directions on keeping your lovelife exciting.
- Your personal horoscope will monitor the movements of the planets through your 2nd and 10th houses, the houses of money and career. You'll be told which jobs bring you personal satisfaction and wealth.
- Your relationships with your mate, children and realtives will be discussed according to the movements of the planets in your 4th and 7th houses, the houses of family and marriage.
- Advice on health and dieting tips will be covered in your horoscope.

Don't worry about learning of unpleasant events in the future. This new astrological method is positive. You'll actually be told how to turn your shortcomings and setbacks to your advantage.

Your horoscope will be individually prepared according to the exhaustive scientific details required by this revolutionary astrological method. Your exact time of birth will be converted to astrological standard time with World War II time changes considered. The longitude and latitude of your place of birth will be computed to the hundredth degree. And your name will appear on every page of your horoscope. IMPORTANT: No two horoscopes prepared will be exactly alike. So this horoscope will not be the general worthless type found in newspapers and paperbacks.

The cost to individually prepare a similar horoscope could be over $200. But there's no catch to this research project. In fact, this just-developed astrological method produces a horoscope far superior to similar horoscopes because this method utilizes the recent findings of the research group.

The writings of this research organization have appeared in LADIES HOME JOURNAL, WOMAN'S DAY, FAMILY WEEKLY, BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS, McCALLS, and REDBOOK.

Due to economic conditions, it is not certain how much longer this research will be continued. So, if you would like to have your horoscope individually prepared for a small $3.00 copying charge, simply do this:

Place your name, address, time, day, month, year and place of birth on a piece of paper. Mail this information, along with your $3.00 copying charge plus 50¢ postage and handling, to Planetary Key Research Group, Dept. C–26, 352 Chestnut St., Ashland, Massachusetts 01721.

Your horoscope will give you an almost unfair advantage over others. But, if you feel guilty, you may order horoscopes for your family or friends for the same copying charge. Just remember to include $3.00 plus 50¢ postage and handling and the exact same information you've given for yourself for each additional horoscope you order.

Your horoscope will be covered by a one year – 365 day – full money back guarantee. To avoid disappointment, why not order your horoscope right now, before you forget.

3 cups boiling water
4 cups chopped parsley (2 large bunches)
2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 lemon)
1 box (1¾ ozs.) powdered fruit pectin
4½ cups (2 lbs.) sugar
Few drops green food coloring

1. Pour boiling water over parsley in bowl. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 3 cups juice into large saucepan.
2. Add lemon juice and powdered fruit pectin. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil.
3. Add all sugar immediately and stir. Blend in a few drops of green food coloring.
4. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 5¼ cups or 6 (8 ozs.) glasses

HERB JELLY

2½ cups boiling water
4 tablespoons dried herb leaves*
4½ cups (2 lbs.) sugar
¼ cup vinegar
Few drops green food coloring
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

1. Pour boiling water over herb leaves. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 2 cups into a large saucepan.
2. Thoroughly mix sugar and vinegar into juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add food coloring. Stir in fruit pectin at once.
3. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.
4. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 4½ cups or 5 (8 ozs.) glasses

What's Smart? It's cheaper to make your own herb jellies than to buy them. Cost, using fresh herbs from your garden: 21 cents per glass. It costs about 26 cents per glass to use dried store-bought herbs.

has happened: Either I've said something very funny—or you have a bad case of the palsy!"

And he will have learned of the reaction himself, on the strength of his own senses. That is what is most important.

This is the man who, at the age of 37, fell in love with a blind girl. "It was a case of love at first touch!" The same genuine, open emotion led to their marriage, their child. And the same genuine sense of dominion has enabled him to go on after Evelyn's death just three years after their wedding.

Today, Dick Kinney tells me that most deaf-blind persons, perhaps one in every 20,000 in our nation, are those of later years who, deprived of one sense earlier in life, lose the second after years of home, family, career. When the vacuum world of deaf-blindness overtakes them, they are too old to go to school again, they feel too set in their ways to explore new patterns of learning.

As a result, they retreat to the security of a living room chair, live out their lives in retreat. Kinney's course by correspondence—for both the deaf-blind and their families—puts them back in the mainstream again. And communication is the key element.

The TellaTouch and Braille are tremendous aids, but part of the opportunity lies with the families and friends of deaf-blind persons. We can learn too. Learn to adapt our responses to the perceptions that remain.

I've been more free in displaying emotion since that second interview with Dick Kinney. There are other lessons to be learned, but communication has always been a two-way process. All Dick Kinney wants is for the deaf-blind person to have his rightful share through the open, natural use of touch.

What in the World!

LORD SNOWDON
Royal fears

In New York recently to show his 250-picture exhibit, Princess Margaret's husband (known professionally as Anthony Armstrong-Jones) said: "Performers have stage fright; I have 'film fright.' I've been a professional photographer for 20 years, but things don't necessarily get easier because you've been doing them for a long time. For me, the terror gets worse as I get older. Only when I'm halfway through a job can I begin to relax. Lord Snowdon became interested in photography at 14, and his interest on a more serious level was revived after he flunked a university architectural course. Although he takes pride in his work, Lord Snowdon says, "It's nonsense to call photography 'art.' Photography is only a way of informing people about life. Pictures are to look at in papers and magazines, and then the newsprint should be used to wrap up fish."

LANA TURNER
Stuck on Gable

During Hollywood's "Golden Years" every woman had a crush on Clark Gable, but Lana Turner was really stuck on him. The actress who became typed as the "Sweater Girl" recalled for FAMILY WEEKLY how her film career almost ended because of a kiss: "I guess my most embarrasing moment came while I was filming a love scene with Clark. I was just a teenager and he was at the height of his career. I had this adolescent habit of chewing gum constantly, and as we were doing a kissing scene the gum I was chewing passed from my mouth into his and caught on his caps. You can't imagine the look on his face! From that point on, before the cameras started rolling, the director made sure I had removed my gum." At least she wasn't wearing braces.

How to find happiness as a clown: Peggy Williams, the first female graduate of Ringling Brothers Clown College, says: "If you love people the way I do, you couldn't find a more satisfactory career." Peggy graduated from the University of Wisconsin as a speech-pathology major and planned to go to France to study pantomime with Marcel Marceau. She gave up those plans when she heard of the clown college, and she's satisfied with her choice: "Clowning is the only profession I could think of where I'd have total freedom to express myself. I make up my own characters and costumes. Anyway, I'm a born ham!" Peggy's special skill is making people and objects vanish (illusion, of course). "It's total fantasy," she says. "Physical jokes, like falling over backward, aren't my style. Once I broke my foot just trying to do a cartwheel."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

ADOL-LESSONS

If you've an adolescent in
Your home, or maybe two,
I sympathize and realize
What you are going through.

No vaccine cures this awesome ill
With consequences vast.
You just must wait that distant date
When it at last has passed.

While adolescents adolesce
I hope that you have got Such strength and hope with which to cope
As I, alas, have not.

One Sunday on our way to church, we passed a very beautiful rose in a garden. My four-year-old son exclaimed, "A pretty flower." To this I answered, "That's called a rose." He answered a little angrily, "Yes, but her last name is flower."

So We Want You To Wear These Distinguished Gemfire Simulated Diamond Rings FREE

EACH RING GIFT BOXED

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN TELL YOUR GEMFIRE DIAMONDS ARE NOT CHEAP COSTUME JEWELRY.

A. Count the facets. Gemfire stones all have 58 facets — just like expensive diamonds prepared by diamond cutters.

B. Examine your stone in a dimly lighted room. It should sparkle like in daylight. Gemfire stones sparkle even in the moonlight.

C. Study your ring under a powerful magnifying glass to look for flaws. Gemfire stones have clarity — are flawlessly perfect. No specks! No blemishes! No cracks!

WORDS AND PICTURES

Words and pictures don't begin to show the beauty, brilliance, and fire of these magnificent Gemfire rings. That's why we want you to wear them and judge them on their own merits — not on what we tell you. See if your friends and family can tell them from an expensive "natural" diamond worth 100 times as much. In all probability you can fool them if you want to. Not many people can tell these brilliant Gemfire simulates from the expensive real ones. Yet now you can own these beautiful rings at amazingly low prices.

AN EXCITING GIFT FOR SOMEONE SPECIAL

These Gemfire rings make a much appreciated gift for a special someone in your life. They will last a lifetime. Give for birthdays, anniversaries or just as a wonderful surprise. And even if you choose to tell, your loved one will be amazed and proud that you were clever enough to find such an expensive-looking ring at these remarkably low prices. The difference between it and a natural diamond could make a down payment on a new car, or home, or even a wonderful vacation for just you two!

With Our Guarantee You Take No Risks.

If at the end of 30 days you are not completely satisfied, return by INSURED MAIL for purchase price refund. At any time, or for any reason, and in any condition, you may return your Gemfire simulated diamond by INSURED MAIL for FREE replacement.

LOW PRICE DOESN'T

Mean Low Quality. Gemfire simulated diamonds are not cheap fakes. In fact, Gemfires are carefully cut and polished by skilled craftsmen in the same manner as natural diamonds. They have 58 facets — just like natural diamonds. They are hand set in heavy 18Kt-HGE (heavy gold electroplate), or solid sterling silver by master craftsmen. They shine like a $1,000 diamond — but cost less than $20.00.

EVEN MILLIONAIRES

Wear Simulated Diamonds. Today many wealthy people, TV and movie stars feel unsafe making public appearances wearing expensive jewelry. Oftentimes they keep their diamonds in a safe deposit box and wear these master-crafted Gemfire simulated diamonds and impress your friends!

How to Find Your Ring Size

1. Cut a strip of paper 3 inches long and 1/4 inch wide.

2. Wrap the strip around the finger that is to wear the ring. Then place a dot, on the strip where it meets the end.

3. Place the dot on the strip of paper at "A" on the ring guide. The number at the end of the strip is your ring size.
